ELIOT SEMINARY

FROM ELIOT SEMINARY

The road from Eliot Seminary, founded in 1853 . . . to Washington University in 1949, one of our nation's greatest educational institutions, has been rocky and steep. Moving westward, a few city blocks at a time, building upon itself as it went, the University eventually occupied the verdant, majestice hill just outside of the limits of the city in 1905. But the hand of learning, beckoning always onward and upward, is not content at attaining such an earthly summit . . . it reaches ever higher, finding Strength . . . through Truth.

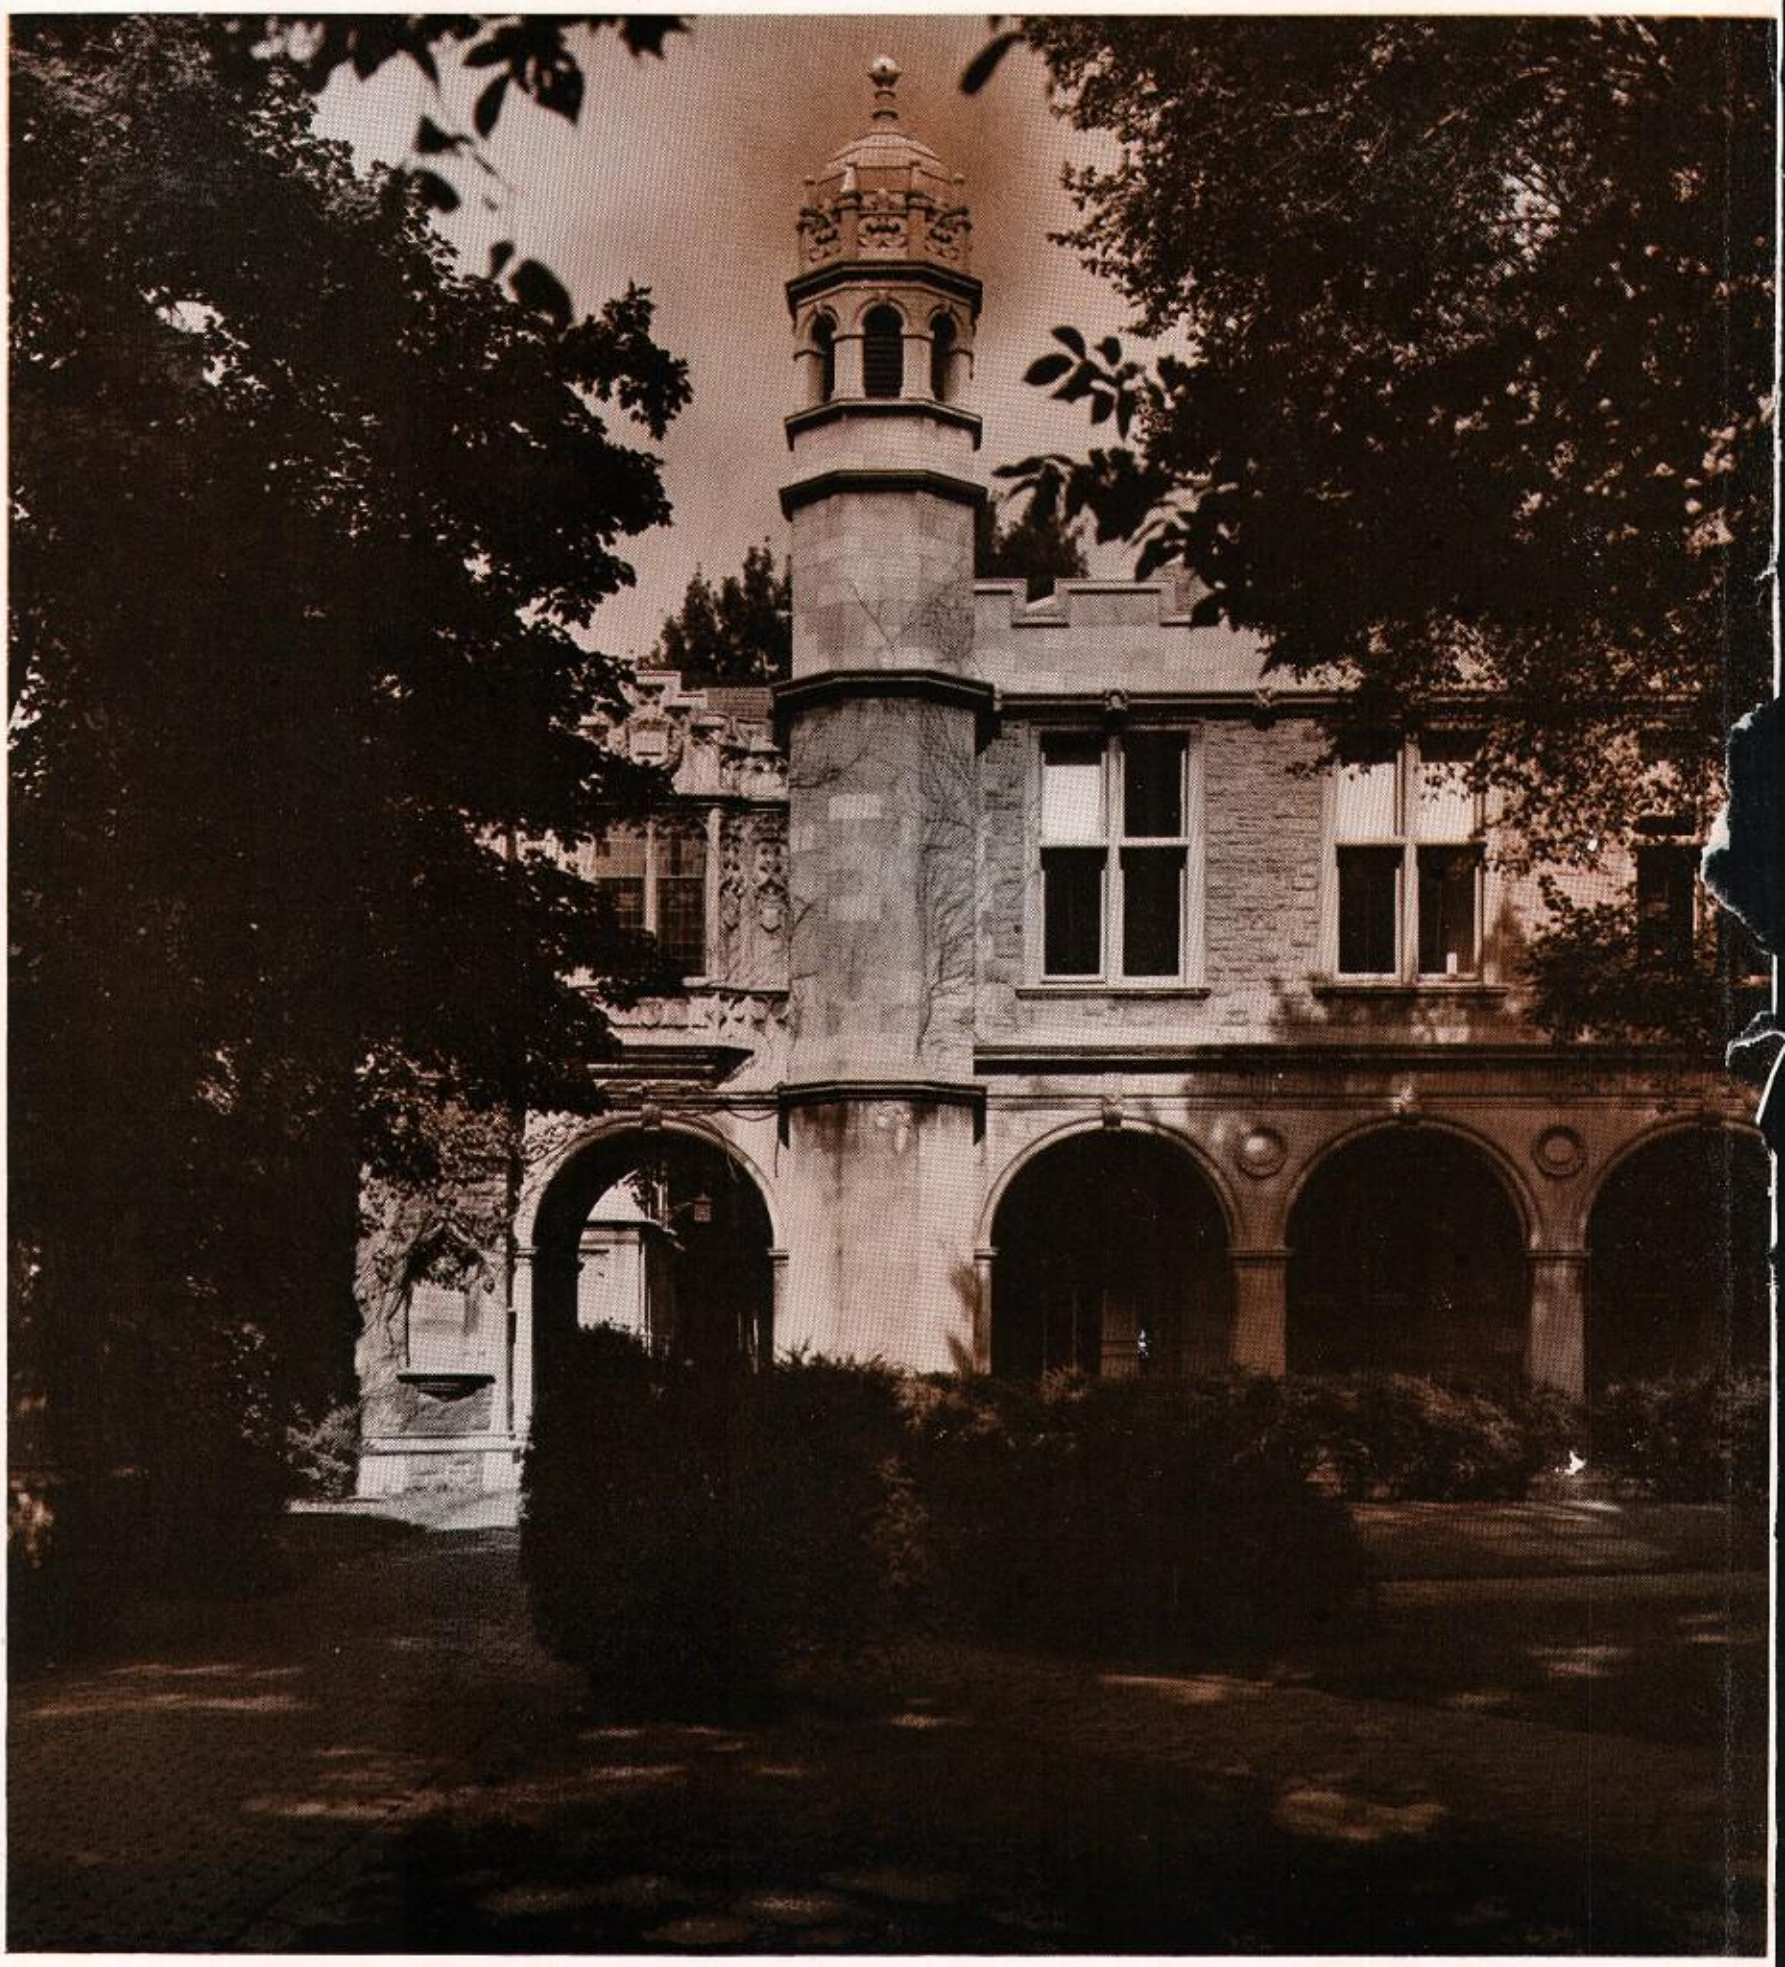
Progress Has Been Our Theme



Throughout the Ages

One year to the day after the charter had been granted to Eliot Seminary, the first meeting of the corporation was held. Out of deference to the wishes of Dr. William G. Eliot, who felt that the institution's lofty purpose should not be impeded by bearing the name of an ordinary man, the University was renamed. Since this meeting was held on February 22, 1854, the incorporators felt that it should bear the name of George Washington, born on the 22nd of February. It seemed significant to the founders, for the character and ideals of this man fitted the institution which they sought to found. On such a firm foundation were built in later years our outstanding schools of medicine, liberal arts, engineering, social science, the arts, and many others.

It is difficult to define the realm of these men's influence. Perhaps it may be measured by the achievements of the hundreds of thousands of men and women who have sought learning and its rewarding truth under their administration. Each of these men have commanded the respect of their faculty and student body, but always looking ahead, have not been content with the past, knowing that progress is not passive.

It is quite fitting that our University, so far-reaching and eternal in its influence, is guided today by Chancellor Arthur Holly Compton. At a time when it is the subject of world-wide debate in which direction "progress" is moving, and the harnessing of the power of the atom touches us all, it is significant that

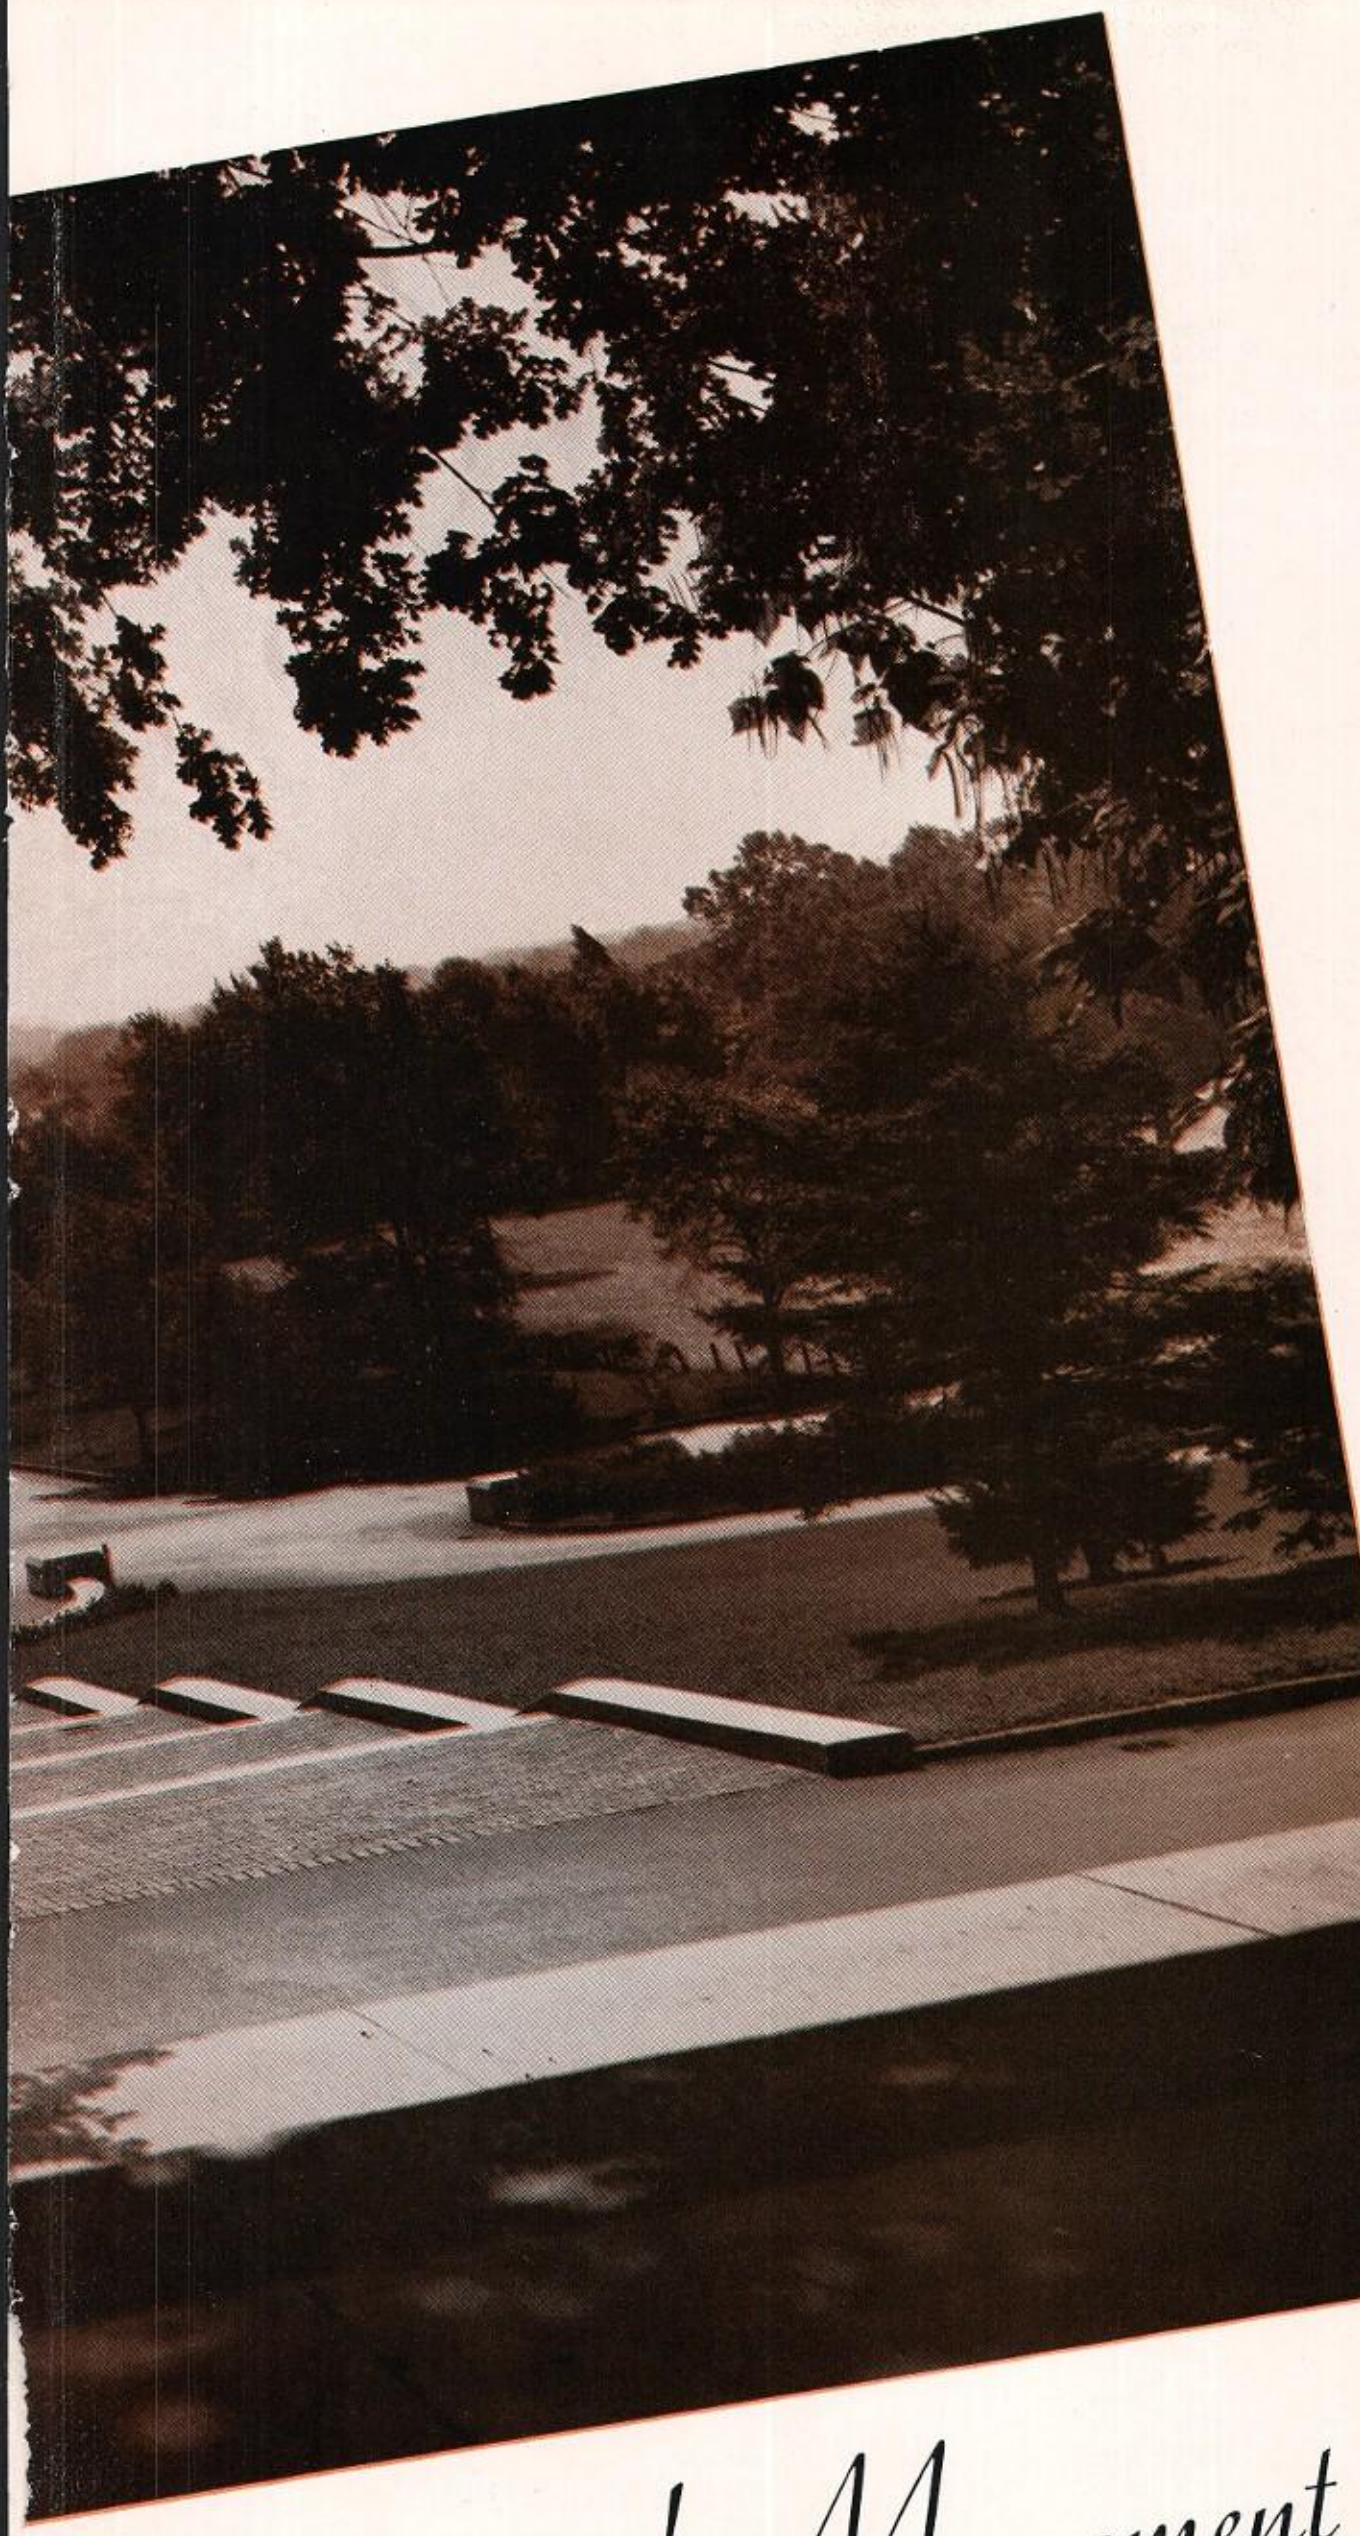
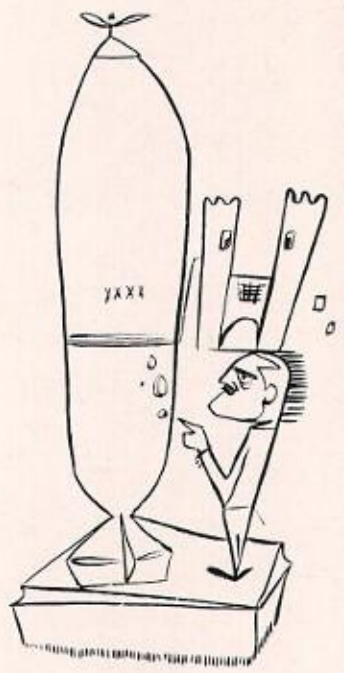
THE HILLTOP



Our Hilltop . . . its buildings and towers rising majestically above the surrounding city . . . a monument to the past . . . a symbol of the future. In the wide sweep of time it has seen man grow wiser . . . and society grow better.



A Monument to Progress

From the 1903 Hatchet

This is the 1949 Hatchet. The Hatchet . . . it too has grown . . . it too reflects the history of our great university. From a small suede-bound edition that was published in 1903, the Hatchet has grown until today it is the equal of any in the nation. 1903 was a tumultous year for all of St. Louis. It was the era of the World's Fair, and it was the period when Washington University occupied its new campus. 1903 is equally famous because it was the year when the first Hatchet was published, and the birth of this world famous publication was heralded the world over. The Hatchet has grown since 1903 . . . it grew right into the raw, roaring twenties, and it assumed the character of a naughty boy during this period. The jokes and the stories that graced the fair pages of Hatchet during this era would make the student's hair stand on end!

The 1949 Hatchet has tried to be different. The editors have tried to make this edition a little unusual, and we hope that we have succeeded. We hope that you the student like this book, but no matter what you think, we the editors still think it is the best book ever! Maybe some of the freshmen who have never seen another Hatchet will agree with us.

BUSCH TOWER . . . Built on a solid foundation of barley, hops and malts, Busch Tower rises above the surrounding buildings in an air of distinction. Campus-wide in its influence, it houses pale, bent figures, poised over their alembics and perusing their copies of Albertus Magnus . . . ever-searching for the universal solvent, everlasting life and a 3.0 average.

The 1949 Hatchet

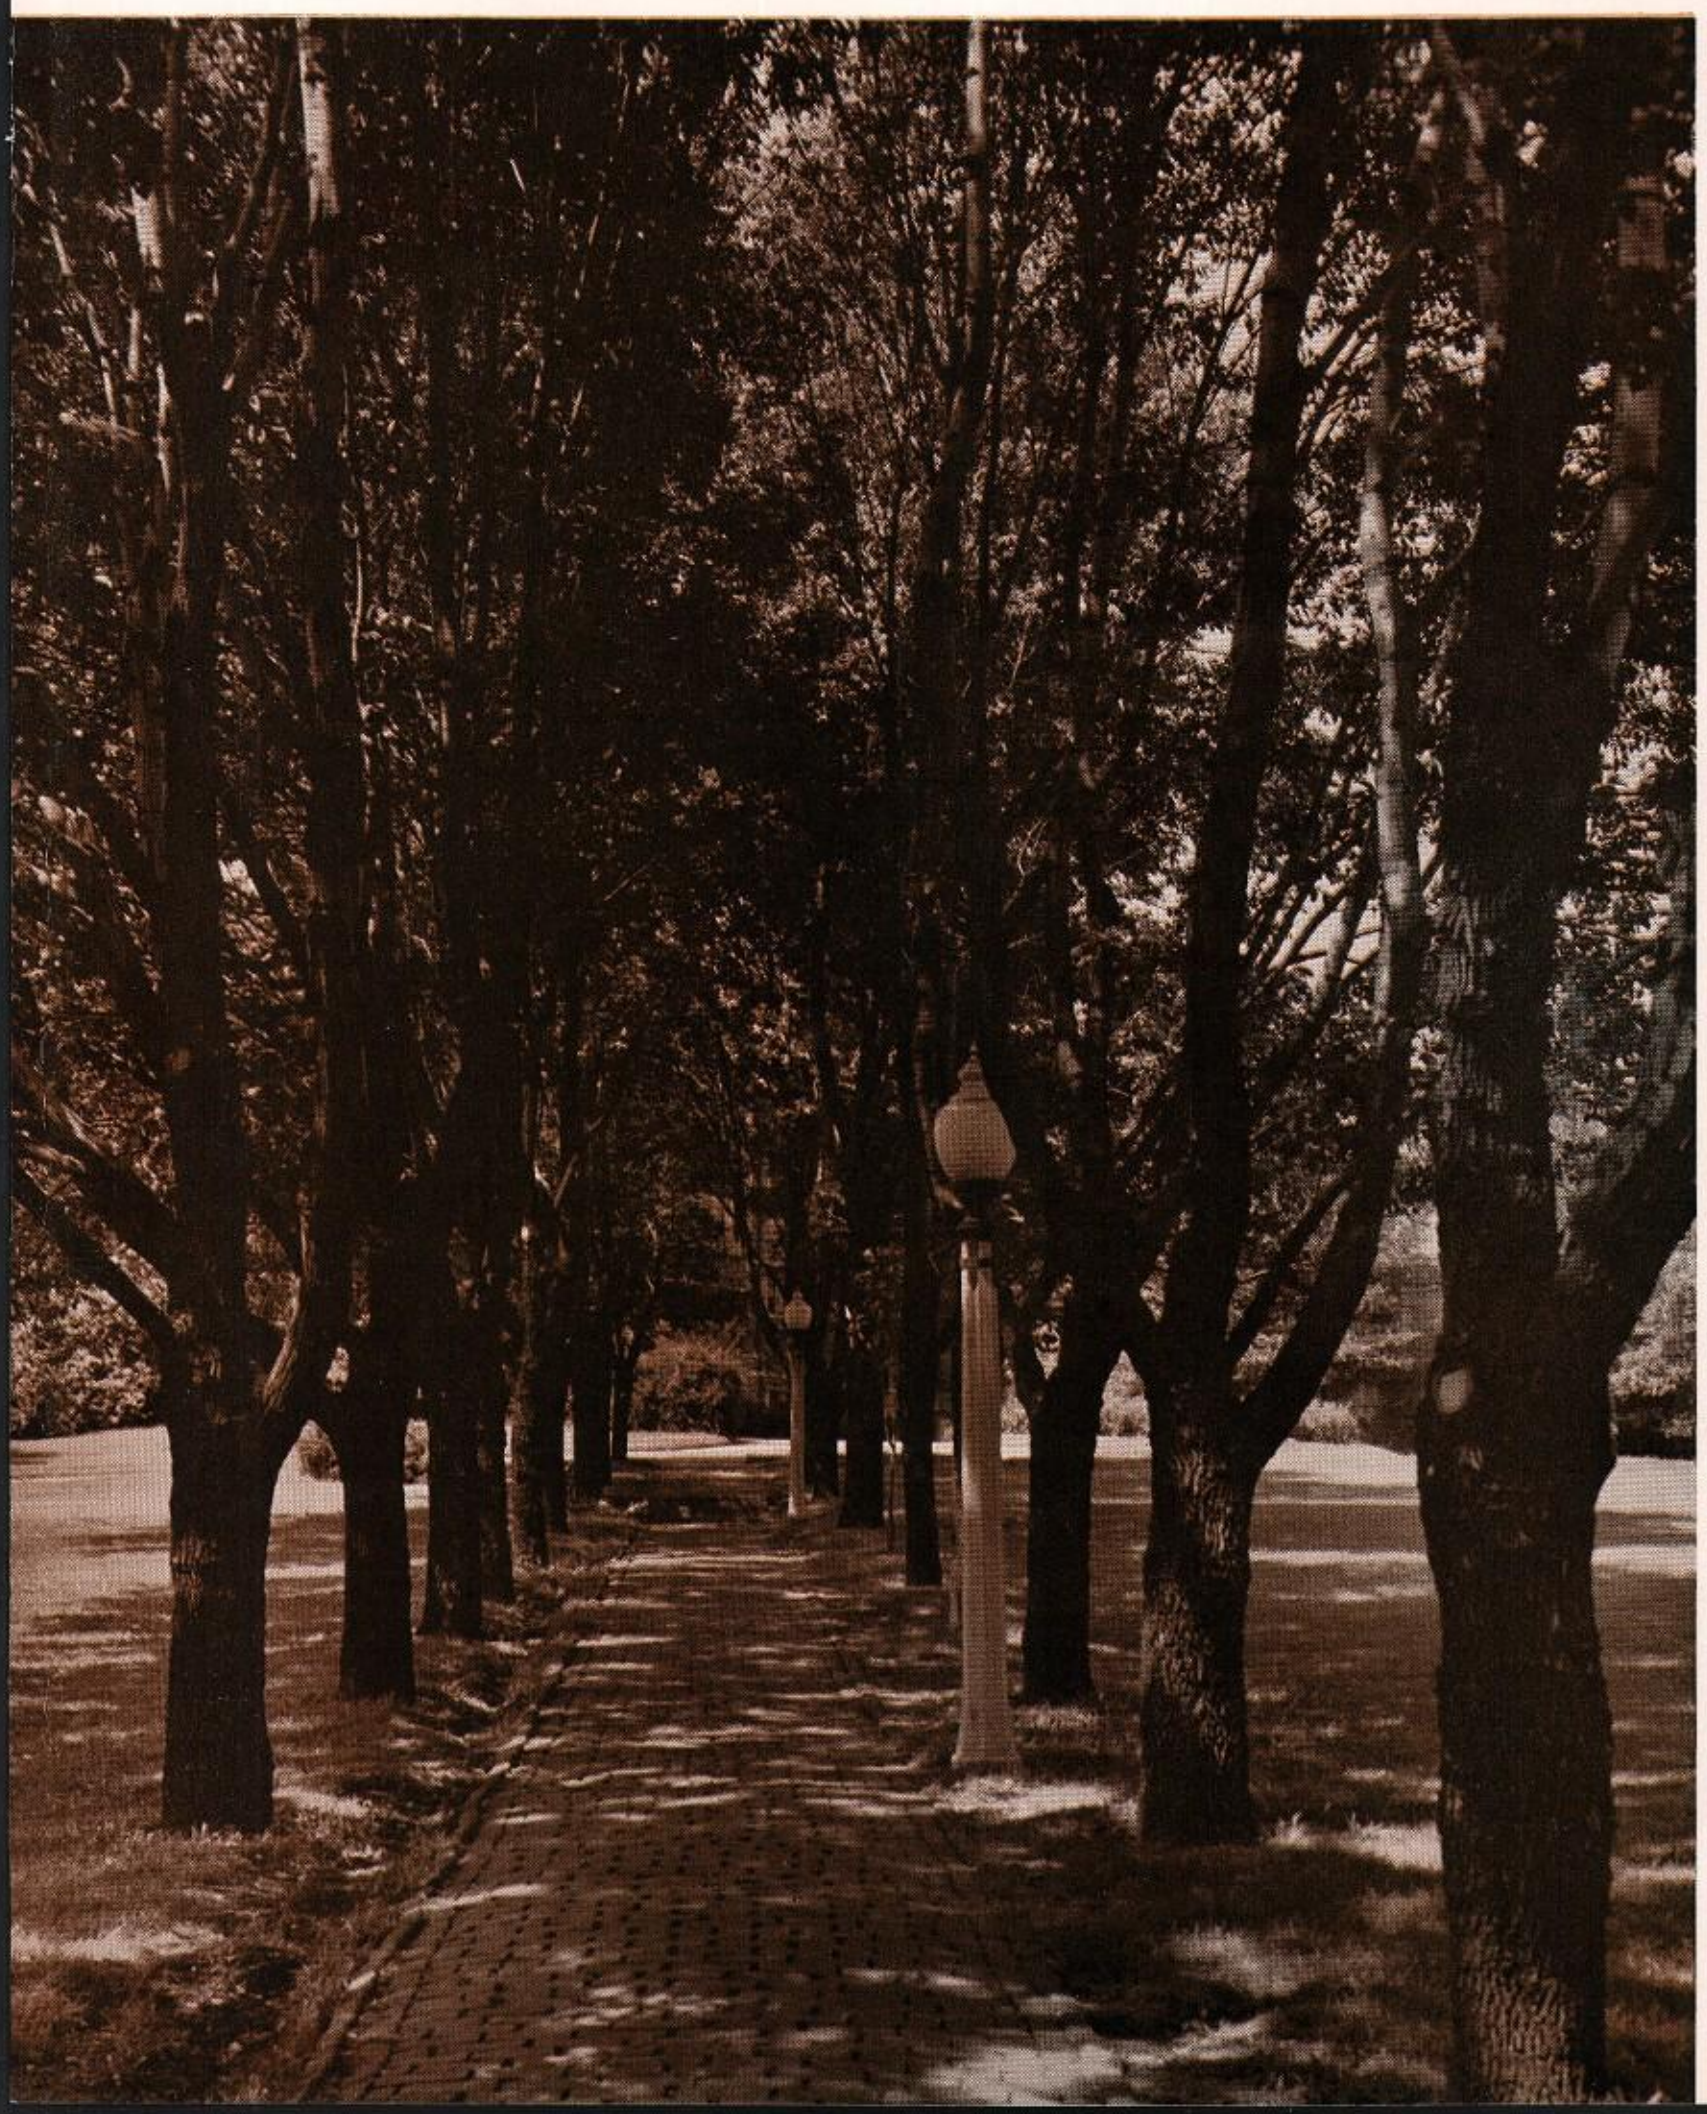
TREES . . . The verdant foliage of the trees form natural hallways for the students to pass through on their way to classes. There are so many trees on campus that we take them for granted . . . not so the St. Louis University students, who sigh longingly as they pass Scrubby's Valhalla.



A Hilltop of Beauty

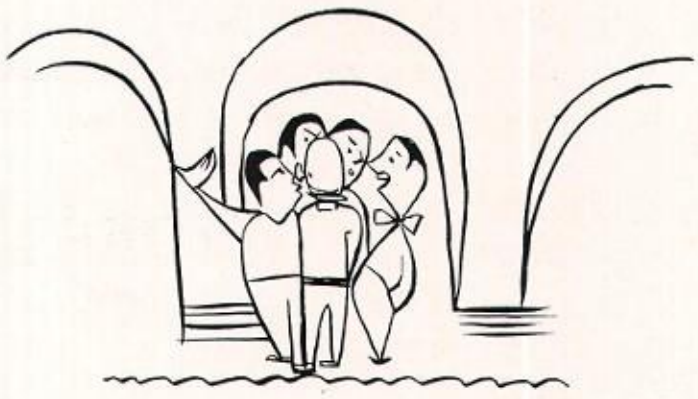
WOMEN'S BUILDING . . . The center of feminine social life, housing the various sorority rooms and scene of meetings, receptions and teas. In the spring its broad expanse of steps serves many ends . . . a constant source of inspiration to the school's women . . . and its men.

TO BE FORGOTTEN



RIDGLEY ARCADE . . . The campus Forum . . . where problems of the day are debated, discussed and discarded for others. Underneath its many arches and the warm sun, the studious pass into the library . . . and the frivolous pass out.

ADMINISTRATION

Necessary Evil

It is really a bit difficult to say anything bad about the administration at Washington University, partly because it would be construed as an unfriendly act, and partly because, in spite of occasional indiscretions, the administration manages to burn the candle at both ends without scorching itself. It is the administration's solemn duty to keep the students and the faculty happy at one time, an obligation which is faithfully fulfilled in theory, if not in practice.

The administrators are people, much like the rest of us. The only difference is that they have been people longer — and have been getting paid for it! Their jobs cover such urgent pursuits as oiling the IBM machines, attending Chancellor Compton's speeches, convincing professors that it would be ridiculous to leave to get a job at Lockheed, and parrying the thrusts of irate students with wild promises, stultifying stock phrases, and other stop-gap methods. All in all, the administration is responsible for a multitude of things, and much to everyone's surprise, usually gets them done.

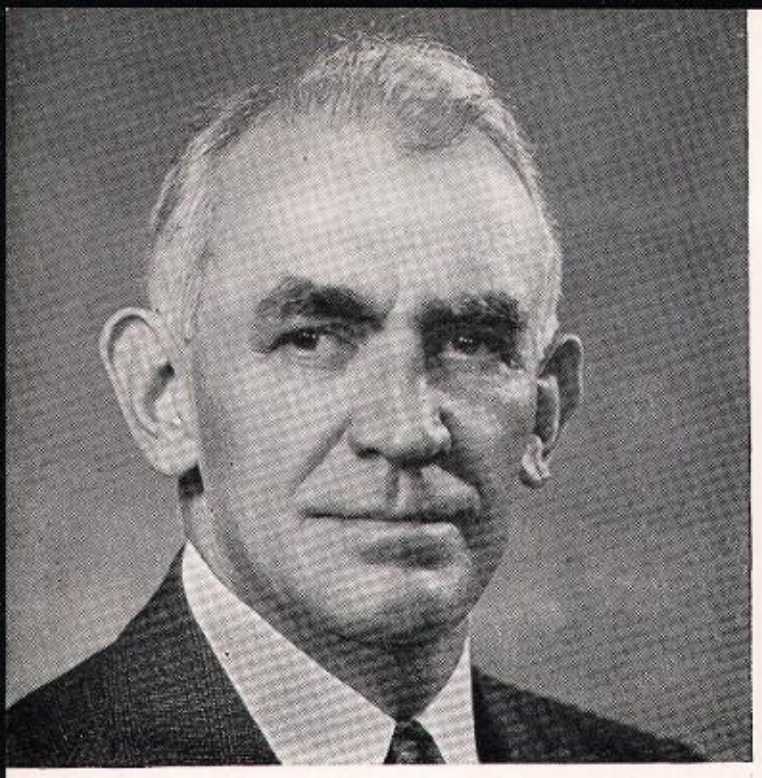
Administrators



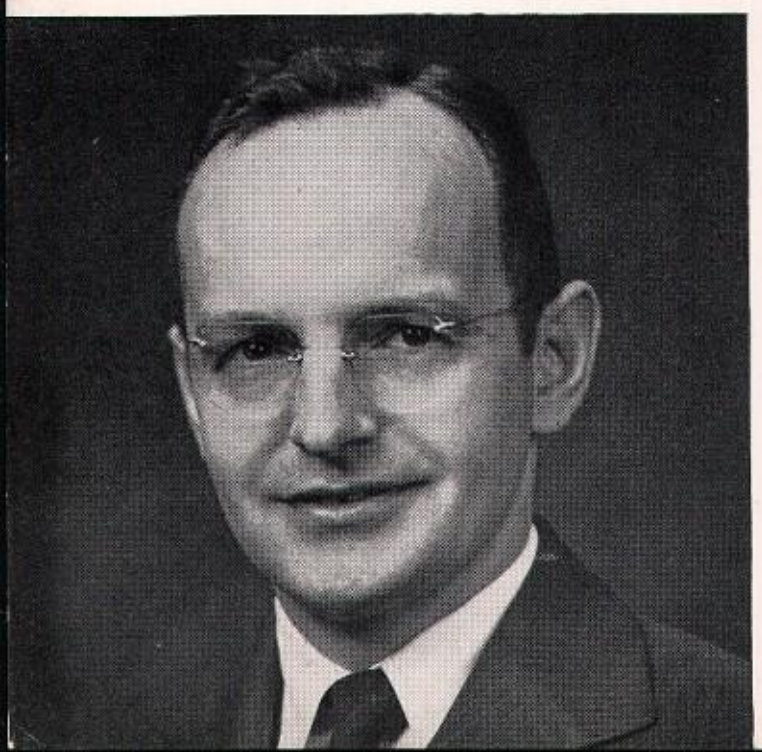
Charles Belknap, Vice-Chancellor, spent last summer at his home in East Blue Hill, Maine, enjoying his favorite pastime, boating. Mr. Belknap has long been interested in ships and, displayed in his office, he has several ship models which he acquired on his various cruises before he retired from the Navy as Commander in 1919.

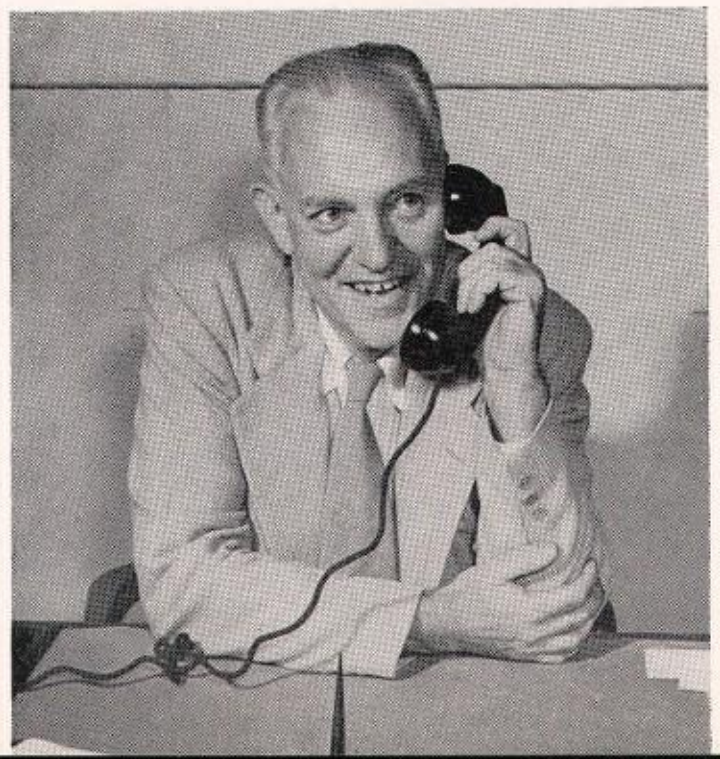
James J. Ritterskamp, Jr., Purchasing Agent for Washington University, gets all the financial headaches from Student Publications in addition to his other duties. Mr. Ritterskamp, who instructs a class in accounting in night school, formerly served as president of the Educational Buyers' Association.

Adele Chomeau Starbird, Dean of Women and head of McMillan Dormitory, attended a conference at the Danforth Foundation in Michigan last fall where the topic "Christianity on the Campus" was discussed. In addition to her many campus responsibilities, Dean Starbird considers her dog, Tory, her chief hobby.

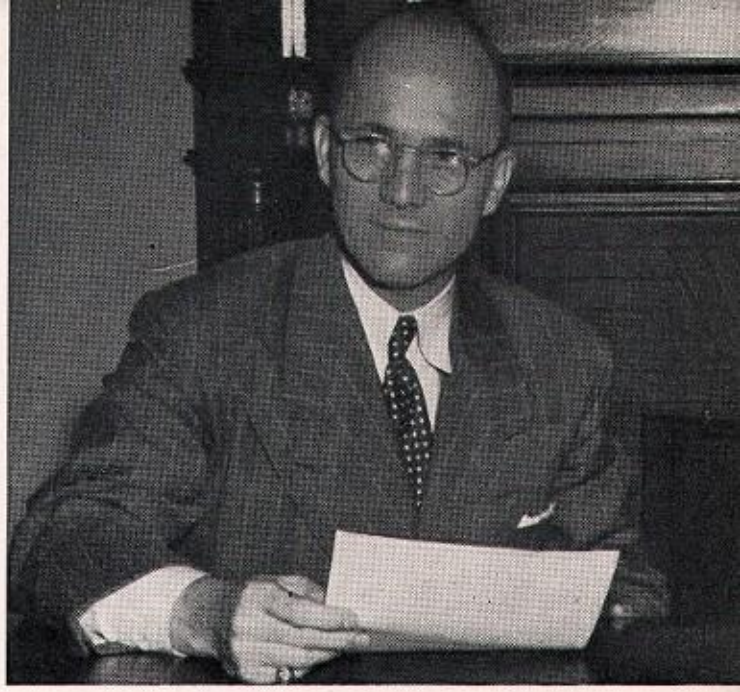
Edward Graham is the busy man with the southern accent who is Acting Dean of Faculties. Dean Graham spent August in Minnesota fishing and introducing his three small children to deer, squirrels, and muskies.

Arno Haack, Dean of Men, has well proved his interest in the welfare of Washington University students in his nineteen years in campus work. He worked first in the Campus "Y" and then shifted to the administrative branch of the university. Dean Haack does not wish to be the type of administrator who tells everyone else what to do, but prefers to work in cooperation with the students.





Douglas Vass Martin, Director of Public Relations, has a great deal to do with the University as an old time grad of the class of 1915. Mr. Martin is chairman of the Alumni Association which has raised almost $300,000 for Washington U. during its existence.



Dr. Thomas K. Blackwell, as Secretary-Treasurer of the University, is responsible for most of the school's financial arrangements and contracts. He was formerly the national secretary-treasurer of the Association of University and College Business Officers.

Administrators

Miss Katharin M. Baker has held the position of Registrar for the past two years. Most of her time last summer was spent in the tremendous task of converting the registration of Washington's students to the I. B. M. system. The genial Miss Baker makes no secret of the fact that she loves nothing better than a good mystery book.

Burton Elair Gullion, director of Physical Education, graduated from Purdue in 924 where he was both All-American and All-Big Ten in basketball. Mr. Gullion is very happy about the success of our amateur athletics and the rise in school spirit that has accompanied it. Next summer Mr. Gullion plans to complete work on his doctor's degree at Columbia.

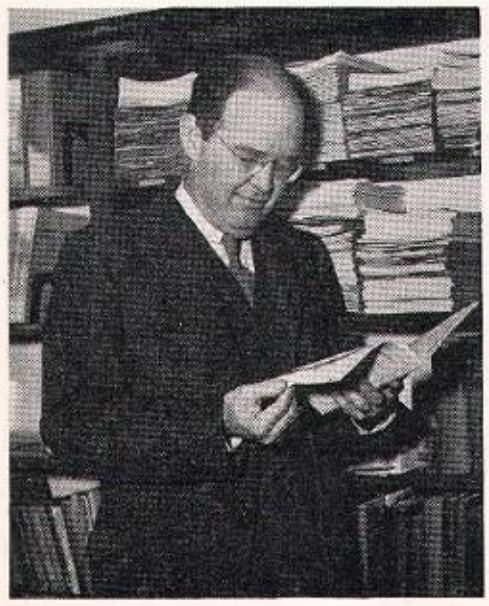
Dean William Glasgow Bowling, Dean of Admissions, has held several other positions of prominence, including Dean of Men and of Liberal Arts, on the Washington U. Campus in past years. His favorite pastime is taking colored motion pictures, and he has taken a series of movies of St. Louis, Missouri, and Vermont. Dean Bowling also is official photographer for the Athletic Department.

Charles E. Cory

Roland G. Usher

Frank W. Bubb

Joseph W. Kennedy



Norman J. DeWitt

Dr. Charles Cory, head of the Philosophy Department, is popular with students on campus for his genuine interest in their welfare, both scholastic and extracurricular. Dr. Cory enjoys playing golf and prefers to spend his summers in the mountains.

Professor Norman J. DeWitt, head of the Latin Departfent, spends most of his spare time editing the monthly magazine "Classical Journal." He enjoys working with mechanical gadgets and has an office full of them. Dr. DeWitt does not consider his duties work, because he really enjoys teaching.

Dr. Roland G. Usher, top man in the History Department since 1912, is also a well-known radio commentator. Although his busy schedule often causes him to miss his game of golf, Dr. Usher fills his leisure time reading good detective stories cnd occasional bridge games.

Dr. Frank W. Bubb, stogie-puffing chief of the Department of Applied Mechanics, likes relaxing with a book on philosophy. His football-playing days gone, he finds recreation in swimming and fishing. Highly cherished by Dr. Bubb are the frequent visits paid him by former students.

Department Heads

Bruce Morrissette

Professor Bruce Morrissette, head of the Romance Language Department, is deeply interested in seventeenth century French literature and has contributed the majority of the articles on French criticism to the Dictionary of World Literature. As a hobby he experiments with radar and electronics.

Dr. Arthur Hughes, head of the Physics Department, has been at Washinbton University since 1923. He was educated in England and, before coming to Washington, taught in Ontario, Canada. Since the physics department has been enlarged, Dr. Hughes has had little time for his hobby, photography.

Dr. John P. Nafe, the Psychology Department's head, also follows psychology as a hobby. When he is not busy getting text books and classrooms for the many psych students of Washington University, he experiments on human feelings. Dr. Nafe has attracted nationwide attention for his research on skin pressure and pain.

Professor Joseph W. Kennedy, head of the Chemistry Department, was engaged in atomic research work at Los Alamos, New Mexico, before he came to Washington University. Dr. Kennedy spent much of the past summer working on the new book "Introduction to Radiochemistry" of which he is co-author.

Dr. Viktor Hamburger, head of the Department of Zoology, graduated from the University of Freiburg in Germany and has been teaching at Washington University for thirteen years. Dr. Hamburger has little time for his favorite hobbies, hiking and skiing, but finds time for reading and traveling.

Dr. Frank L. Wright, head of the Department of Education, has a busy life at Washington U. handling the placements of students preparing to teach. He is a former national president of Kappa Delta Phi, educational honorary. Dr. Wright's busy schedule has forced him to forego his summer pastime, mountain climbing.

Lewis Thomas

Dr. W. Roy Mackenzie, head of the English Department, is well-known throughout the country as an authority on Shakespeare and medieval English. He is very interested in the theater and also likes to read law and history. During the summer months Dr. Mackenzie is active outdoors, sailing and swimming in Nova Scotia.

Professor Roy S. Glasgow, head of the Electrical Engineering Department, is a W.U. grad of the class of 1918. Except for a leave of absence to do research work for the War Department from 1941 to 1945, he has been with us since his graduation. Professor Glasgow installed the St. Louis police radio and is still a consultant for it.

Dr. Lewis Thomas, head of the Geography Department, is also chairman of the University City Plan commission this year. He is an active member of the Metropolitan Census Club. During the summer months Dr. Thomas travels in the United States. Last summer he visited New England.

Mr. Walter J. Leighton, head of the Mathematics Department, serves as both an instructor and research worker. In addition to his academic duties, he serves as Washington's faculty representative for the national intercollegiate bridge tournament.

Department Heads

Dr. Wenzil Dolva came to St. Louis from Denver in 1946 to be head of the Department of Retailing. This January he plans to accompany a group of students to the National Retail Dry Goods Convention in New York. Dr. Dolva's favorite sports are golf and "grandstand athletics."

Dr. A. Gwendolyn Drew is the vivacious lady in charge of the Women's Physical Education Department. She enjoys sports immensely and tries to get in a swim at least once a day. Dr. Drew does not confine her interests to sports, however, for she likes to attend the theater regularly.

Dr. Carl Tolman, head of the Geology Department and dean of the Graduate School, finds that his duties here on campus and those he has as consulting engineer for a mining company have recently kept him from pursuing his favorite pastime, traveling. Dr. Tolman also enjoys photography and mountain climbing.

Dr. George Mylonas, head of the Archaeology Department, is counting the hours until he can go back to his "beloved dirt." He is disappointed that a girl surpassed him at deciphering pre-historic Greek script, but he was handicapped because his classes consume so much time. Dr. Mylonas is the Greek representative in the International Congress of Geologists.

Dr. Fred O. Nolte, head of the German Department, is the author of several books and articles on drama and European literature. He has also taken an interest in Washington's new football policy and he is glad we do not follow a plan of subsidization, having seen the results of this practice at other colleges.

Professor Raymond R. Tucker, chief of the Department of Mechanical Engineering, has as his chief outside interests his two children, Joan and John, and finds relaxation in his hobby, golf. Professor Tucker is a member of Tau Beta Pi and Sigma Xi.

The College of Liberal Arts to some extent provides the foundation for every school at Washington University. The "College" includes a wide variety of courses with which nearly every student comes into contact. Regularly enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts this year were over twenty-three hundred students who were working toward Bachelor of Arts degrees or preparing for specialized work in other schools.

The "College" this year was under the direction of Dean Stuart A. Queen. Assisting him in the administration of the school were Deans Dana O. Jensen, and Albert E. Goldstein. The basic college program of "L. A." was expanded this year to include many more students. Under the direction of Dr. Thomas S. Hall of the Zoology Department, this program aims to provide the student with a basic foundation for further specialized study.

Two new services have been organized this year under the capable supervision of Dr. Winifred Magdsick. Vocational guidance tests were made available free of charge to all freshmen and at a charge of ten dollars to other students. Reading clinics were also started during the second semester. An old service, the counseling program, was reinstated this year under the Psychology Department to help students with study problems.

The School of Law, in 1867

The Washington University School of Law is an old and distinguished institution. Not only do its eighty-two years make it the oldest affiliated law school in continuous operation west of the Mississippi, but the number of outstanding men associated with the school, in past and present, points to the quality of its curriculum. Such men as founder Henry Hitchcock, a president of the American Bar Association, and Wiley B. Rutledge, later Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, have served as deans. The school is also a charter member of the Association of American Law Schools, which Dean William S. Curtis was instrumental in forming.

From its first year, 1867, the Law School has held Moot Courts to give students practice in preparing briefs and arguing cases in appellate courts. At present, the practice is for judges of the St. Louis Area to make their courtrooms available to the school for the final trials. Members of the Bar sit at these trials to judge the relative merits of the contending students.

For more than a quarter century, the school has been publishing its Law Quarterly, to which students and prominent members of the profession are invited to contribute. A board of editors is selected annually from the student body to solicit leading articles, edit, and publish the work.

Engineering

The name of the School of Engineering first appeared in the catalogues of Washington University for the school year 1867-1868. Before this time, a few technical courses had been offered by the O'Fallon Polytechnic Institute which had been established under the charter of Eliot Seminary.

With the formal organization of the School of Engineering as a part of Washington University, several new fields of technical study were added. Instruction in chemical engineering was first offered in 1870. Mining engineering was added in 1871 and continued as a part of the curriculum until 1892; during this time, this field of engineering instruction was known as the foremost of its kind in the country.

Since moving to Hilltop in 1905, the engineers have continued to expand. From the 75 to 100 students registered in that year, the number enrolled has multiplied as many times as has the years, so that today, three buildings are crowded with the school's 1200 students. Accompanying the growth in numbers and the space required has been a continuous revision of curriculum due for the teaching of new developments in the field of engineering.

In recent years, particularly since the close of the war, the school has acquired a great deal of new equipment, including engines and materials testing machines. Though crowded into a comparatively small space, the machine shop is considered one of the finest in any college in the United States. But space expansion is badly needed. Another building will eventually be built between Cupples II and Crow: Meanwhile the school happily accepts Sever Institute for its pride and joy. With its new laboratories, library, and lecture halls, the building stands as a symbol of the aggressive progress of the Engineering School of Washington University.

The School of Fine Arts, one of the oldest schools of Washington University, was founded in 1879 in downtown St. Louis where the University was then located. Its founding was unusually significant, for connected with the Art School was an art gallery which in later years became a municipal institution. The first curator of the City Art Museum was Halsey C. Ives, director of the School of Fine Arts, and even today many items in the permanent display are the property of Washington University.

Bixby Hall, the St. Louis School of Fine Arts

Fine Arts

After the 1904 World's Fair, the Art School moved to a building on the present campus which had housed the British Dominions Exhibit during the Fair. The School continued to occupy this building until 1926 when William K. Bixby, a prominent businessman, presented Bixby Hall to the Art School. Some of the interior decorations from the British Dominions Building were used in the new hall.

It is now possible for the student in the Fine Arts School to major in any of several fields of specialized training. Originally the School was devoted to instruction in painting and sculpture only, but the curriculum has been expanded to include crafts, commercial art, advertising art, and — the most recent additions — dress design and design for industry. Two four-year programs are offered by the School. To students graduating with fine arts credits only, a Certificate of Attainment is awarded; to those with credits in both fine and liberal arts, the degree of Bachelor of Fine Arts is presented.

Headed by Dean Kenneth Hudson, all thirty-three members of the faculty are practising artists in the fields in which they instruct, some having achieved national and international fame. The School also has many outstanding graduates, including Douglas Crockwell and the late McClelland Barclay, both prominent as cover illustrators and aavertising artists.

Shaw's Garden

In 1885, Henry Shaw set aside a small bequest to found a School of Botany in order to integrate the scientific efforts of Washington University with those of the Missouri Botanical Garden. From that small beginning the School has developed to its present status, with an undergraduate division offering courses in botany, microbiology, and horticulture and a graduate division. On the graduate level diversity of major lines of investigation are offered, including taxonomy, genetics, physiology, paleobotany, mycology, and certain phases of horticulture and microbiology. The curriculum has been expanded in order to train students in certain of the most significant fields of botanical science and to continue a record of productive research.

The Henry Shaw School of Botany this year was under the capable administration and guidance of Acting Dean Henry N. Andrews, Jr., well-known paleobotanist of this area. Dean Andrews is also president of the Washington University chapter of Sigma Xi, scientific honorary.

In 1891 the St. Louis Medical College, formerly known as Pope's College, became affiliated with Washington University. Chancellor Robert S. Brookings' ambition to create a model medical school in the midwest resulted in the reorganization of the Medical School in 1910 with full-time personnel heading all departments.

Since that time, St. Louis Children's Hospital, which is widely known as a progressive center for the advancement of pediatrics, and Barnes Hospital have provided the nucleus around which the Medical School has grown. Also included in the extensive facilities for teaching and research are St. Louis Maternity Hospital, the Rand-Johnson Surgical Building, Mallinckrodt Radiological Institute and McMillan Hospital for eye, ear, nose, and throat research and treatment. In 1938 the Rockefeller Foundation gave support to Washington University for a full-time Department of Neurophychiatry, and psychiatric patients also are now treated at McMillan Hospital.

Dean Otto W. Brandhorst

The Washington University School of Dentistry, which came into existence in 1866 as the Missouri Dental College, was organized by the Missouri State Dental Association, and has the honor of being the first school of its kind west of the Mississippi River.

In 1892, the college became a department of Washington University under the name Washington University Dental Department; in 1909, the name was changed to Washington University School of Dentistry. This is the second year that it has worked in co-operation with the graduate school of the University.

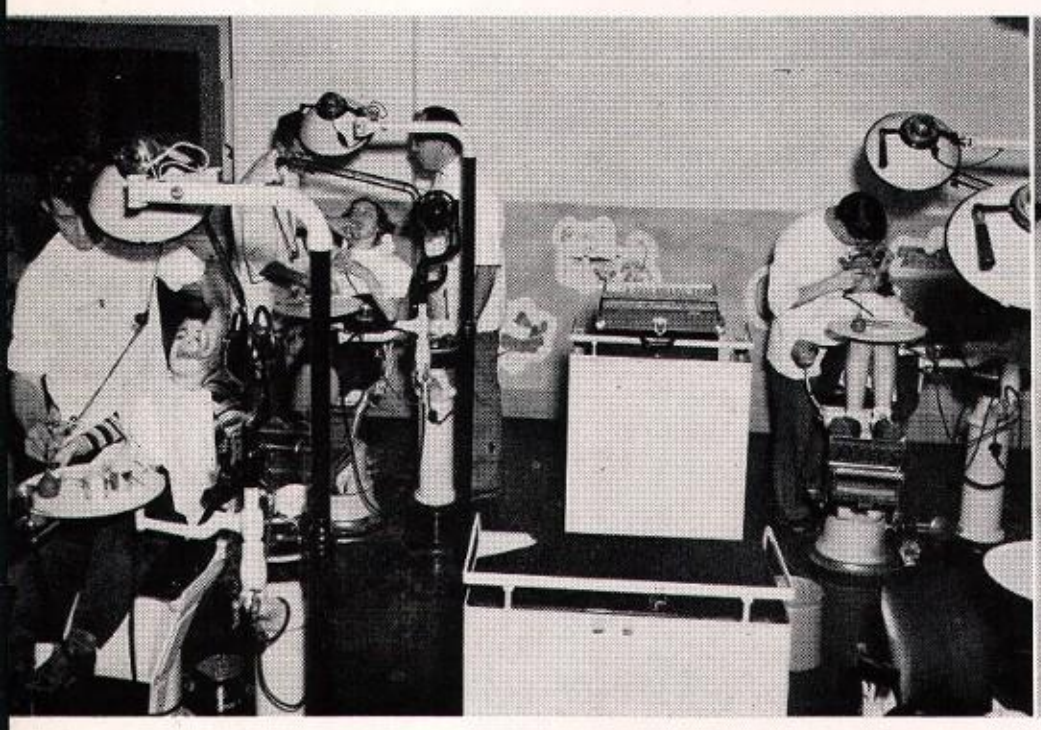
The School of Dentistry is a member of the American Association of Dental Schools and is on the Council on Dental Education of the American Dental Association.

Otto W. Brandhorst has been Dean for three years and previously had been on the faculty for 15 years. Under his administration the Dental School offers undergraduate, graduate, and postgraduate training. The course of dentistry includes instruction in anatomy; bacteriology and pathology; biochemistry, physiology and nutrition; materials and technology; dental medicine; operative dentistry; orthodontics; dental pediatrics; principles of dentistry; prosthetics; crown and bridge prosthesis; radiodontics; and dental surgery.

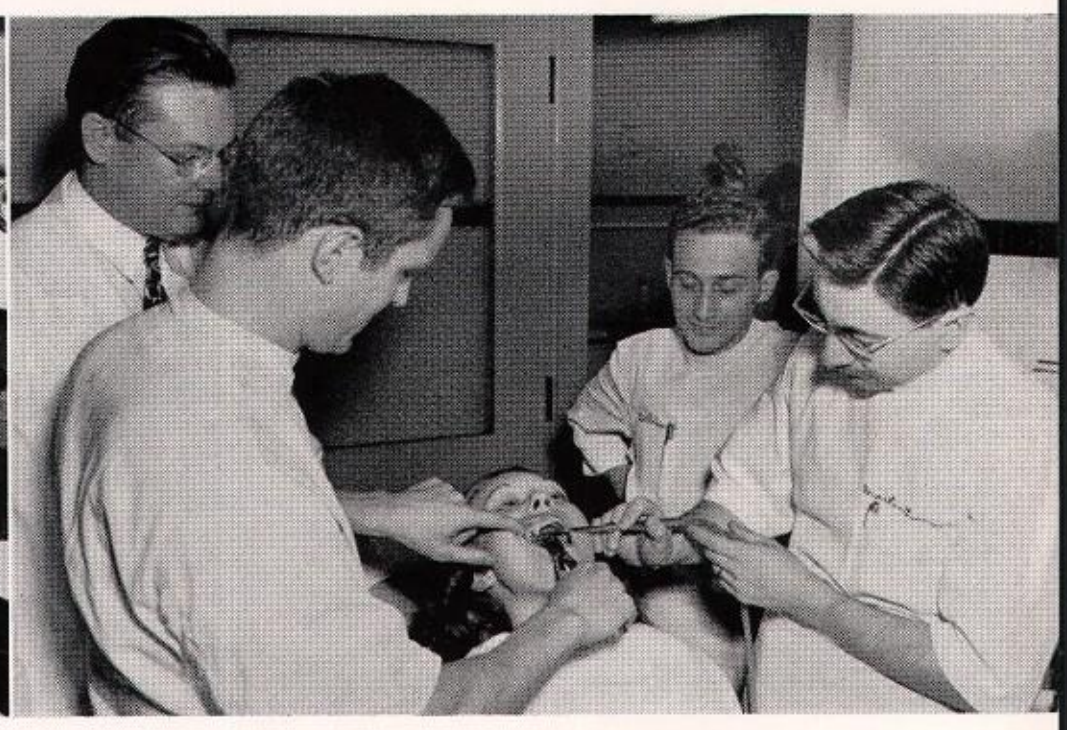
Social activities for the dental students are planned by the School of Dentistry Student Council, the student governing body. The purpose of this council is to effect closer contact between the faculty and the student body.

Chapters of three social dental fraternities are Delta Sigma Delta, Xi Psi Phi, and Alpha Omega. Washington University was one of the first schools to establish a chapter of Omicron Kappa Upsilon, honorary dental fraternity. Admission to this organization is based on scholarship and character; and only a few students are selected from each graduating class.

Get your "dirty" hands out of my mouth.



Extraction distraction.



The enrollment in the School of Dentistry has increased from last year's total of 132 to 157 this year.

Several scholarships, loan funds, and prizes are available to dental students. The Washington University Dental Alumni Association Prize is awarded to the graduate with the highest scholastic average for his four years of study; a Certificate of Merit is given to the graduate who has shown unusual aptitude, skill, and interest in the dental care of children. Xi Psi Phi awards two honors each year: a scholarship to the highest scholastic standing for his first two years (this is primarily in recognition of general excellence in basic sciences), and the Anna Bredall Award, a key given to two senior students for proficiency in the use of amalgam as a filling material for teeth.

1901 - - Architecture

The erection of Givens Hall was made possible by a gift of $850,000 which was presented to the university on November 17, 1930 by Joseph B. Givens. The money was given to commemorate the interest of the donor's father in Washington U., since he had erected all of the University's buildings, including the original group at Seventeenth and Washington, before his retirement in 1891. $300,000 of this donation was applied toward a permanent building for the School of Architecture with a $100,000 endowment fund for its maintenance. The remaining $450,000 was used to create a scholarship fund for deserving students.

Construction on the new building was begun in April, 1931, and the cornerstone was laid November 14, 1931. As a special feature of Homecoming on November 22, 1932, Givens Hall was formally dedicated.

The beginning of what is now the School of Architecture was some sixty years ago. Courses that were creditable toward the degree of "Architect" were available to juniors and seniors aspiring to be architects rather than civil engineers. Only four students enrolled in this specialized course of study, and only one persevered long enough to acquire the first and only degree of "Architect" in June, 1881. For the next twenty years interest in architecture lay dormant. In 1902, the Architectural School was put into the hands of Frederick M. Mann, who did much for enlarging the scope of the school before he resigned in 1910.

Today the School of Architecture has two hundred and twenty-five regularly enrolled students. The severence of old bonds with the Engineering School has been completed, and the School of Architecture now stands on an independent basis.

Nursing Began

The School of Nursing, affiliated with the Barnes Hospital Group, has increased its enrollment from five student nurses, who received training forty-three years ago when the school was established, to 206 future nurses taking part in the closely integrated academic and clinical program of today.

Under the directorship of Miss Louise Knapp the students have a full schedule of study, work, and play. The probation period is spent in concentrated study of such sciences as anatomy, physiology, microbiology, chemistry, and pharmacology in addition to gaining a thorough knowledge of expert bed-making, bath-giving, and professional ethics.

By the time the student has graduated from the wearing of black stockings to the wearing of white stockings and nurse's cap, she has spent considerable time in clinical work of various types while, at the same time, attending classes in medicine, surgery, obstetrics, psychiatry and pediatrics. At the completion of the three-year course, the girl's knowledge of medicine and professional skills qualifies her to become a registered, graduate nurse.

Life in the School of Nursing is not all work, however. Miss Shirley Cochran, the social director, helps the students plan formal proms, Christmas parties, a Valentine's Day dance, an annual excursion on the Admiral, and many informal parties where the students learn to know each other better and also have a chance to meet the members of the faculty.

The girls live in the Nurses' Residence at 416 South Kingshighway where spacious lounges and the "Rose Room," a gaily decorated recreation room, offer facilities for dancing and entertaining guests.

An active Student Council, with officers elected from the student body and representatives from each class, acts as the governing and disciplinary committee and also plans interesting programs for monthly meetings.

If you have wondered how and when that unpopular institution of Saturday classes was started, you may be interested in knowing that they were started in 1908 by the Division of University Extension of Washington University. Evening classes were begun in 1915. In 1931 the corporation established the University College, which took over the Saturday and evening classes, and granted it the power to give the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education. This year there are about 6,300 students in the evening classes and over 700 in the regular day program of the University College.

University College 1915

Students preparing for elementary and secondary school teaching who desire a B. S. instead of an A. B. degree are engaged in the day program of the University College. University College also trains teachers for the Central Institute for the Deaf. There is also a special day program for veterans and transfer students who are unable to fit into other school divisions because of uneven credit units, late enrollment, or other reasons. These students' programs are adjusted so that they may enter professional training in other divisions as rapidly as possible.

The evening school program of University College offers many cultural, recreational, and technical subjects in addition to the courses found in the regular college curriculum. Students in the evening classes range from 18 to 70 years of age. It is now possible for many to complete all the requirements for a B. S. degree in the evening and late afternoon courses.

Business - - 1917

Duncker Hall, home of the Washington University School of Business and Public Administration, was founded in honor of one of the university's prominent graduates, the late Captain Charles H. Duncker, Jr. A brilliant and popular student, Captain Duncker graduated from Washington University in 1914 with a Bachelor of Arts degree, completing his study in three and one-half years.

Duncker's father, wishing that the memory of his son's scholastic record might be preserved, gave money to Washington University which was used for the erection of a new building. The cornerstone of Duncker Hall, Business and Public Administration School, was laid June 13, 1923.

Since that time, Duncker Hall has been the scene of much activity and hard work. Four basic courses are now offered to the students: business administration, public administration, foreign service, and retailing. The large building at the northwest corner of the Quad also houses the Department of Commerce and Finance and is adequately equipped with complete laboratory facilities for classes in accounting and statistics. A reference library is also maintained for the use of Commerce and Finance students.

The School of Business and Public Administration can justly be proud of its rapidly growing Department of Retailing which has the strong backing of the retail businessmen of St. Louis. It is nationally known for its comprehensive course of study combined with work experience. Students now work in Such fine material.

There's no accounting for it.

Captain Duncker's career after graduation was interrupted by America's entrance into World War I. At that time he joined the army and received his rank of Captain in the A.E.F.'s Field Artillery. Captain Duncker was killed in action in France in 1918, and in recognition of his services, a Post of the American Legion was named in his honor.

downtown stores two days a week. This type of education and laboratory work is offered in the hope that the school may graduate a body of better trained young people who will be able to fill responsible executive positions in the future.

Under the direction this year of Charles Belknap, who served in the capacity of Acting Dean, the administration of the School's activities was capably carried out. Mr. Charles E. Gilliland held the position of Assistant to the Dean.

Lots of figures but no girls.

It's social, but is it work?

Wasting time.

School of

The origin of the School of Social Work stemmed from a request of the St. Louis Provident Association in 1923 that a curriculum in social work be established at Washington University. By the fall of 1925 courses in social work were organized in the Department of Sociology under the College of Liberal Arts. In 1927 the School of Business and Public Administration took charge of the social work curriculum, establishing a special department for it.

In the spring of 1928 Mrs. George Warren Brown gave to the Department of Social Work a sum of money left by her late husband. Upon Mrs. Brown's death in 1934, the Department received her estate.

Not until the fall of 1945 was the School of Social Work established in an independent status. At this time Dr. Benjamin E. Youngdahl became the first dean of the school. A firm believer in active participation in social work, Dr. Youngdahl like many members of his staff holds offices in various social work organizations. In addition to being president of the American Association of Schools of Social Work and a member of the Board of Directors of the Child Welfare League of America, he is also vice-president of the National Conference of Social Work and the Inter-National Schools of Social Work. During World War II Dr. Youngdahl served on the staff of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration. By his fine example he is able to encourage and emphasize leadership in his students.

Social Work - - 1945

The School offers two courses of training to students. The ordinary course consists of four years of college and two years of professional training leading to the degree of Master of Social Work. Also, because of the increased need for people to carry out the work of agencies, the School offers a Junior Professional curriculum to undergraduates in their junior and senior years. This course of study prepares the student for work in a social agency or for further study in the professional field.

While the other schools at Washington draw a large percentage of their students from St. Louis, the School of Social Work has students representing thirty different states and three foreign countries. The enrollment of the School has increased one third this year; Negroes were admitted to the School for the first time last spring.

The Department of Occupational Therapy is a very important part of Washington University's Medical School and one that is becoming increasingly well-known. The most distinctive features of the Department are the curriculum, the type of student government, and the social life of the students.

"To promote the patient's recovery" is the purpose of occupational therapy, and the curriculum is based on this philosophy. The students, principally girls, have five different types of courses concerning the physical aspect, psychological aspect, theory, application of occupational therapy, social sciences, and skills activities. After completing two years of pre-professional and two years of professional work (mentioned above), the student is required to have ten months of clinical service, with not more than three months in the same hospital. The girls in the Class of '49 have made plans to intern in hospitals in Canada and from New York to San Francisco.

Jewelry and metalwork, ceramics, design, woodwork, and weaving are among the many subjects in skilled activities that aid the therapist in helping the patient toward total rehabilitation. The choice of medium used is based on the individual's needs after much pre-vocational testing. Laboratories in which the student learns these many crafts comprise the most interesting parts of the school to an outsider.

Watch the wheels go round.
Very classy.

Occupational Therapy

WUSOTA, Washington University Student Occupational Therapy Association, is probably the most powerful and democratic student government in the entire University system. Last year the organization drew up a governing plan to be effective this year regarding the number of "cuts" to be allowed per student per class. The number of absences is now unrestricted as long as the person's work is kept up to standard level. There is a three member mediation board that meets weekly to judge tardiness and other offenses. WUSOTA is in complete charge of the school storeroom and the library. The Association also sponsors all social affairs of the year given by the students.

Dorothy L. Flint, Acting Director

The white blouse and green jumper with the red and green O.T. emblem is not the only attire of the school's twenty-five students. This uniform is exchanged quite frequently for more suitable social garments. The girls sponsor an annual dance in the Medical School lounge which is open to the entire medical center. For the different holidays they paint and decorate windows of many hospitals throughout the city. A beautiful pine-paneled student recreation room is the scene of monthly dinner meetings which feature guest speakers outstanding in the medical field. Several small parties during the year round out the O.T. social calendar.

Penny ante?

Cutting up.

Forsyth House

The School of Music was established at Washington University in September, 1947, as the result of a bequest left for that purpose by the late Avis Blewett. At present the School occupies the first floor of Forsyth House, but hopes to have a building of its own in the near future.

Forsyth House, which was originally built by the University as a home for the chancellor, is now furnished completely with Miss Blewett's household pieces. Classes are held in the original dining room, while the butler's pantry now serves as record storage space. The living room provides listening space for all who care to come in and enjoy the School's fine record collection.

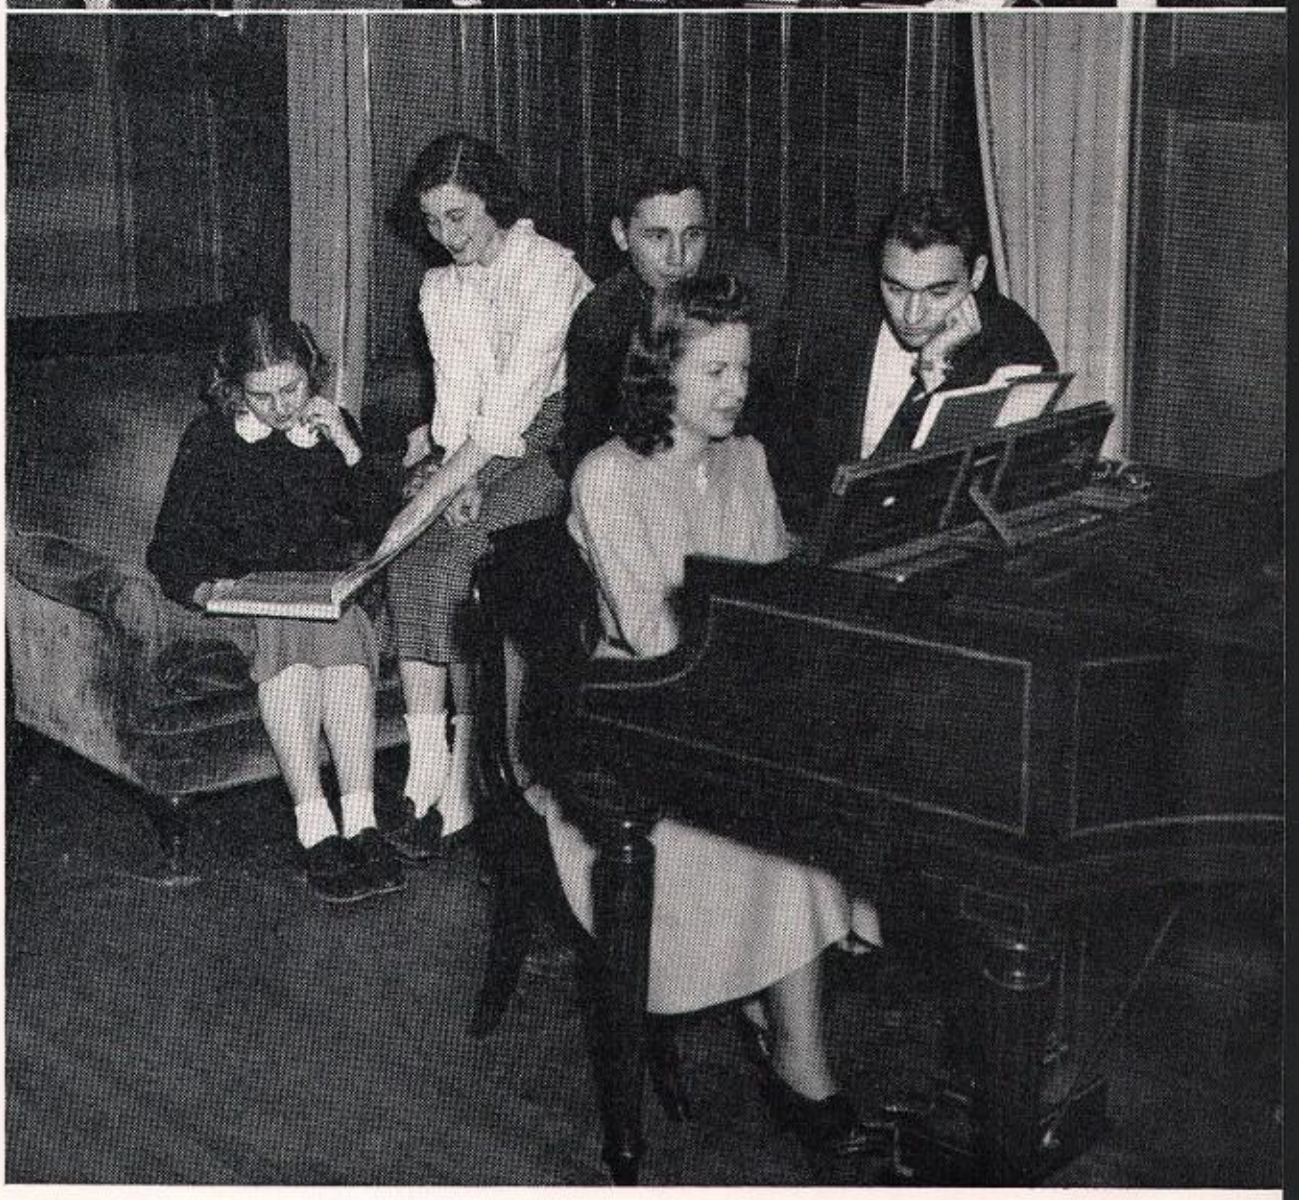
Dean Frank L. Harrison

In the Future - Blewett School of Music

Since the organization of the Music School, a new scholastic year of study has been added to the School's scholastic program each year; that is, during the school year 1947-'48, only freshmen courses were offered; this year sophomore classes have been added. According to this plan, junior subjects will be added next year and senior ones the following year. This will make it possible for a student to graduate by 1951 with either a B. A. with a major in music or a Bachelor of Music degree.

The Music School is headed by Dr. Frank L. Harrison who came to Washington from Colgate University where he was head of the Music Department. Born in Ireland and educated at Trinity College, Dublin, Dr. Harrison believes that music should be taught in relation to other arts and history and not merely as an independent subject. Assisting Dr. Harrison is Mr. Leonard Berkowitz who studied with Paul Hindemuth at Yale. Both Dr. Harrison and Mr. Berkowitz are capable musicians — Dr. Harrison playing the organ and Mr. Berkowitz the clarinet — and they enjoy playing informally in chamber groups in the city.

Dedication of the Blewett Organ.



Boogie woogie, no doubt!

CLASSES

We learn a little

The word "classes" refers to an academic caste system through which the student ascends during his four-year internment. Usually, students spend one year in each class, being promoted each spring from the freshman class to the sophomore class to the junior class to the senior class, but this is not necessarily the case. "Classes" (i.e. Junior) is not to be confused with its cognate, "classes" (i.e. Basketweaving 101) in which students are found only sporadically during the year.

There are often as many as several thousand students in each class (this still refers to academic level, not to classrooms . . . due to restricted amplifying systems individual classes are limited to a few hundred), but class spirit and cameraderie is high, reaching an inspired climax in May when Hatchet comes out and the students discover their classmates.

Though not advisable and a sacrilege, it is not necessary to buy a Hatchet to recognize the status of any particular student. Just notice what he reads. If he reads Student Life, he is a freshman, and is not expected to know any better. If he reads the daily comic strips, he is a sophomore. If he reads the editorials (in class), he is a junior. Anyone reading the want-ads is a senior, perusing his Gideon in preparation for a journey into the outer world.

Senior Class

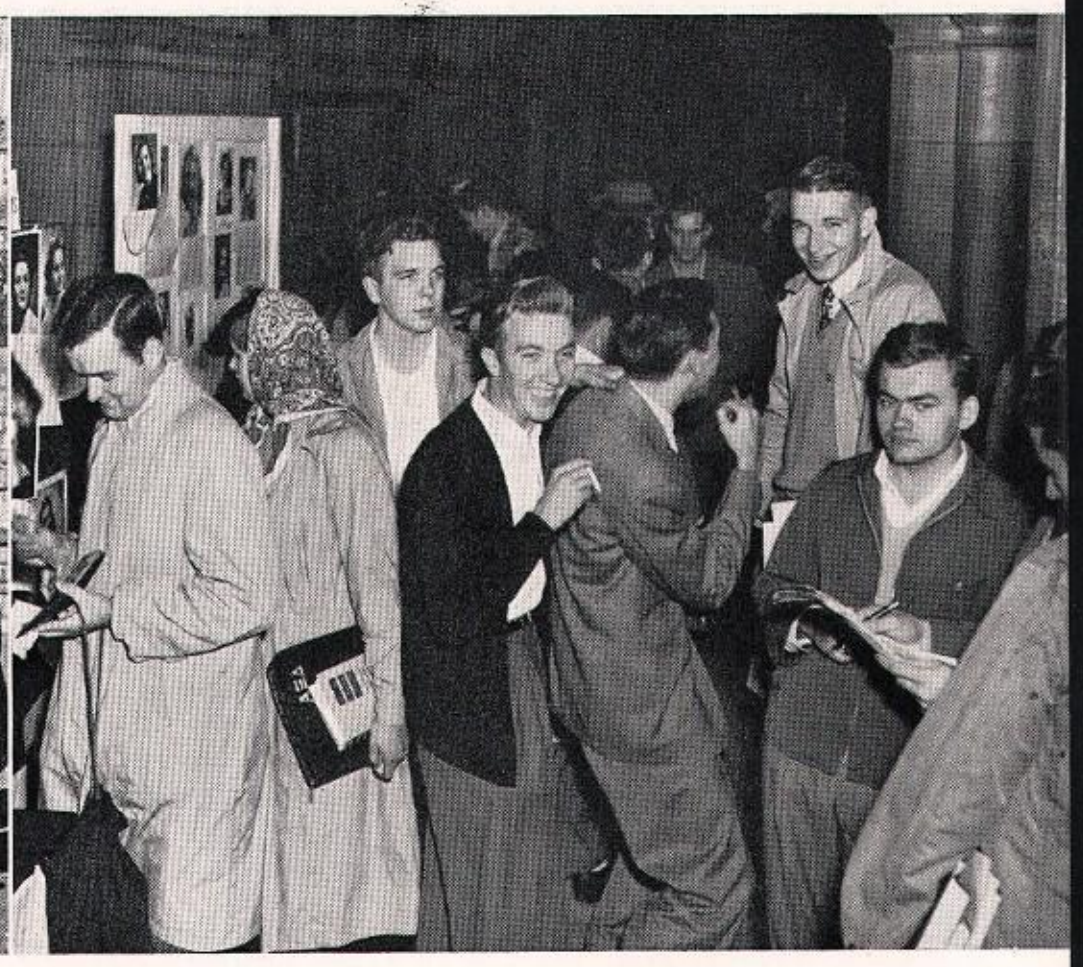
What have they done? They attended Freshman Orientation, and as Sophomores, they were really "in." They crowned the lovely Hatchet Queen, and all was done with that glorious day in mind — Commencement, June 7. And now they're retired from the campus — but they've left their marks — in many a Blue book!

And they're eternal givers. They give advice, they give to drives, they gave a picnic in May, Senior Prom and attended the Senior-Alumni Dinner. In short, they are the Hilltop. They're the Mortar Board of '48, the chairmen of Student Senate, the publication editors, and the chairmen of the "wheel committees." They're a post-war class — class of vets with wives and little kids. They're the bunch of girls who patiently waited and welcomed the soldiers back home. They're the largest class ever to graduate from W.U. and they will always be remembered!

The success of the Gold Rush in '49 is known to all, and the success of the '49ers of Washington U. is inevitable. When you see that certain well-known air, or the strut of his majesty with a distinctive flair, you can't but know that it's one of those seniors, a '49er.

Checking on the Kappas.

Go on, hit him!



Junior Class

Class elections on December 15 started the ball rolling for the Junior Class. At an officers' meeting on December 22, Prom committee heads were appointed. Shirley Hendricks and John Thomas were put in charge of publicity. The Ticket Committee was headed by Bob Waites and Harold Waldman. Decorations were handled by Wayne Hermann. Bob Strain for coronations, Morton Werner for Student Affairs, and Rudy Stinnett in charge of Arrangements, rounded out the committee appointments.

Zaltsman (Treas.), Litvag (Sec.), Corning (Senate), Thomas (Pres.), Vogts (V.-Pres.).

The first of four Junior Class get-togethers was held on January 14. At this, and the subsequent meetings, plans were made for the Junior Prom which included no corsages, informality, and the decision to hold the Prom at the Field House.

Cooperation between officers and class members made possible the success of the Junior Prom which was held April 22. Juniors and members of the other classes alike agreed wholeheartedly that our beautiful Hatchet Queen, Marty Glass, her court, and the music of Freddie Martin, combined to make this a gala affair long remembered by one and all.

Frustrated?

Man overboard.

Art Andrews, Jim Harris, Peggy Grosberg, Irby Cooper, Dave Corser.
They're sophs this year, but we rememeber when . . .
That's a good line.

Sophomore Class

Too high and mighty for lower classmen, too low for upper classmen, alas they're in that 'twixt and 'tween year. So goes the popular opinion of all sophomore classes, but here is one that needs no pity from the masses. Really persons worthy of the respect of all, these sophs have withstood the trials and tribulations of lowly freshmen, have seen campus life thrcugh the eyes of the underdog, but still they had the pluck and perseverance to carry on. That, my friends, shows courage.

These sophomores are not only big ticket buyers, but they are right out there in front in selling those tickets too. Actively participating in organizations on campus, they are doing a terrific job in those organizations and are making names for themselves. Even with all their classes, homework, and activities the sophs find time to go to Student Center and "Yac's" for a little refreshment and to uphold the college traditions of knitting and playing bridge. This year they have picked a fine group of leaders. They chose Irby Cooper as President, Jim Harris as Vice-President, Peggy Grosberg as Secretary, Dave Corser as Treasurer, and that "industrious" engineer Art Andrews as their Student Senate Representative.

So now for the Sophomore Class it's bigger and better things ahead. They started out as little spokes, but they're sure big wheels now, and are gaining speed all the time. Forward in '49 should be their motto.

Freshman Class

That proverbial freshman class deluged upon the hallowed grounds of our fair university, twelve hundred strong, and have really made a name for themselves in the short year that they have spent with us. Not content with the honor of being one of the largest classes in the history of the University, they have the distinction of coming from thirty states and ten foreign countries.

A preview of the good old campus life was given to about 150 freshmen men at a "Freshman Camp," which was held at Trout Lodge, Potosi, Missouri, on September 16-18. Being the first session of the camp to ever be held, the results were very surprising. Between sessions of softball, swimming, hiking, exploring caves, and generally doing nothing, Freshmen were exposed to learned lectures on all phases of college life. Speeches from Mr. Don "Are You Living" Fischer, Blair Gullion, tration experience. From Station 1 to Station 2 with three hour waits in line, all added to the delightful occasion of entering college.

With Freshman Rules in full force, the freshmen were reminded that theirs was only the lowest social strata in the college scheme of things. With beanies, buttoning, and some general hogwash about learning the Alma Mater (which all promptly forgot after the Week was over), the freshmen are not likely to forget this experience. The picnic at the Compton's home — in which the grounds were stocked with food — was also enjoyed by all, and this was in no small respect due to the efforts of Emcee Jerry Miller and the Banjo of your friend and mine, "Art."

Much to the amusement of the upperclassmen, Freshman Court Sessions were held in the main Quad every noon. All offenders of the "Civil and Moral Code as set forth by the Upper Classmen for the Lowly Freshman"

Deans Haack and Graham, and an appearance of the boss-man himself and his first lady, Mr. and Mrs. Compton, all added to the general success of the camp. Plans are now being formulated for the continuing of the boys' camp and the establishment of a girls' camp as well.

The good old green frosh felt himself properly initiated into all the trials of College life after a harrowing regis-were duly tried and punished. All offenders, of course, were found guilty. From beautiful girls being carted around campus in wheelbarrows; from sorrowful males measuring the length of the Quad with a smelly fish; to a inale in which dates were auctioned off to the highest bidder, all greatly amused the upper classmen.

On the more serious side, the freshmen were instructed in the tradition and lore of Washington University through the Freshmen Orientation Classes that were held weekly. All freshmen, using the Freshman Bible as their textbook, became fully acquainted with the mysteries of our great University.

My, what a big mouth!

ACTIVITIES

Hit the SAC

For students who do not seek the more carnal pleasures such as dating, athletics and academic excellence, Washington University offers sublimation — in the form of activities. Activities are good experience for the students, and also inexpensively do a lot of work for the administration.

If one has a sparring acquaintance with the English language and can chain-smoke and yell "hell" and "damn" at frequent intervals, he is fully qualified to work on Student Life. Should a student be able to add a sense of humor and the ability to make people laugh to these aforementioned requirements, he can find a position in Quirk, the humor magazine. Those with acting ability and no pride seek the sacred halls of Thyrsus, and for those completely devoid of any talent or flair, there is always Quad Show.

Some students become quite successful in these pursuits, and their achievements are recognized in various honor societies such as Thurtene, Chimes, ODK and Mortar Board. A select few occasionally become inextricably enmeshed in the extracurricular gears and are placed in a special classification, which is called probation. To these singular few, we can only say: "Sic transit Gloria Mundae."

Omicron Delta Kappa

Election to membership in Omicron Delta Kappa is one of the highest honors that a man can attain during his college career. O.D.K., a national honor society for senior men, was established on the campus of Washington University in 1933. Since that time it has won the respect of the entire campus through its services and outstanding leadership.

In addition to a 1.5 grade average, candidates for membership must have shown outstanding achievement in campus activities, including dramatics, athletics, social life, and publications.

In addition to its regular meetings, several banquets were given during the semester for members of Omicron Delta Kappa, both past and present, at which time problems intimately concerned with Washington University were discussed. Joint meetings with Mortar Board were also held to discuss Student Problems.

Mortar Board

Mortar Board, the highest honor a senior woman can achieve, boasted a membership of twenty this year. Members are chosen on the basis of leadership, and outstanding participation in campus activities. A minimum grade point of approximately 1.7 is also required.

Mortar Board, in addition to being an honorary organization, is also a working one. The Calender, which keeps all the Campus posted on coming events, was prepared and printed both semesters. The problem of cheating was discussed in joint meetings with O.D.K., the senior men's honorary, and various plans to curb it were suggested. The Golddiggers' Ball, annual W.U. backward dance, was given in the Field House. The traditional corsage contest and the crowning of the Kampus King climaxed the dance.

The annual Tapping Tea was held in the spring, to which many students, their parents, and faculty members were invited. New members were "tapped" on the steps of the Women's Building by old Mortar Board members as is customary, and afterwards all adjourned to the lounge where the tea was held.

Where's the band, or who dances at WU Dances anyway?

If I win, do I get YOU???

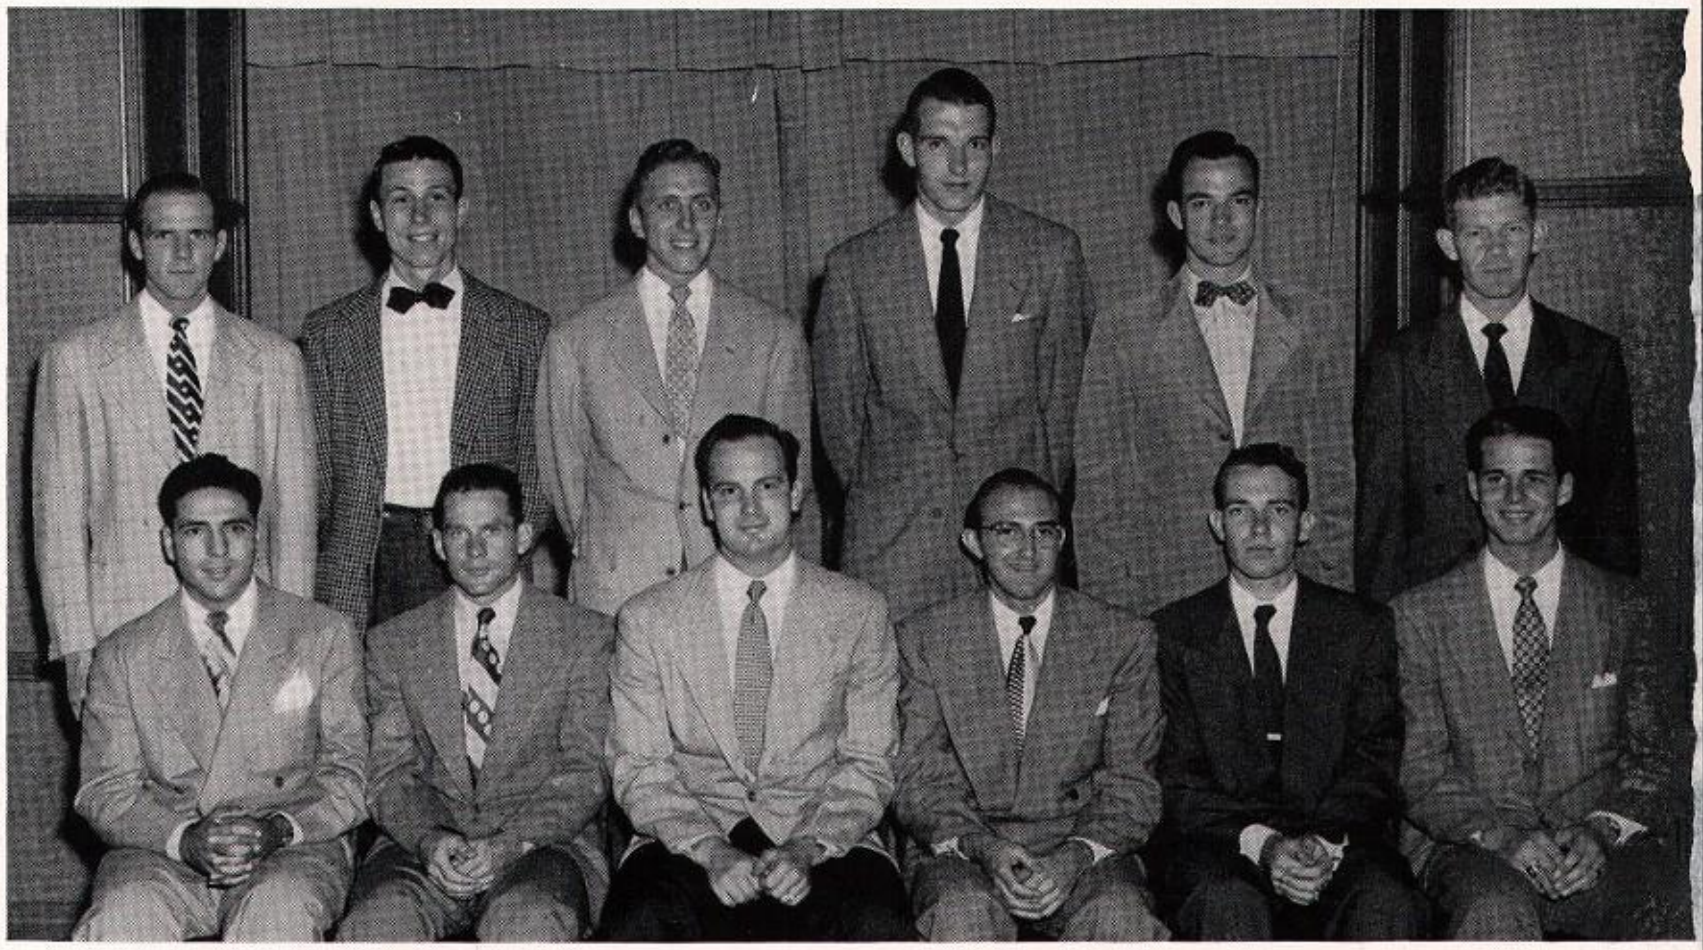
Thurtene

Mysterious, secretive Thurtene, junior men's honorary fraternity, continued in its forty-fourth year on campus, selecting for membership thirteen outstanding men from the junior class. After thoroughly exposing them to the mystic rites under the emblematic skull and crossbones, Thurtene sent forth its men to further the best interests of their university.

The Thurtene carnival again proved to be a highlight of the year's campus activities. The success of this carnival stemmed from the wholesome cooperative efforts of the many organizations which took part.

This year's Thurtene fraternity declared a dividend for all Washington University students in the form of a television set, installed in the Student Center. The honorary hopes to make some such contribution a yearly project.

First Row: Rosenblatt, Winner, Wood (Pres.), Orenstein (Sec.), Borntraeger, Schubert.
Second Row: Gerstung, McKnight, Zahner, Barsanti, Smylie, Belt.



Chimes

Chimes rang out on our campus this year following a petition from the local honorary, Ternion, for membership in the national junior women's honorary, Chimes. The national society was founded in December, 1947, by corresponding college honoraries of Penn State, Ohio State, West Virginia University, and Temple University, for the development of a higher ideal of leadership, service, and scholarship among college women.

Ohio State, in June, 1948, was the scene of the first biennial Chimes convention at which representatives from various colleges discussed and suggested plans for the future of the organization. Infected by the enthusiasm and promise of this convention, the members of Ternion eagerly awaited acceptance into the growing Chimes family. The 1948-1949 student faculty directory which the honorary published was dedicated and named after the new organization — Chimes.

Chimes rings the bell.

Second Row: Monahan, Kriegshauser, Hendricks, Krueger, Queen, Foley, Stake.

Making hay at the hop.

Lock and Chain

Organized in 1904, Lock and Chain is the oldest honorary society on campus. This men's sophomore honorary is composed of one sophomore from each fraternity, selected because of an outstanding freshman record, and an independent, selected on the same basis. Current plans provide for the selection of two independents next year.

Lock and Chain achieved its purpose of improving and revitalizing school spirit during the past year by putting on three dances and participating in Homecoming activities. The organization presented its own all-school dance in February, the annual Hay Hop in October in conjunction with Campus Y, and the Dandelion Dance with Freshman Commission in May. In addition to these activities, the honorary gave a banquet and a picnic for its members during the school year.

First Row: Fritz, Harris (Treas.), Werner (Pres.), Chambers (V.-Pres.), Slosberg.
Second Row: Haack, Cooper, Young, Donovan, Nichols, Whyman, Cummins.

Freshman Commission

Freshman Commission, the Sophomore honorary at W.U., is composed of nine to fifteen women of the incoming sophomore class. They are chosen on the basis of their participation in activities and the potential leadership they have shown during their freshman year.

The purpose of Freshman Commission is to help with the orientation of Freshmen and to assist other organizations with their projects. This year F.C. members helped the Freshman Orientation committee by serving at the Freshman Picnic and decorating for the Freshman Mixer. They were usually busy selling Chimes or tickets for the Homecoming Dance and GoldDiggers Ball, as well as serving as hostesses at Campus teas and sometimes even taking care of the faculty children's nursery. Last fall the organization followed tradition by giving a party for the retiring Commission members, a dessert bridge at Ginny Reddish's home. This spring F.C. girls prayed for warm weather so they could hold the "dig" for their annual Dandelion Dance.

Stop stuffing the ballot box.

First Row: Thiele, Reardon (Treas.), Tracy (V.-Pres.), Dunbar (Pres.), Bentrup (Sec.), Leonard.
Second Row: Elleard, Owens, Cook, Berger, Brown, Wunderlich, Reddish, Duncan, Moore.

First Row: Austin (Sec.), Doerbaum (V.-Pres.), Thiele (Pres.), Belknap (Treas.).

Alpha Lambda Delta

Alpha Lambda Delta, national scholastic honorary for women, has had a busy year under the leadership of Carol Thiele. The organization requires a 2.5 average for the freshman year, and annually gives a tea for those freshman women who have above a 2.0 average at the mid-semester. Part of this year's work was to read to a blind student in the School of Social Work.

Phi Eta Sigma

Phi Eta Sigma is a national men's Fraternity which came to the WU Campus in 1932. The Fraternity stresses high scholarship among freshmen men and also places importance on the development of character. To be eligible for membership, a student must have obtained at least a 2.5 average for their freshman year. Faculty advisor for the group is Dana O. Jensen, Assistant Dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

First Row: Kruger, Parker (Treas.), Phillips (Pres.), Donovan (Sec.). Second Row: Saunders, Spivy, Seaver, Fixman, Penn, Notvest.

Student Publications

In their new quarters in the SAC, the Student Publications Bureau, better known as "The Pub," maintained the campus financial equilibrium. Stimulated by the dictatorial snap of Director Barsanti's friendly black whip, the Pub's seven man team had a successful year of keeping school publications out of the red . . . as this is being written at least.

Handling the business angle on Student Life was the sparkling combination of Bob Dunavant, the adding machine that walks like a man, and Bill Gerstung. If "Burma Bill" ever graduates, he plans a well balanced career with two six-months vacations. The Cub was born, bred, and buttered by Charlie Hamilton. Although he maintained that he had strict office hours from 12 till 1, there was always a sign on his desk reading "Out to Lunch." Charlie made many lifelong contacts working on the Cub, some of which might last until next year. Dave Barnes, the human mixmaster, held that everyone should let the Hatchet preserve his campus memories. Yes, Dave did a great job of managing the yearbook's financial aspects. If you don't believe this — just ask him.

Super salesmanship???

Cut-rate Quirk prices.

Such fascination.

Bureau

The humor magazine also had humorous Bob Harmon, and how that man affected American advertising will go down, then up in history. By the time the year had drawn to a close he had Quirk paying its own way . . . for postage . . . almost! Every day in the Pub one could hear the effusive Newell Baker calling, "Ring for Chimes; ring for Chimes." Baker won the Nobel Prize for Dissonance in 1945. Directing the Pub's activities as he rubbed his hands together, Jack Barsanti exhibited the epitome of executive skill . . . letting everybody else do the work. Precision, snap, and efficiency — these were the bywords that Barsanti went by. The Pub is still trying to figure out what they mean.

Student Life

Student Life, like any other college newspaper, is one of the strongest unifying forces on the University campus. Fifty-eight times during the school year, 6000 copies of the paper find their way into the hands of the students and faculty in every school and department in Washington University from Art to Zoology. And through the medium of these news pages comes not only information about the campus activities, but also the development of a closer relationship among the schools. Holidays, the nights before mid-semester exams, the week before finals — anytime the work of turning out the eternal "next" edition is in progress.

Shots in the palatial office of Student Life, alleged newspaper on the WU campus.

Homer Nienhaus, Editor-in-Chief

But this has been more than a routine year for Student Life; some of the longest steps forward since the paper's founding in 1878 were made in the past two semesters. Student Life moved into its specially designed office in the west wing of the Student Activities Center, after many cramped years in Eads 100. A new printer has not only furnished more modern type faces, but has allowed more flexible make-up.

The position of editorial editor was established to take charge of the editorial page and the ever growing letters-to-the-editor column, while a free lost and found column was set up as a service to the reader. The number of pictures in each issue also has been increased, and the paper itself has grown to an eight page issue twice a week; a style book has been compiled, and the masthead has been restyled to give recognition to all who contribute to Student Life. The newspaper also sponsored a presidential straw vote, and actively supported the St. Louis Slum Clearance Bond. Professor James N. "Pop" McClure is faculty adviser. Reporters, feature writers, cartoonists and clerical workers hold a total of 48 press cards.

Hatchet Business Staff

Hatchet

As your slaves of capitalism gaze starry-eyed through the year-long efforts of the Hatchet staff, verily, we of the staff would like to splatter a few bouquets here and there. On bended knee, we thank you, readers, for purchasing this gentle internment of fair memories. To those dullards who call us in April and want their pictures in the book, we say this: Our deadline is in December. . . . And to Student Life we have only been too glad to offer our office as a refuge for those M. P. (misplaced persons) who have been expelled from your sacred office. We know, now, how the other half lives. And then again, to the Most Honorable Dean of Faculties, we thank you for your occasional visits to our new office. Had you only forewarned us, we would have tried to look busy! We also wish to thank Mrs. Lola Johanson for allowing us to gaze upon her mythical beauty . . . these were indeed rare moments!

Hatchet face.

And to the rest of you filthy "bourgeoisie" we love you all! Again, to you, the reader, we are grateful; we are so choked with the pangs of loving gratitude, we say only "Espece de salaud, maudit sois — tu!"

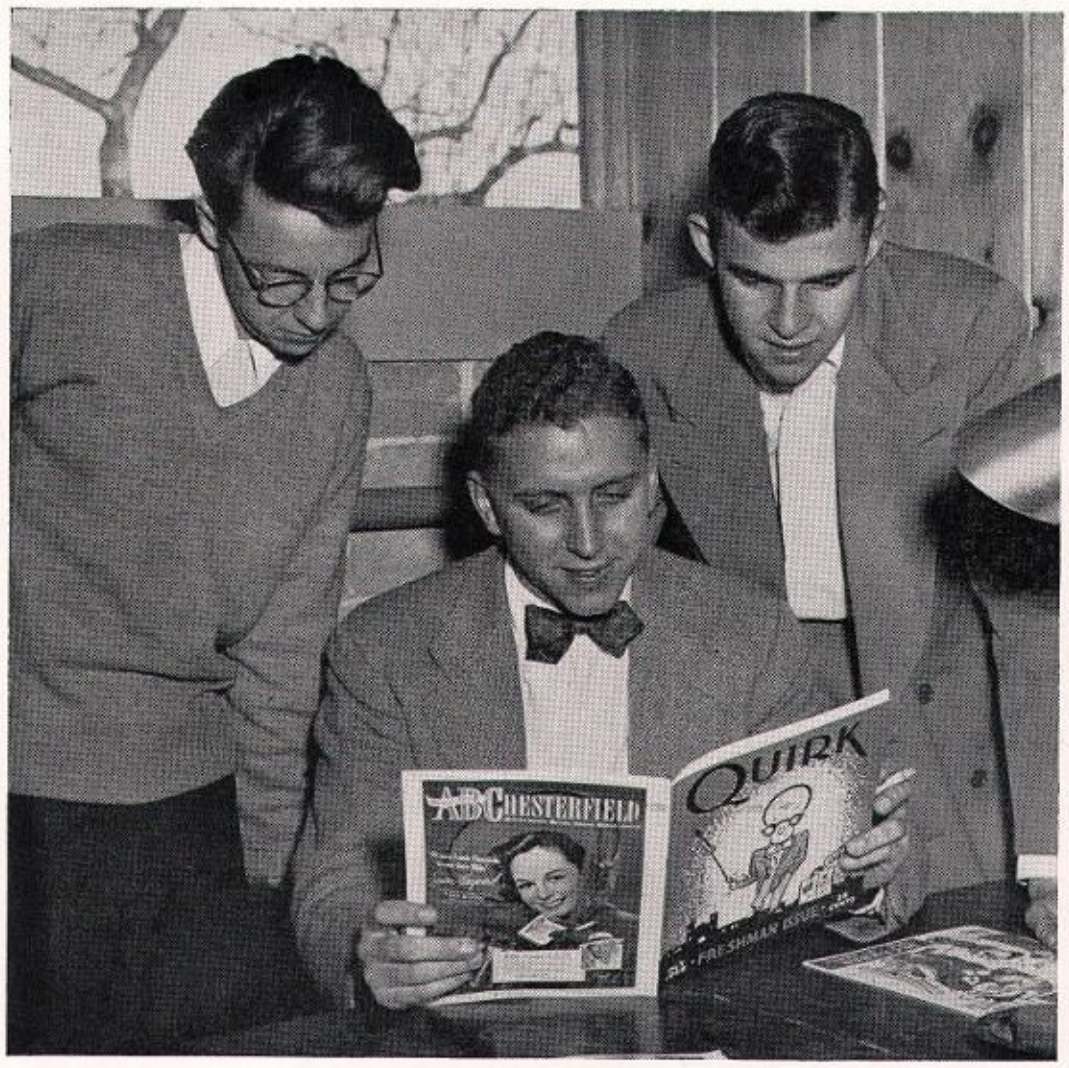
Quirk



Lucky Zahner, always in the middle.

In response to a demand for a campus humor magazine, Quirk made the complete break from a literary magazine which Eliot (a moment of silence, please) began last year. The staff believed that a college magazine can be funny without nudging the borderlines of good taste.

Blessed with a number of steady humorous writers and plagued with a fluctuating deadline, Quirk's first issue had students rolling in the aisles, until the instructor walked in and took away the dice. By switching to the offset type of printing method the Quirk staff was able to give the readers more photographs and illustrations for their money, thus making it extremely popular with the engineers, who had neither the ability or the time to go any farther into the magazine.

Don Zahner held the job of editor-in-chief because of his extremely sharp sense of humor, his excellent writing ability, and the fact that he married last year's editor. Don Hunstein, co-associate editor, handled most of the make-up with adept hands and the printer with kid gloves. Dave Leitch, the other unsociable associate editor, is the fellow whom the magazine came out in spite of.

What do you mean, you don't read Quirk?

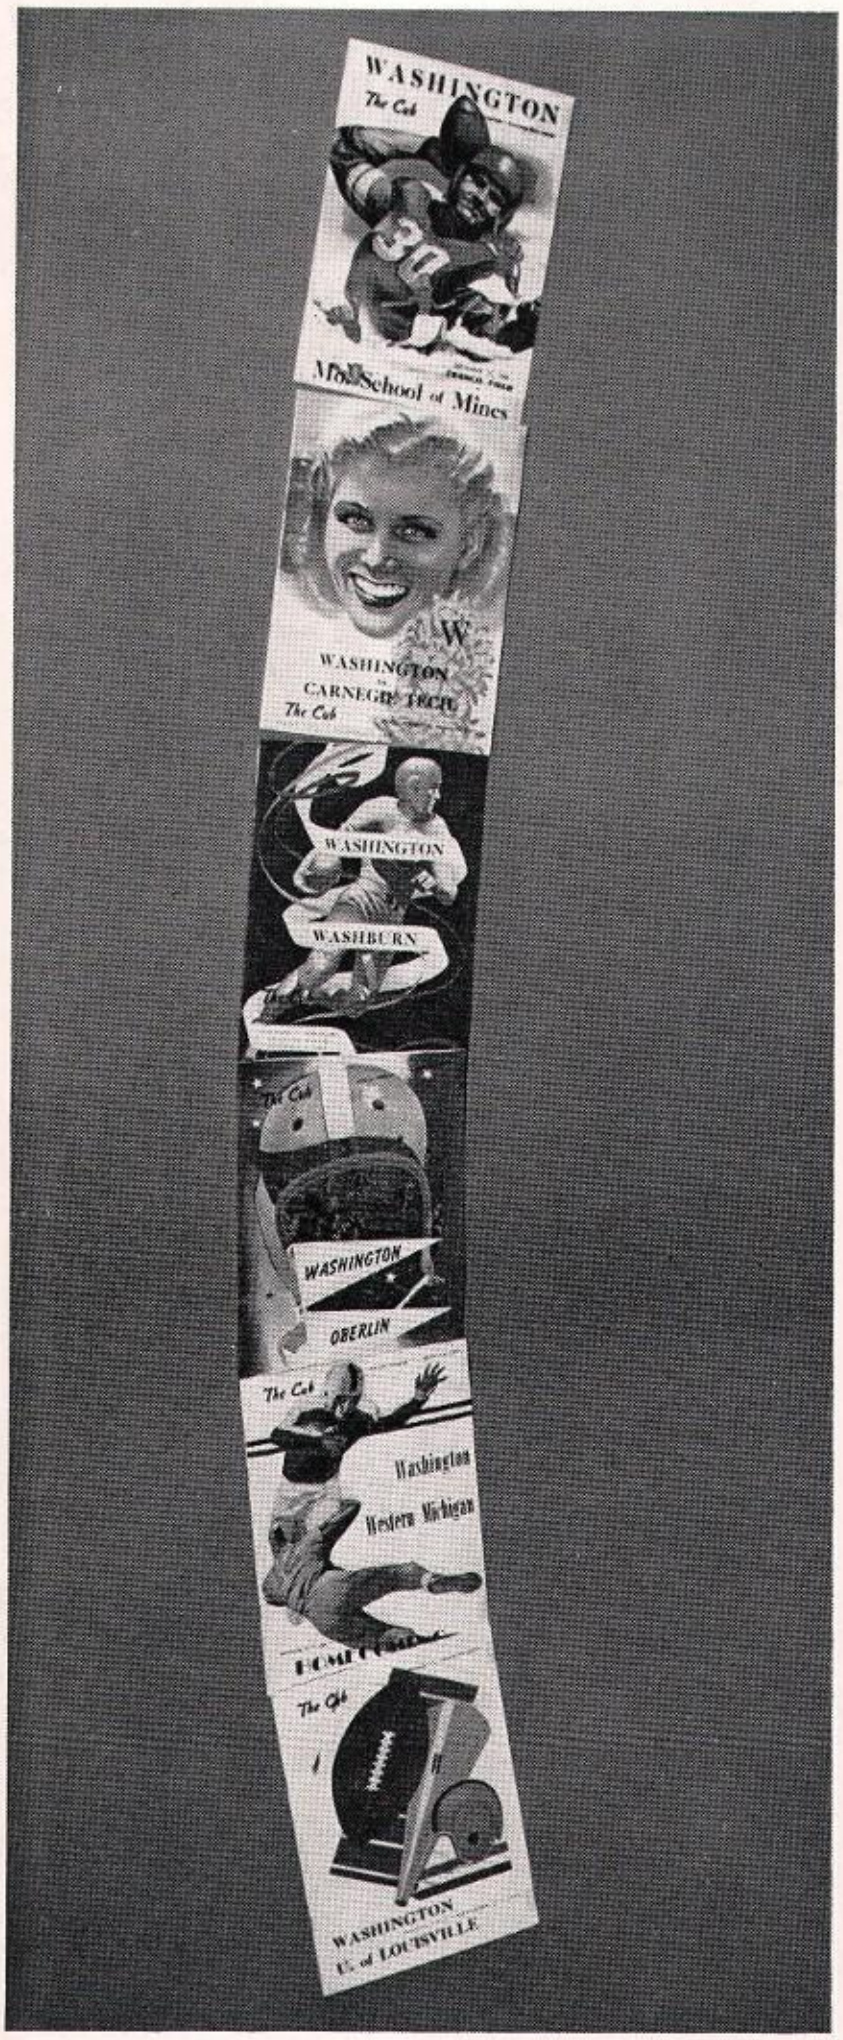
First Row: Byron, Hamilton, Leitch, Zahner, Hunstein, Hope, Harmon. Second Row: McDorman, Jaudes, Petersen, Whyman, Ewing, Oscar, Loper, Bachle, Compton. Third Row: Harter, Terte, Scortia, Shoss, Deakin, Oksner.

Art Editor Tom Tebbetts remained chained to his drawing board throughout the year, where he was fed intravenously as he worked. Business Manager Bob Harmon and Circulation Manager Dick Donnelly took over their positions during the school year and nursed the ailing business and distribution staffs back to robust health. There was also someone named Scortia who came in each night and swept up, but he did not give his first name.

All in all, the magazine was a great success, and the entire student body felt that there was a definite place for Quirk on campus . . . but there weren't enough waste-baskets.

Print no evil, speak no evil, read no evil.

Idea conference.



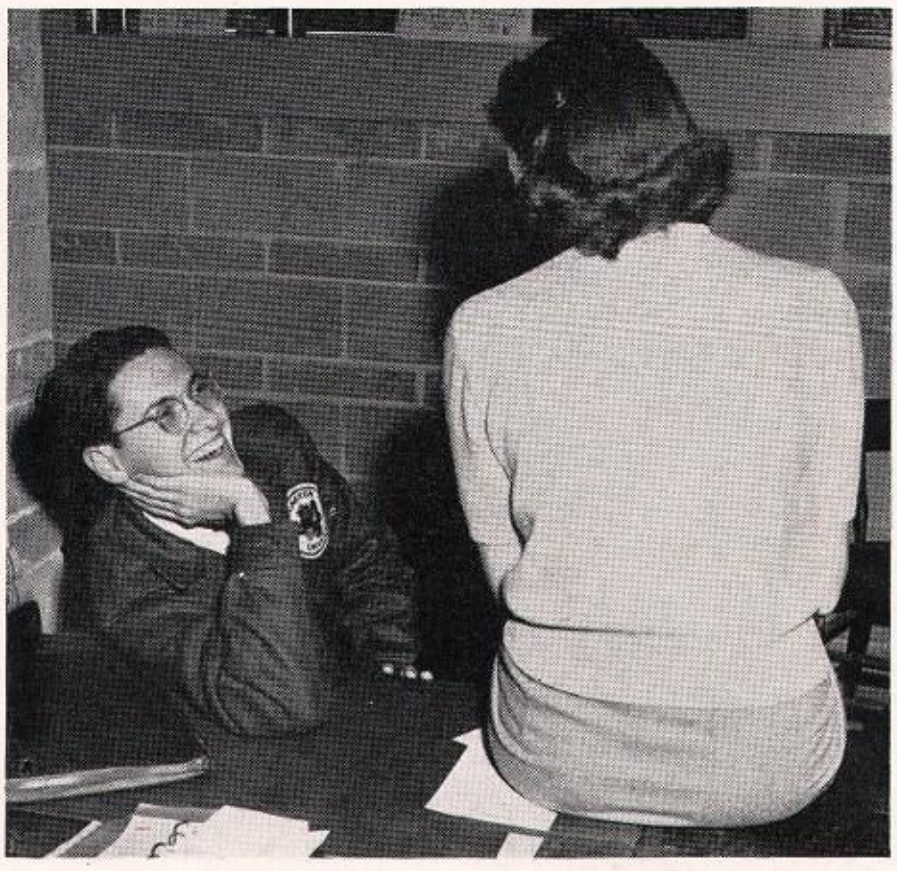
Records of a successful season.

The Cub

The Cub, Official Football Magazine of this school, is published for all the home football games. Its history has been a rather short one, as it was first published in 1940, and publication was suspended two years later because of the war. Last year it appeared again as football was revived at Washington U.

Director Charlie Hamilton and his staff set to work on the task of building a unique and different sort of a publication from that which is printed by other schools. The result was a forty-page magazine with pictures, copy, and art work complete.

Manuel Sherberg's copy writing staff burned the midnight oil finishing those late feature articles that carried the by-lines of Charlie Werner, Tom McKelly, Dave Essen, Dave Barnes, and Liz Hope, while Bear representative Bill Gerstung wrote his comments on the game as he saw it from the field. Also, the artwork of Tom Tebbetts and the photos of Herb Weitman added to the attractiveness of the pages and proved that Cub had the "new look" in '48.



Director Hamilton interviews only applicants of good rearing.

The Cub

On the business side rolling up the record in advertising sales was Carol Robertson, who tramped the Alton hills; Newell Baker, Cub's "Johnny on the spot" who hopped hither and yon helping the staff make that deadline; Bob Dunavant, who found that Yacovelli was spelt with an "O" in it; Dick Donnelly, who hit those interesting far away places; and Doris Dahlen, who in-between society page shots dragged in some copy too. Staying at home Ginny Rau broke in the new typewriter; and Nan Jackson could be found sending out direct mail circulars with the help of Maggie Kieffer.

From all this came the Cub, which besides setting one record after another presented the first Cub Award, a gold ring with the WU crest on it, to Hank Christmann who was elected to that honor by the grandstand fan.

A. S. C. E.

The American Society of Civil Engineers is the oldest engineering society on campus, having been organized around 1912 under the name of the Culmination Club. Open only to students in civil engineering, A.S.C.E. aims to develop better understanding of the civil engineering field by presenting movies and talks by prominent practicing engineers.

A. I. Ch. E.

The American Institute of Chemical Engineers is a professional Society that has a student Chapter on the Campus at WU. The organization which is open to all Chemical Engineering Students provides an excellent opportunity to form lasting friendships in the field of Chemical Engineering. Several social functions are held to mix pleasure with work, and the prospective Chemists hold organized meetings throughout the school year.

First Row: Cooke (V.-Pres.), Sheppard (Treas.), White (Pres.), Buarland (Sec.). Second Row: Hoffman, Wieselman, Wittwer, McDorman, Kinnamon, O. Smith, Bernard, Sattler, Canty, Jaeger, Branstetter, Puleo. Third Row: Mueller, Yehling, Steenrod, E. Jaeger, Daly, Kamphoefner, Ossyra, Brockschmidt, Tourkakis, Aschoff, Wetteroth, Brennecke.

A. I. E. E.

The Washington University branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers was established for furthering the technical and professional development of the electrical engineer. A.I.E.E. meets to take field trips to large manufacturers, to see films, and to hear lectures on engineering subjects. Although a student must be enrolled in electrical engineering for membership in the society, the campus branch now has one hundred and fifty members.

A. S. M. E.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers organized a student branch at Washington University in March, 1911, with the principal objective of broadening the student's acquaintance with the practical side of mechanical engineering. It further stresses the development of the student's initiative and ability to speak in public, and it familiarizes him with parliamentary procedure. The chapter was recently host to the Regional Student Convention of the ASME when it was held in St. Louis.

Alpha Chi Sigma

Alpha Chi Sigma is principally a professional fraternity of chemists and chemical engineers. The Alpha Epsilon chapter has increased from thirty to over fifty members in the past year and has had two initiation banquets and a graduation dinner dance. The fraternity has some social events of its own and many in conjunction with the St. Louis Professional Chapter of Alpha Chi Sigma.

Tau Beta Pi

Membership in Tau Beta Pi is one of the greatest honors that any Engineering student can receive, for in order to be eligible, a senior must be in the upper one-fifth of his class and a junior in the upper one-eighth. The honorary began the year with sixteen active members and has pledged thirty-five men, all of whom have satisfied the stringent scholastic requirements.

First Row: Dick (Treas.), Brandes (Rec. Sec.), Smith (V.-Pres.), Berney (Pres.), Malley (Corr. Sec.), Murray. Second Row: Hermeling, Ottman, Adams, Kubik, Brewer, Miller, Parks.

S. I. E.

SIE enjoyed its second year of existence on campus by increasing its paid membership on campus to fifty students. One phase of the year's activities was the interviewing of industries in St. Louis, concerning relations between students and industrialists. The Society also endeavored to determine a student employment system for engineers comparable to other engineering schools in the Midwest. Another of SIE's functions was the sponsoring of the industrial engineers' exhibit for Engineers Day.

A. I. M. E.

The student chapter of the American Institute of Mining Engineers is composed of students who major in geology and geological engineering. Its purpose is to supplement classroom study with talks and movies on the practical application of geology to problems in industry. Outstanding social functions of the year were the annual Hallowe'en Howl, featuring a faculty impersonation, and a picnic in May.

Engineers' Council

The Engineers' Council is in reality the Student Senate of the Engine School, for it serves as the representative body of the six departmental student engineering organizations, and the various class levels in the entire school. It annually sponsors the Engineers' Dance and adds color to the social life of the spring term when it presents the Spring Masque. Closely tied into the Engine Council is the mysterious St. Pat, the Patron Saint of the Engine School.

Duncker Guild

Duncker Guild, the extra-curricular association of the Business School, began this year with a new program and renewed interest. Under the leadership of this year's officers, the Guild took part in a joint program with the Association of Junior Retailers to commemorate Commerce Day. A picnic and an informal dance comprised the Guild's social schedule.

Architectural Society

The Architectural Society, the organization down Givens way, sponsored monthly "smokers" to acquaint students with recent architectural trends. In their unique version of "Hell Week," members pursued freshmen with seltzer bottle in hand and dampening mischief at heart. Ceremonious observances — including parade, picnic, and dance — evidenced the architects' homage to their patron, St. Fatima, on March 25.

Kaabah

Kaabah is the Architectural Engineering Social Society that is composed of members of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes in the school of Architectural Engineering. After a wartime absence, the group was revived, and has recently been admitted to Student Senate and the Engineers' Council. The name of the group is taken from the name of the building that houses the Black Stone in the court of the Great Mosque at Mecca.

Alpha Alpha Gamma

Alpha Alpha Gamma, women's architectural honorary, was founded in February, 1927 and this year had twelve active members. In order to be eligible for membership, a girl must be in the upper one-third of her class, selection being made on the basis of interest and ability. Regular meetings featured talks by persons prominent in the field of architecture.

Scarab

On November 23, 24, and 25, Scarab, the Architectural honorary at WU played host to the annual national convention of their fraternity. Over forty outstanding schools sent their representatives, and the various meetings, held at the SAC, all helped to make an outstanding gathering. The Fraternity itself holds regular meetings throughout the year, and has various social functions to lighten the year's load.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega, a scouting honorary fraternity, is composed of male students who have been Boy Scouts. The main purpose of this organization is to inculcate into campus activities the spirit of scouting. This is accomplished through a four-fold service program consisting of service to the community, the school, to scouting, and oneself. Many worthy services and successful parties have been the products of this past year's work.

Tau Pi Epsilon Pi

Tau Pi Epsilon Pi, the pre-med honorary fraternity at WU, recently voted to enlarge the scope of its activities and began an extensive program to give the pre-med student some knowledge of the techniques of modern medicine. It has sponsored several films of a medical nature and has also held various forums on medical problems. It is open to all pre-med students who have the required point average.

Lee-Liggett Council

For the first time in years Lee-Liggett Council, organization for dorm men, participated fully in homecoming events by entering a float and house decorations in competition, and by opening the dorms to inspection visits. The Council also sponsored a candidate for homecoming queen and she became one of the maids of the court. . . . In intramural football, the Lee-Liggett combine placed second in League Three, coming spectacularly out of last year's cellar position. After many years absence, dorm men were represented in all school class elections, one member winning an office.

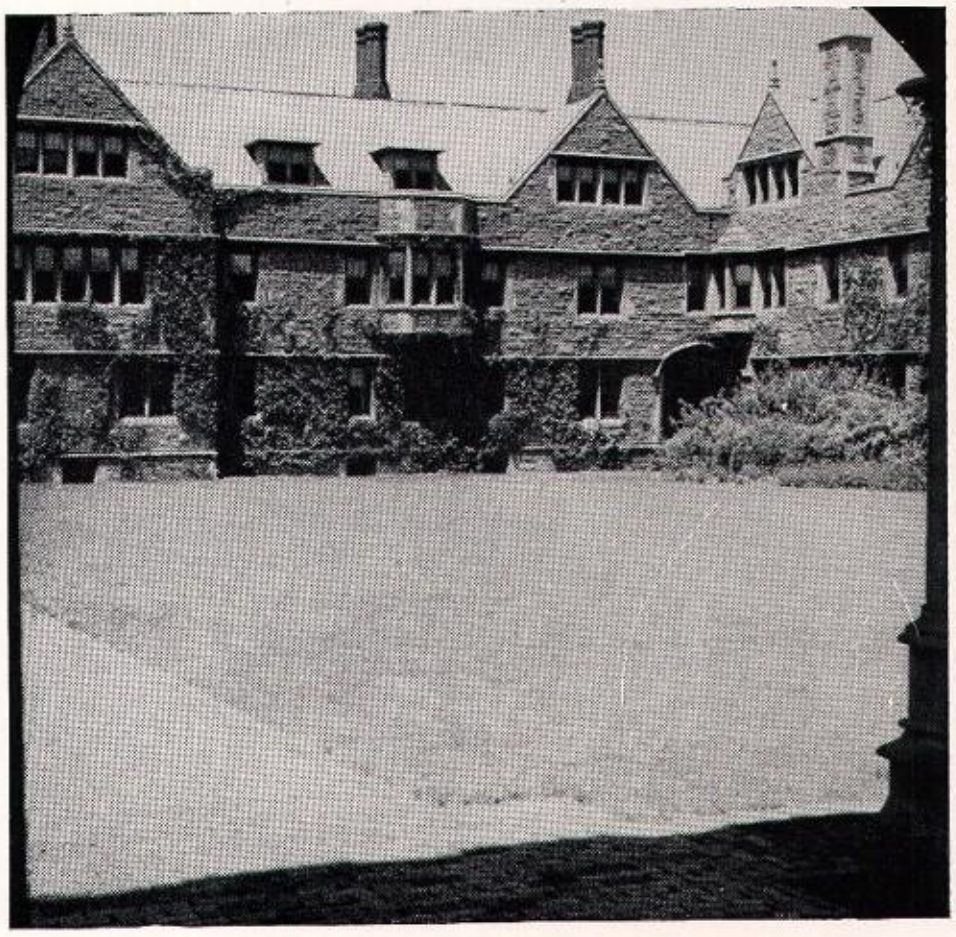
Eta Mu Pi

Eta Mu Pi, national honorary retailing fraternity founded in New York to promote the science of ethics in retailing, granted a charter for a chapter to our Retailing Department in June 1946. Essentially an honorary organization, it holds no meetings except its annual dinner meeting which is attended by alumni and prospective members as well as actives. Those elected to wear the gold key, emblem of Eta Mu Pi, must maintain a "B+" average in all retailing subjects and a "B" average in all other subjects. The organization this year had twenty-five student members and nine honorary members (selected from prominent St. Louis retailers).

They give you a room and also a key
And tell you that this your home is to be.
From rush party to rush party you start out the year,
Then hobble to Yacs for a sandwich and — fear
At the last minute, though you rush like mad,
That you're ten minutes late (that's regarded as bad!)
The Council is for you . . . they'll tell you so,
But your fate is the same . . . you were too slow.
The call on the phone, the wait for your letters,
Then the last minute cram to keep up with your betters.
Sure, you could have done better if you had ignored
That last game of bridge, but gosh! you were bored.
Those Sundays at "tea" — then to Glaser's for food,
And the chats in the evening when you're all in the mood.
They came and they went, just like the schmoes
Who inhabited the lounge whenever they chose.
Yes, these are your memories of McMillan recreation —
You came, you made friends, then you went on vacation.



Stone walls do not a prison make, or iron bars . . .

Red Cross

During World War II the need for volunteer workers for the Red Cross was extremely urgent, and on May 18, 1943, a petition to form a college unit at Washington University was submitted by students. The first organizational meeting was held a week later at which time officers and chairmen of operational groups were chosen. The following fall, Dean Adele Starbird was selected faculty advisor for the group.

First Row: Reardon, Martin (Jr. V.-Chm.), Stake (Chm.), Thomas (Treas.), Gillman (Sec.), Quigley. Second Row: Tracy, Mueller, Brown.

Throughout the five years of its existence on campus, the Red Cross unit has sponsored seven main fields of activity: First Aid and Water Safety, Nutrition, Canteen work and Community Service, Production, Motor Corps, assistance to the Junior Red Cross, and Fund Raising. This year a new branch of activity was begun, the student blood donor program. Operating in conjunction with other schools in St. Louis, the Washington U. Red Cross unit participated in organizing and planning a city-wide Student Blood Donor Week, February 28-March 4. A mobile blood bank was set up in the activity room of McMillan Hall on March 1 for student and faculty donors.

Art Students' Association

Times have changed a great deal since the first Art Students' Association meeting in 1888, but the aims and purposes of the organization still remain the same. Through A.S.A., the students become better acquainted by working together on such projects as the Bohemian Brawl, held every fall in Bixby Hall; the Beaux Arts Ball, elaborate costume affairs of the early spring; a student exhibition at the Student Center; and a raffle of faculty work for the purpose of raising a scholarship fund.

Within the past year, the A.S.A. can proudly boast the winning of three cups — two for the most beautiful Homecoming floats and the other for its booth at Thurtene Carnival last Spring.

The spirit of the organization, one of fun and hard work, largely accounts for the group's continued success.

It's bohemian, but was it a brawl?

Campus "Y"

"Hi there," is a frequently spoken greeting down in the Campus "Y" quarters where old friends and new often gather for anything from a monthly dinner-party or open house, to a serious discussion on world affairs or comparative religions. Though noon is the busiest time of day, there seldom seems to be a lack of activity with the ping-pong table, bridge tables, piano, and (lest we forget the "elbow-grease") the mimeograph machine. Also, there are often groups working on some interesting project such as our International Bazaar, Cosmopolitan Club, "Bear Facts" (the Campus "Y" publication), the radio program, or listening to one of the many speakers that we have been fortunate in having this year.

But don't get the wrong idea — not all of our activities take place in the quarters. Far from it. There are many "Y" doings on campus, such as the annual Hay Hop (co-sponsored with Lock and Chain), the Love and Marriage lecture-discussion series, the Vocational Information Series, the Christmas Candlelight Vesper Service, the Christmas giving project, and many others. And then several times during the year a group of forty or so students will leave the campus to go to one of the nearby YMCA camps for a weekend of fun and fellowship.

These things all don't just happen. They are the result of an active membership and hard work and planning by the "Y" Cabinet. The cabinet itself supervises the general activities of the entire scope of the "Y," and in a sense is the governing board of the organization.

Membership is open to all interested students. There are at the present time twenty-six different program and activity groups in the "Y" in which students may participate. Activities develop as the need for them arise. Lasting friendships, meaningful fellowship, growing leadership abilities, and deepened spiritual insights are direct results of such activities.

Associated Junior Retailers

In 1945, the Associated Junior Retailers was organized within the Department of Retailing to promote both social and academic activities for Retailing students. The past four years have proved highly successful with the organization becoming stronger as both membership and social activities continue to grow.

Annual events include the tea in honor of new students, academic awards to outstanding students by the Associated Retailers of St. Louis, the annual dinner dance, and the luncheon to elect a candidate for annual student trip to the National Retail Dry Goods Convention in New York City. A new event this year was "Retailers Day" which featured an all-day picnic. Field trips to manufacturing plants are also part of the program.

Student Center Advisory Board

Less than a year old, the Student Center Advisory Board, made up of students, faculty, and alumni, is well recognized for its work in governing the Student Center. Greek and independent representatives make up the Research Committee of the board, and the entire student body is represented by the co-chairman of the Student Senate. The Activities Panel, composed of six members, is the operating division of the board by which the entire Center activity program is scheduled and planned. The board has a student chairman and secretary and the full time director of the Center, Miss Jane Sackett, supervises all operations as an ex-officio member of the board and all Center committees.

Wiley Hance, president of Thyrsus.

Thyrsus, The Dramatic

Thyrsus, the Dramatic Club of Washington University, is one of the oldest organizations of its kind west of the Mississippi, having been founded in 1905. It was given its name in honor of the god Dionysus, the tutelary deity of drama in ancient Greece, who was supposed to have carried a staff or Thyrsus ornamented with pine cones and vine leaves. This organization is the only group on campus active in staging dramatic productions. Membership is achieved by active participation in four fields of production.

The first two of Thyrsus' four shows of the 1948-49 season were under the direction of Dr. T. Nelson Magill, a new addition to the directorial staff. The classic Irish Drama "The Playboy of the Western World" was presented as the first production, opening two weeks after school began in the fall. The Irish lilt of "Playboy" ruled the local Thespian fad, influencing the speech of theatre social life, until the soft slur of the Smoky Mountains took over with the second, more spectacular production, "Dark of the Moon." Mountaineer jargon and "corn" straight from the still turned Thyrsus members into square-dancing, ballad-singing folk. Voluptuous witches from atop "Old Baldy" slithered about Brown Hall, wafting in from the mountain ridge built on the shoe-box stage. Charles Kubilos, the new "Great God of Brown," and Linn Elam turned out seven sets for "Dark of the Moon," exhibiting great ingenuity and skill. When the southern drawl of the Smokies began to fade, it was replaced with a new set of manners, and the Elizabethan terminology necessary for Thyrsus' third production of the season, William Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew." This play, as well as the last, was under the direction of Wayne W. Arnold.

W. R. A.

The Women's Recreational Association, with Dotty Hanpeter at bat as president, began the past year with a new name. Formerly known as the W.A.A., the group voted to enlarge its scope of activity by including the honorary Phoenix and larger plans for fourteen girls sports.

Badminton birdies flew under the direction of Arden Mueller, Loretta Darigo supervising hockey, while Marilyn Herpel directed the golf section. Mary Ann Juede managed basketball; Shirley Heyne, volleyball; WUMS managed by Grite Rice first semester and Betsy Kittrell, second; Intramurals, Carol Wolf; and Softball, Marjorie Hoffeld. Other events sponsored by the Woman's Recreational Association included tournaments in bowling and bridge. The inter-group bridge tourney was played off at the Student Center on the evening of February 17. The annual W.R.A. Banquets and various other activities of WRA all made this year quite successful.

A. W. S.

The Association of Women Students is one of the oldest organizations on the Washington University campus. Formerly known as the Women's Self-Government Association, A.W.S. is an active member of the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students.

All women students are members of A.W.S. and take part in the election of the officers. The Women's Council, the governing body of A.W.S., is made up of the officers and representatives of the various schools and organizations. Dean Starbird is faculty advisor.

The season opened with a very successful Freshman Orientation week directed by Mary Betty Meyersieck in coordination with John Schubert. Shirley Hendricks has been elected to orientate the froshies this coming year. A chaperone file, tutoring system, student-faculty luncheon, and a tea in February for new second semester women students are included in the year's activities.

With the cheerleaders leading the crowds on to greater vocal honors, and the contestants on to make better victories, the Pep Club led the school on toward a goal of greater school spirit.

The Pep Club

The Pep Club at WU, in its second year after reorganization, looks back on the past year as a very successful one.

With the innovation of the victory bell at football games, increased membership as indicated by more red and green jackets on campus, and the great spirit at the Homecoming Rally all point to the success of the Club.

The Pep Club sold pennants at the football games this year, and also sold those ever popular "mums" at the Homecoming Game. A new item on the campus, the Washington U. license plates, were also initiated by the Club this year. With the popcorn concession at the basketball games, the two bonfire rallies, and the chartered trip to the Butler game all added up to one thing — a great year.

Student Senate

Many projects were successfully introduced and completed at this year's Student Senate. Meetings — held on alternate Fridays — were called to order by Jim Jones and Marge Ritter. On the agenda were programs designed to benefit the student body as well as strengthen student-faculty ties; these concerned a compulsory activity ticket, the cheating problem, and student representation on the disciplinary committee, the standardization of publicity on campus bulletin boards, teacher evaluation, and assemblies. Senate-sponsored activities featured Homecoming, Freshman Orientation, the initial Football Banquet, and the beginning of a series of athletic contest trips. Internal organization was revamped to create an activities administrator on an executive board which included Carol Wolf, Shirley Hendricks, Nan Jackson, and Frank Haley. The group conducted an activities survey and revised election procedure before the final rap of the Senate gavel.

The University Choir

The beautiful music at the various religious services held in Graham Memorial Chapel throughout the year has been due to the unceasing efforts of the choir. Organized three years ago, the choir is composed of sixty select voices and is now under the direction of Mr. Howard Kelsey. They meet every Tuesday afternoon for rehearsal.

Several notable secular works have been presented to the student body, faculty, and visitors. Among the outstanding renditions were Saint Saen's "Christmas Oratorio," and the "Chorale" from "St. Matthew's Passion."

The highpoint of its activities was a Christmas Carol service given before the holiday season. The traditional "Messiah" of George Frederick Handel was presented in the form of a candlelight program, and the choir was accompanied by a string ensemble from the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. A capacity audience, which gathered in the beautifully decorated chapel, joined the choir in singing many Christmas carols.

The spiritual value of the religious services has been increased immeasurably by the $52,000 organ made possible by the gift of the late Miss Avis Blewett. One of the finest in the midwest, the organ made its debut last year. Miss Blewett was active in the establishment of the W.U. music school.

The University Band

In the 1948 Homecoming Parade, the new Washington University Band made its first appearance to the people of St. Louis. In temporary uniforms of brilliant red jackets and contrasting white trousers, the university band demonstrated its excellence in musicianship and marching to the thousands who saw the parade.

That Saturday afternoon at the Homecoming Game, the high point of the half time activities was the band show saluting Western Michigan and welcoming the Old Bruin back to the archway of Brookings.

When it is considered that the band was completely brought together, organized, and rehearsed to these achievements in only those few weeks from registration to Homecoming, the further performances of the new university band on the football field promises to be of the highest caliber.

The new university band is not only excellent outdoors, but on the concert stage its achievements are also something to be remembered. The exciting concert in March at Graham Chapel definitely proved that the members of the band are musicians with no small ability for modern concert music. Again the relatively small numbers proved that a large aggregation is not essential but that unity of purpose and great ability prove the worth of the ensemble. The university band at this concert played musical numbers written especially for band by some of the best known contemporary and classical composers.

In addition to football shows and concert appearances, it should be remembered that the new Washington University Band is a student activity on the compus. The band's booth at the Thurtene Carnival in May remains something to be remembered. One of the most unusual booths at the carnival — the "Wuband Gay Nineties Stage Bar" provided entertainment, relaxation, and refreshment.

The University Chorus

The Washington University Chorus has been an essential part of campus life for many years, experiencing a rapid growth in popularity since its founding. Not only has the chorus brought pleasure to those who enjoy singing, but the programs which they have offered throughout the years to all students and public have been very refreshing. During the past season, a mixed group of more than fifty students met in Graham Memorial Chapel each Thursday to blend their voices in song.

Under the able leadership of Dr. Frank Harrison, who is nationally known in the field of music, the chorus built up a varied repertoire of well-known choral music. Many campus musical activities were presented by the chorus during the past season. Two outstanding presentations include Bach's "Oratorial" and a program sponsoring a city wide music festival in which other local schools participated. The "Oratorial" was enhanced by the accompaniment of the W.U. orchestra, several members of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and other professional musicians. The presentation was a part of the music festival held to celebrate the Christmas holidays. Easter plays a very important part in the schedule of the chorus when a music program is given in addition to vespers.

Several small supper parties were held throughout the year to supplement the activities of the chorus. The facilities of the Campus Y provided the background for the parties. Entertainment completed each program to the satisfaction of all.

Having completed a very successful, rounded out season, the chorus plans to present even greater seasons, promising to raise the group above all previous standards. Under the guidance of Dr. Harrison, this new high should be easily obtained.

Quad Club

The story of "Big Time," this year's Quad Show, closely parallels the history of the Quadrangle Club itself. Quad Club dates back to the pre-war years of 1910 and '11 when W.U.'s football squad was in dire need of uniforms. A hastily organized meeting was held by a group of loyal students, who assigned themselves to the task of solving the problem of the school's "fighting eleven." After much consultation, it was decided that the solution could be the production of a money-making musical comedy, given in 1910, which was entitled, appropriately enough, "Quadrangle Town."

The first show was a success, so much so, that it was given again in 1911. Shows were presented until America's entry in 1915 into World War I. Quad shows were resumed in 1926, and productions were presented annually until 1933. Resuming production in 1942, Quad Club productions were again presented to appreciative audiences. Such recent hits as "Sugar and Spice," "Southern Comfort," and "Hellasbelle" have been indicative of the fine entertainment the Quad Club has brought to W.U.

Quad Club's interesting and entertaining musical production for 1949 was written by Jack Samuels and Jeff Bates. Musical score for the show was written by Ronald Stein, Dave Lehr, Richard Acton, and Sidney Savan. Ed. Butler directed; Fred Kettlekamp was the advisor; A. S. Oliveri, singing director; Lalla Bauman, dancing director; and Norman Falkanhainer, conductor of the orchestra.

R. O. T. C.

The Reserve Officers Training Corps at Washington University has as its purpose the procurement of reserve officers for the national defense. To this end, the Washington University Corps is organized into two divisions. The lower division teaches basic military education to Freshmen and sophomores. After the completion of two years of basic training, a certain number of men are selected for the upper division. The upper division prepares the men for commissions in the reserves. Colonel Cole and his staff are now established in their new Quonset Hut that they occupied at the beginning of the school year. The R.O.T.C. is now developing good citizens of the nation as well as training men for the country's defense.

Not apple pie, but Sigma Pi!

Delta Sigma Pi

Delta Sigma Pi, professional commerce and finance fraternity, was founded on the Washington University campus in 1927. With the depression, Alpha Chi chapter went inactive and remained dormant until the spring of 1948.

The aims of Delta Sigma Pi are to foster the study of business, to encourage scholastic attainment and the association of students for their mutual advancement, to promote closer affiliation between the commercial world and students of commerce, and to further a higher standard of commercial ethics.

Delta Sigma Pi boasted over its increase in membership, its professional meetings, and memorable social gatherings, such as the one held at Granger Hall. Guiding the progress of Delta Sigma Pi since its rebirth has been Jack "Smiley" Reimers, Headmaster who has been ably assisted by faculty advisor William H. Stansfield and the other officers.

Debate Council

The Debate Squad, open to all students on a try-out basis, is organized to give training, practice, and experience in discussing controversial subjects with other universities and before various organizations. With a squad of thirty-five members, the group has expanded its program to such an extent that this year's activities surpassed those of last year. There were seventy-five debates with nearly thirty colleges.

The squad participated in the Grand Western Tournament at Northwestern University, in the Missouri State Tournament at Warrensburg, the Missouri Valley tournament in Iowa, and the Delta Sigma Rho Congress at Chicago.

Such subjects as Federal Aid to Education, Russo-American Relations, the Taft-Hartley Law, and Federal World Government were debated. Weekly meetings of the entire squad are held to plan the social activities and to permit the squad to participate in the Oxford parliamentary system of debating.

ATHLETICS

Brains plus brawn

Washington University has pioneered in the revolutionary policy of "amateur athletics," a movement closely patterned after Hitler's "Strength Through Joy" program. It believes that value can be attained by divorcing athletics from the more sordid financial aspects so prevalent at other universities. The University athletic officials believe that good, clean sports, without an eye to scholarships and gate receipts, can better prepare its athletes for better-paying jobs when they leave. This also holds true for the coaches.

Aside from an intercollegiate program which includes contests in such sports as football, baseball, track, basketball, swimming and golf, the University has initiated an intramural program of athletics. This intramural program has proved popular with the students and Health Service alike. On smoky Autumn afternoons it is common to see students urging the intramural hockey and football teams on to victory with loud, clear voices. From many of the contests a healthy rivalry ensues, and the teams fight on with grim, silent determination, broken only by the cries of the maimed and the wounded.

Winner among losers.

Spirit and drive keynoted the second year of Weeb Ewbank's football domain on the Hilltop. Aided by last year's coaching staff, head coach Ewbank combined the remaining lettermen and progressive junior-varsity men into another amateur power.

Faced with a hard ten game season, Weeb had the boys out weeks before fall semester began. Once again long hours were spent in physical conditioning and in teaching the Ewbank system. All this paid off as the Bears turned out a 9-1 record in the newly refurbished Francis Field.

In the first period, Lu Rawlings started the touchdown parade with a pass interception. Gerstung carried to the 40 for a first down. Then with a Rawlings pass, he scampered to the Rolla 20. Four plays later, Hank Christmann smacked over for a score. In the third quarter, Charlie Eberlie scored and later little Charlie Winner skirted his left end for the Bears' last touchdown. Rolla finally tallied in the last two minutes.

WASHINGTON 14

The Bears blew down a determined Carnegie Tech team by a 14-6 margin. The Tartans single wing formation often baffled the Bruins who fumbled away numerous chances, allowing quarterback Sommers to toss a 31 yard pass for the Sibos' only score. Midway in the third period, the Bears began to hang on to the pigskin. Christmann and Eberle carried over the chalk for score No. 1. Late in the fourth period Gerstung snared a Rawlings pass for the second TD. The Bears weak pass defense gave the Tartans 132 yards via the air.

5600 partisan Bear fans saw star halfback Bill Gerstung gain 138 yards in eleven tries to lead the Bruins in a 20-0 triumph over Washburn from Topeka, Kansas. The Hilltoppers scored twice in the first quarter. Eberle and Christmann scored on line plunges. Jim Sprick converted on both attempts. Then, in the fourth quarter, Gerstung scooted 79 yards for the last Bear score. Bob Clodfelter brought the crowd to its feet with his offensive and defensive play, as did Christmann and Eberle. Bob Buhrmaster, who took over halfback duties for the injured Charlie Winner, added another running threat to the Bear's offensive game. The Bruins gained 350 yards rushing in this game.

The Bears excelled as they edged out Butler, 7-0. Weeb Ewbank took his injury riddled squad to Indianapolis, where they proceded to spoil the Bulldog's rainy homecoming. Washington's attack was completely mired down in the first half. Butler's big team threatened several times but never managed to get any closer than the Bear 14. The Bruins marched to the Bulldog 2 where Eberle went over on the first play of the fourth quarter. Sprick converted.

WASHINGTON 40
Colorado College 7 (Away)

Ewbank's squad began to attract more than campus attention as the Bears, playing their second road game, smashed the Colorado College Tigers, 40-7. Christmann and Winner each tallied once in the first half; Colorado scored in the second quarter on a 74 yard drive. The Hilltoppers poured over two touchdown in the third quarter and two more in the last period, totaling 448 yards on the ground. Winner accounted for 201.

Oberlin 20 (Home)

The Bears returned home to face Oberlin as one of 36 unbeaten collegiate teams. But they trounced the Yoemen 33-20 in a continuous downpour before some 4200. Nischwitz, Reynolds, and Eberle were out because of injuries. Winner sprinted 37 yards for the first score, then Rawlings passed to Gerstung, and Stocker tossed a 20 yard heave to Greig to give the Hilltoppers a 19-0 half time lead. Dave Crispen ran 70 yards for a TD and Bill Weaver went 74 to score Oberlin's two touchdowns, but Gerstung tallied again on another Rawlings pass and Leroy Vogts plunged over to cap a 65 yard Washington drive and insure victory.

Lady Luck seemed to frown on the Bruins in this game, for the total injuries, the Medical School exam that kept Tackle Norm Halliday from playing, and the rain severely threatened the Bear's offensive. Despite these many obstacles, the Bears came forth with a 441 yard offensive, 278 achieved on land and 163 through passing.

This was a field day for the Bruins, and Bunny won't forget the names of Gerstung, Winner, and Stephens.

Washington 6
WESTERN MICHIGAN 18 (Here)

10,250 Homecoming fans saw the Bears lost their only game to a rugged Western Michigan squad. The Bruins started right as they scored quickly in the first quarter on a double reverse by Winner. The Broncos, who outweighed the Bears, made good use of this advantage by scoring twice in the second period. The victors third score in the second half sealed the 6-18 verdict as the Bears couldn't cash in on any of three late scoring opportunities.

It was too bad that the winning streak had to be ended on Homecoming, but the big, rough crew in the gold and brown uniforms proved to be too much for the Bears. The Bears put up a good fight throughout the game, but they were outweighed and outplayed, especially on the ground, where Western Michigan gained 166 yards.

What's on the other side?

WASHINGTON 27
University of the South 6 (Away)

The Bruins rebounded after their Homecoming loss to trounce the University of the South, otherwise known as Sewanee, 27-6. In the final road game, Christmann scored in the first quarter, followed by a 48 yard Gerstung run for another score. The third TD also come before the half as Rawlings passed to Gerstung in the end zone. The Tigers only score came late in the third period. The fourth quarter saw Bob Buhrmaster crack over for the last Bear touchdown. Don Belt kicked all three conversions.

The University of the South was undefeated before they met the Bears. However, the Bears managed to spoil Sewanee's homecoming, and in some measure avenge their own Homecoming defeat at the hands of Western Michigan.

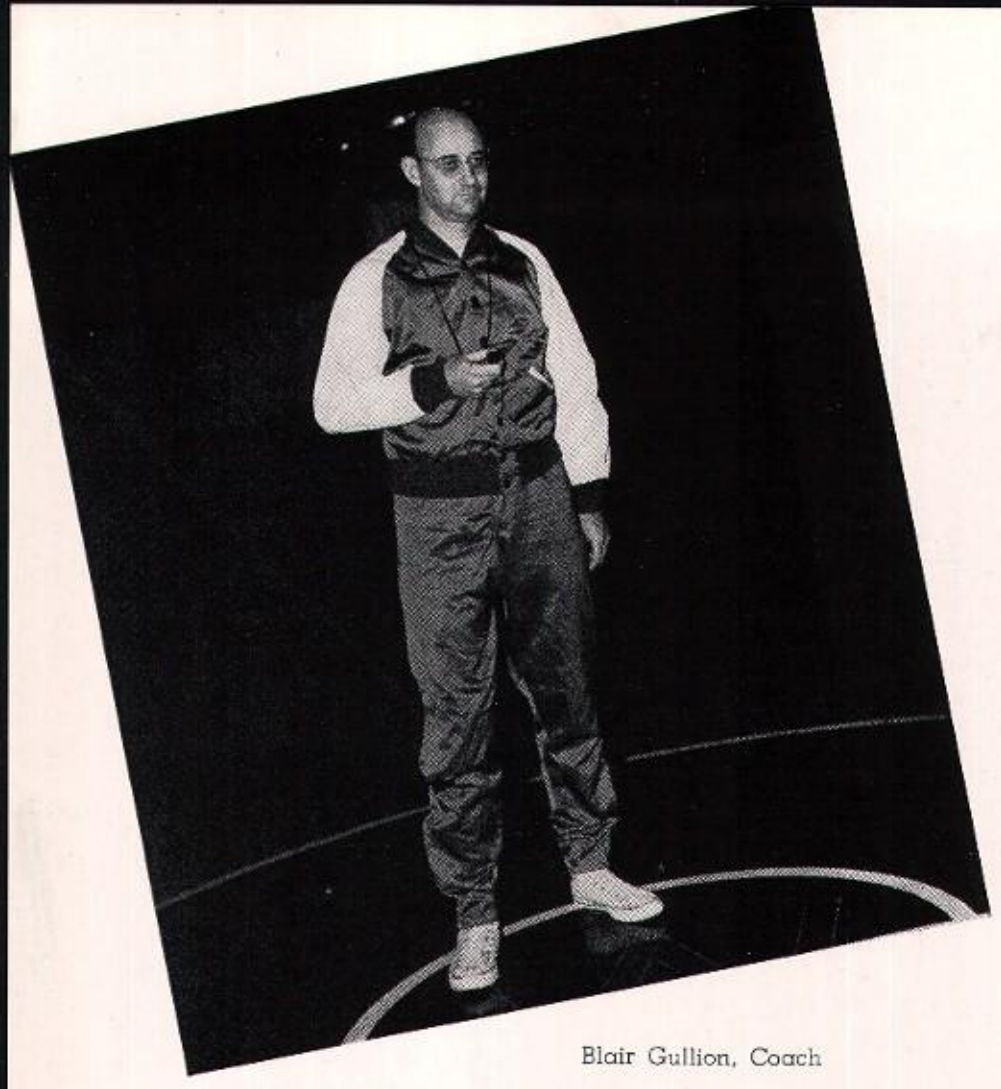
Basketball



Blair Gullion, Coach

Coach Blair Gullion's varsity basketball team, engaging in one of the most ambitious schedules ever attempted by any Washington University cage squad, turned in the finest record achieved by a Hilltop hardwood group since the great 1919-1920 team, by winning 13 while dropping only nine contests.

With Stan London, Washington's great basketeer, missing from this year's opening lineup, the Bears appeared to be in for a rough season as they were scheduled to face such formidable opposition as Indiana, Kansas, Missouri, Valparaiso, Louisville, and Indiana State. Unable to depend on any individual to continually pace the offense, Coach Gullion planned an attack which would feature five rather than one major scoring star in addition to concentrating heavily on defensive play. And well balanced was the Washing attack with a mere 15 points separating the top five scorers after a 22 game schedule. Defensively, the Bears ranked among the top 15 teams in the nation, holding opponents to an even 45 points per contest.

The Bruins opened the season with relatively easy wins over Missouri Valley and Westminster, but bowed to a powerful University of Missouri quint in one of two games this season in which the Hilltoppers were actually outclassed. Then came a last minute one point loss at the hands of nationally ranked Louisville, but the Bears rebounded to take the measure of Border Conference Champions, Arizona, by a 12 point margin. North Dakota was next to fall before the Bruin attack but again a heartbreaking loss, this time to Vanderbilt, preventing the extention of a winning streak.

The Bear five invaded Nebraska and divided a pair of contests, spilling Creighton rather decisively and dropping a close one to the University of Nebraska. Phog Allen's Kansas club supplied some fisticuffs in addition to displaying a fine cage performance, as the Jayhawks squeezed by the Bears in a rough, tight ball game. Rolla and Central were downed handily, but in another reversal of form, the Bears went into a two game losing skein against Western Illinois State and Louisville in road games.

Back on the Field House court, the Hilltoppers avenged the Western Illinois defeat, running away from the Crusaders 50-38. Creighton, Rolla, and Westminster lost to the Bears on second meetings but Kansas again took the Highpoint of the season came on appreciation night at the Field House at the season's finale, when the Bears entered the game as 12 point underdogs against highly touted Indiana State, one of the nation's top ranking quintets, and came off the court with a thrilling 48-45 upset victory. With the return next year of such stalwarts as the Pearce twins, Bob Light, Hadley Hasemeier, and possibly Captain Johnny Palcheff, who placed fifth among the nation's collegiate hardwood performers in free throw percentages, the basketballers of Washington University, with reinforcements from a jayvee squad that sported a 13-4 record, seem certain to attain national recognition in 1950.

Boyd also set a new mark in the 50 yard dash, eclipsing a record which has stood up for nearly 20 years.

The Bear aquatic squad opened with a comparatively easy 47-28 win over Bradley University. Then Murray State of Kentucky was thoroughly dunked by the Bruin watermen 63-12, but the Bears were handed their initial defeat by the University of Chicago in a close meet, 41-34. An outstanding University of Illinois team took the measure of the Hilltoppers 55-20 in the Champaign pool but the Bears came back to take all first and second places against Louisville in a 66-9 contest. However, a surprisingly powerful Missouri Mines team edged the Bears in the season's finale 42-33.

Robert Williams, who won every diving event but one during the regular season, placed seventh in the diving competition.

Lettermen Roland Rohlfing, Tim Kin Wong, Don Keller, Larry Sloop, George Stern, Dan Dunbar, Earnest Keathly, and Stuart Haw will form the nucleus of next year's squad which promises to at least equal and perhaps better the performance of this year's group.

The 1948 Hilltop Golf season resulted in the golfers winning five of their eight matches. Beginning by scoring victories over Rolla and Shurtleff, the boys dropped the next two to Missouri. They then registered victories over Westminster and Shurtleff again, before losing the season's closer to a strong Oklahoma A and M squad. Baseball 1948

In their first season under coach Irv Uteritz, the 1948 baseball team played a twenty-four game schedule and came out in the end with an even .500 average. The schedule featured games with some of the outstanding universities in the Midwest, as the baseball Bears played representatives of the Big Seven, Big Nine, Southwest, and Missouri Valley Conferences. The usual line-up of the team was as follows: Paul Birenbaum 2B, Bus Lawson SS, Don Belt CF, John Palcheff 3B, Jack Vahlkamp LF, Don Schleiffarth 1B, Earl Samel C, and Paul Fritz RF, followed by the pitcher, which was usually Dick Roth or Dick Pierce.

Cross Country

"Over hill, over dale" went the best Cross Country Team that WU has ever produced. In six meets, under the leadership of "Doc" Summers, the harriers won five straight before yielding a tie to the undefeated University of Louisville. Falling beneath the runners were the University of Chicago, Southeast Illinois, Rolla twice, and the University of Illinois, Chicago Division. Paced by Teddy Ratliff, the team was well rounded by Don Brown and Pete Ellis. Ratliff was the best man that WU has had in many seasons, and kept rolling along despite injuries that bothered him all season.

First Row: Benedict, Robinson, Meyer, Schifferdecker, Jacobi. Second Row: Ellis, Brown, Bausback, Mr. Summers, Ratliff, Killeen, Heger.

Track - 1948

The 1948 track season proved very successful. The high flying Bruins coached by Les Avery scored five straight victories before being defeated by Bradley Tech at Peoria. The 1948 season combined several strong schools with some triangular meets to produce class A competition.

In the first meet of the season the Bear cindermen downed Missouri Valley 73-57. The next Saturday was at Cape Girardeau in the annual triangular meet with Missouri Teachers and Missouri School of Mines. The Bears won 73-45-42 and moved on to press out Westminster 70 to 60. A trip to Oberlin, Ohio netted a 76-53-32 triumph over Chicago University and Oberlin. On the local scene, Washington played host to surrounding colleges by taking 101 points and giving 26 to Principia, 19 to McKendry, 15 to Shurtleff and only one point to Concordia. This run down was followed by a rain-out of a dual meet with Southern Illinois Normal. The last meet was a triangular affair between Bradley Tech, University of Detroit, and Washington. Misfortune suddenly struck as Brown pulled a muscle on the 220 curve, thus losing many valuable points as the Bears salvaged a second place with 47 points. Bradley walked off with 75 while U. of Detroit came in with 43.

High point man for the year was Don Brown who starred in 440 and 220 yard dashes, broke a record by running the 440 in 48.6. Other stars were Dick Lennertson, high jump record holder; John Fuldner, Lou Kohn, Bob Guy, and Howard Dartt, sprinters; Gene Zehr and Perry Voss of the high hurdles; Jack Schulte, LeMasters, Bob Mohr, and Dave Essen, middle distance runners; Ted Ratliff and Lee Wolf, long distance men; Leroy Vogts, Dick Steenrod, and Ed Lansche, discus and shot put; and Art Bauer and Dave Fowler, javelin.

"W" Club

The purpose of the "W" Club is to recognize, through a student organization, those men who have fulfilled the requirements for a varsity letter through participation in competitive athletics. The "W" Club strives to foster good fellowship among varsity athletes and to encourage the spirit and ideals of good fellowship. Also it endeavors to assist the Athletic Department in carrying out its program of intercollegiate and intramural athletics, to support any policy established by the university, and to function as a student organization in the best interests of Washington University and its students.

During this past year the club has done many things. It has adopted an official club jacket, which is rapidly becoming a familiar sight around campus. It was honored by having Dr. Arthur B. Cleaves, of the Geology Department, become its faculty sponsor. It continued assisting the Athletic Department in the selling of soda at football and basketball games. It also sold soda at several school dances and at the Thurtene Carnival. On the social side, it had a dinner meeting and held two parties, one being a dance at the Student Center.

This year, for the first time in many years, a spring sports day was held and sponsored by the W Club. The various high school athletes were invited to come out to the University and observe the various sports in action at the University. A box lunch was served to all the guests, and they had their choice of seeing a baseball game, a swimming exhibition, a track meet, or observing the spring football practice.

First Row: Brown, Bliss, Buhrmaster, Ban Nest, Bill Ziervogel, Schulte, Lawson, Rosenblatt, Roth, Wood. Second Row: Kohn (Rec. Sec.), Miller, Robbins, Reynolds (Pres.), Guariglia, Light, Cleaves, Voss, Waeltz, Halliday, Turley, Maxeiner, Vogts, Kramer, Jones (V.-Pres.).

Intramurals

One of the most popular functions on the campus is the intramural sports program. Besides the entrance of two new fraternities and a graduate league, there was the usual high number of independent enthusiasts. One of the highlights of the season was the record breaking total of forty teams entered for basketball participation.

Under the capable supervision of director Les Avery and assistant director Ralph Pribula, this year's activities were efficiently conducted and publicized by the Student Intramural Staff. Head of this group was Pete Ellis who was Senior Manager. Junior Managers were Dick Williams and Norman Zaitsman while Jack Lauer, Stuart Hollander, George Herold, Melvin Bloom, and Russ Geiselmann were the Sophomore managers. Considerable help was received from Ed Kennedy.

The year started off with tennis which was won by Sigma Alpha Mu. Phi Delta Theta again won the football championship by defeating the Independent winners, Hatchet Post.

Other activities and their winners up to mid year were Cross Country, Beta Theta Pi; Swimming, Theta Xi; Handball, Sigma Alpha Mu; and Wrestling, Sigma Nu.

While cups and medals were being awarded to individual winners, the Theta Xi's were well on their way towards securing another leg on the Participation Trophy.

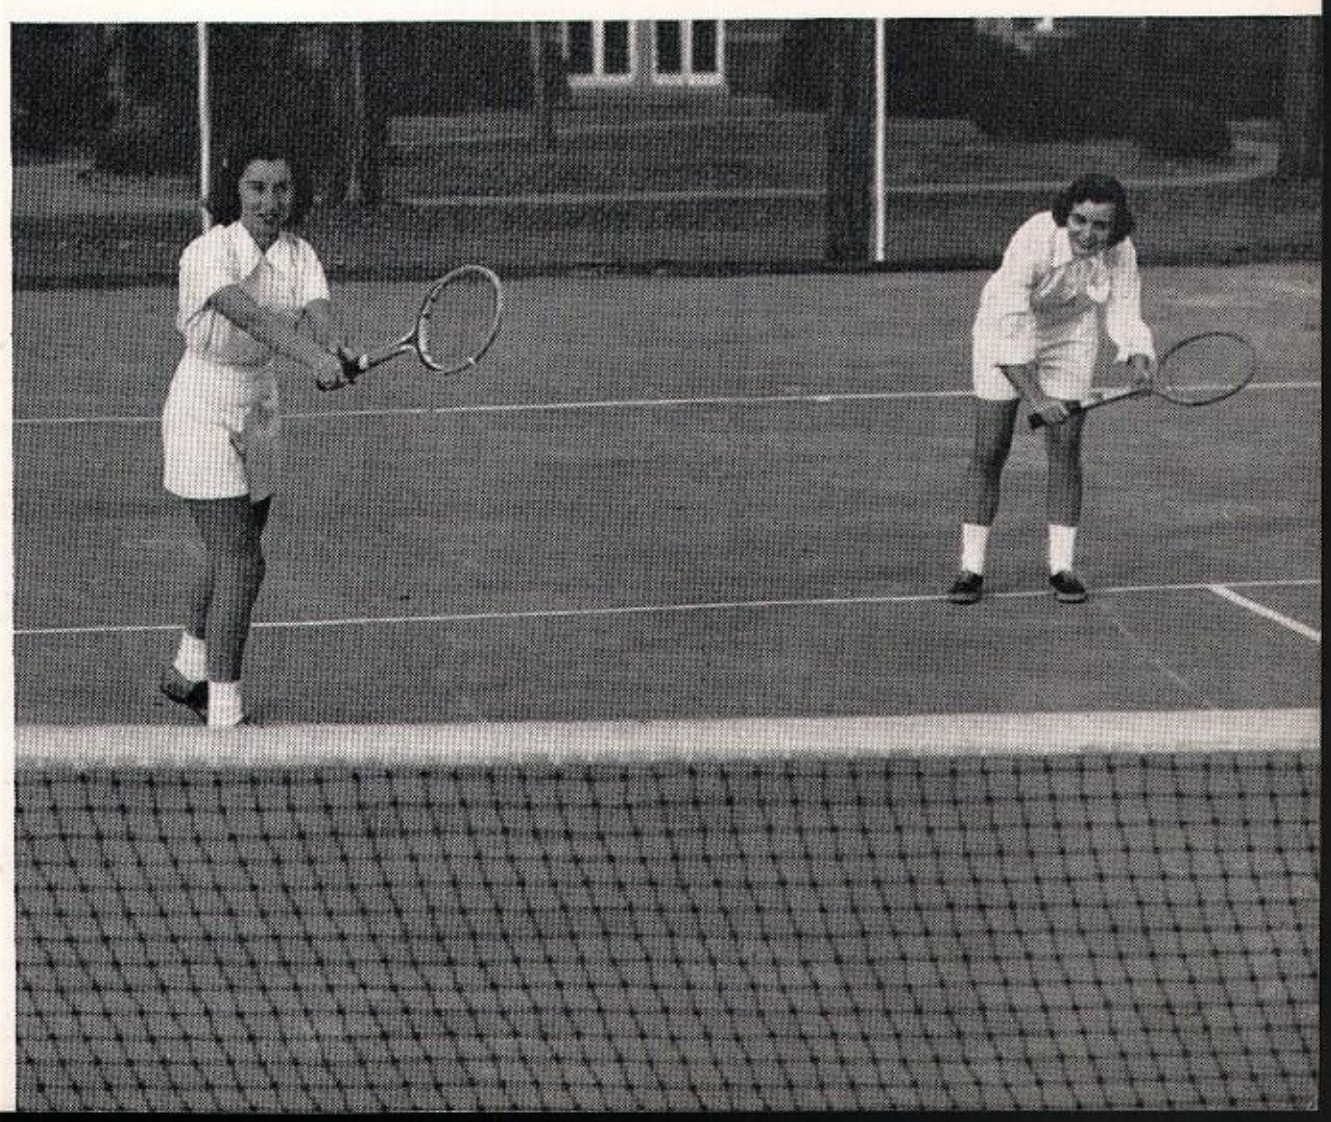
The Women's Recreational Association carried on an extensive program of activities this year, sponsoring activity in fourteen sports and planning several tournaments.

The fall season started off with hockey under the management of Loretta Darigo, and even in freezing weather the hockey sticks were flying. Inside, autumn activity consisted of a badminton tournament planned by manager Arden Mueller. Theta's sister team, Millie and Jean Norwine, won the intergroup trophy.

Before Christmas volleyball players kept warm with practice periods supervised by Shirley Heyne. An intramural contest held in this sport was won by Delta Gamma. Other winter athletic activities sponsored by W.R.A. were ice-skating at the Winter Garden under manager Del Kooreman; recreational swimming at Wilson Pool managed by Betsy Kittrell; and ping pong under the managership of Doris Austin.

Always a love match.



"Put your shoes on, Lucy, you're a big girl now."

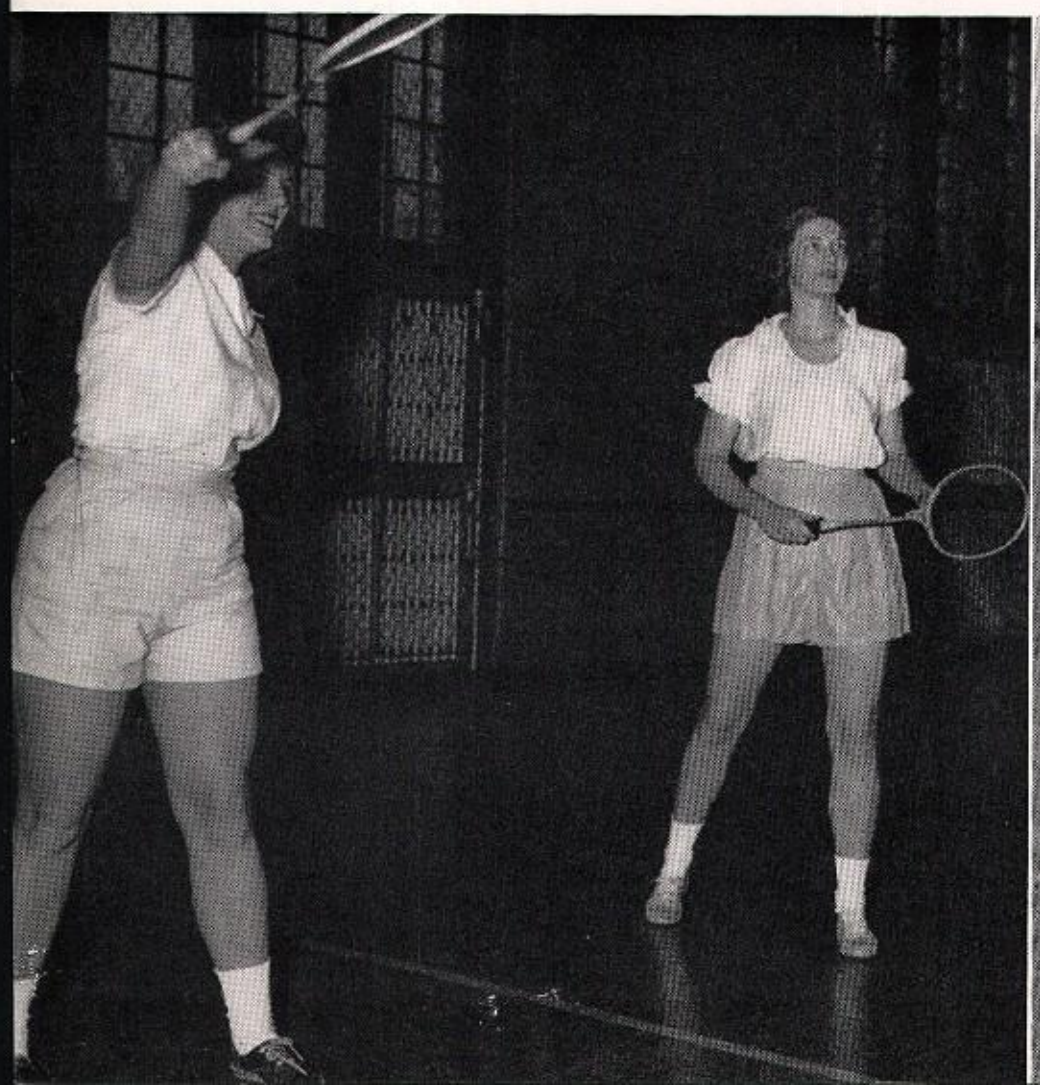
W. R. A.

Members of the Culbertson cult gathered at the Student Center on the evening of February 17th to play off a duplicate bridge tourney. This activity was an innovation this year which was enthusiastically received by W.U. coeds.

Bowling enthusiasts held practice sessions under manager Gerry Woodworth who left the girls with little time to "spare." During the second semester Washington U. Mermaids planned and presented their annual water carnival, this year given on a Gay Nineties theme. Grete Rice was WUMS president first semester and Betsy Kittrell, second.

Spring activities presented by W.R.A. included softball, under the direction of Marge Hoffeld; tennis, managed by Elaine Loeb; golf, supervised by Marilyn Herpel; and horseback riding.

What a racquet!

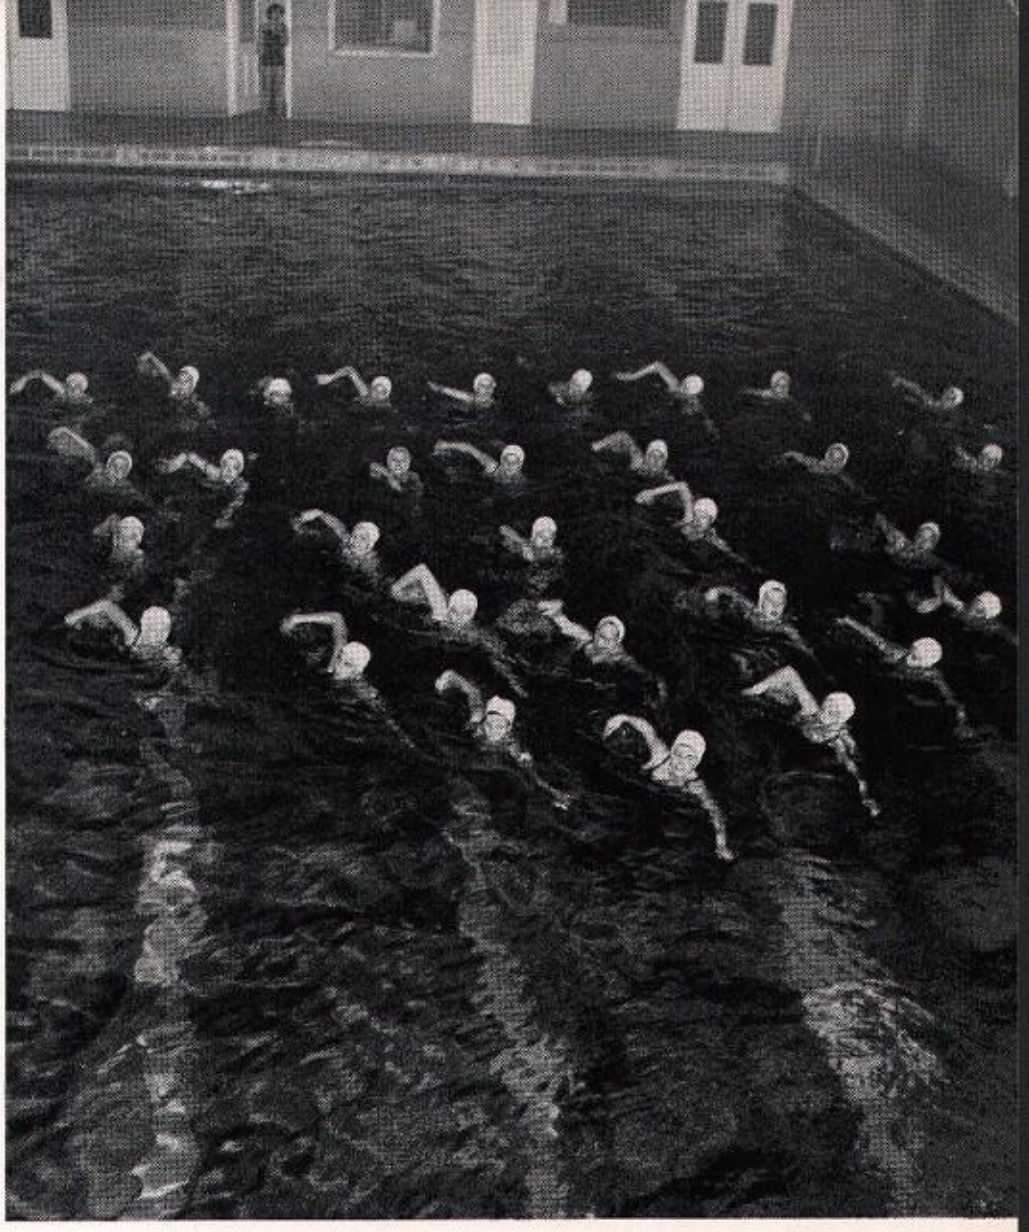


"I shot an arrow in the air . . ."

WUMS

No other organization ever made such a big splash as the Washington U. Mermaids when more than fifty swimmers dove in at the weekly Monday night meetings. Changing officers in mid-stream, the organization selected Betsy Kittrell to take over Grete Rice's presidential duties in January.

WUM activities for the year centered around two important functions. In the fall a swim symposium was held at which Monticello and Lindenwood colleges were guests at Francis pool. Second semester the girls began work on their water carnival which this year followed a "Gay Nineties" theme. As part of this show, Miss Anne Ross, WUM's sponsor, presented a diving act; outstanding skit of the carnival was the "Frankie and Johnnie" number. Music for other acts was furnished by a quartette, and all took part in the "Meet Me in St. Louis" finale.



They used to be in the Waves, but now they're just twenty-nine ripples.

NIGHT LIFE

The Right Life

Along with Dr. Usher's history and two years of Sanscrit, it is an unwritten law that every female candidate for a degree must have been a candidate for at least one queen. If a girl has not been a candidate . . . for a queen, that is, she cannot be a candidate for a degree! This requirement isn't very difficult to fulfill, for the number of queens who are elected yearly are limited only by our feminine enrollment. There is a Hatchet Queen, a Homecoming Queen, the Beaux Arts Queen, and a score of others. There is even a Dean Queen.

Along with the various proms and other all-school social functions, the fraternities and sororities add greatly to the mad gaiety of the social whirl. The most famous aspect of fraternity social life are their world-renowned tea dances. Lashed into a "Do Or Die For Old Beta Pi" spirit by their social chairmen, the fraternities go bravely forth to meet the feminine component of the campus. Meeting each other in erotic juxtaposition on the dance floor, they yeomanly hold out until the music stops. Then they rush to sofas and chairs where they ask each other what school they are in and feast ravenously upon stale cakes and a passionless purple punch. This grand scale "musical chairs" continues until several of the men motion for reinforcements and hurry upstairs for a cold shower and the application of stimulants. They are replaced for the rest of the contest by brothers who are delinquent in their dues.

Homecoming

The 1948 Homecoming week-end got underway on Friday evening, November 12, when spirited torch-bearers paraded behind the band and Pep Club to the bonfire site on campus. After a rousing rally, Washington U. students went en masse to Medarts for food and fun.

On Saturday morning the annual parade proceeded from Brookings to Broadway, displaying thirty-seven floats which carried out the Homecoming theme "Beat Western Michigan." Queen candidates rode in convertibles at the head of the procession and took part in the traditional downtown ceremony with the mayor. The big event of the afternoon was, of course, the football game against Western Michigan which was attended by a record crowd of ten thousand. Although the Bears had won seven games straight, the Broncos threw them for a loss by a score of 19-6.

At half-time, the nominees for Queen were presented to the Homecoming crowd, and, as the colorful floats were drawn around the track, cups were awarded to winning organizations. Prizes for the best floats went to Alpha Chi Omega, Phi Delta Theta, and the Art School Association. Kappa Alpha's "Steamroller" theme rated first among fraternity house decorations. After the game fraternity houses, Lee and Liggett Halls, Student Center, and the Student Activity Center opened their doors to welcome freezing friends with handshakes and hot coffee.

At the Homecoming Dance Saturday evening Frankie Masters played to a capacity crowd in the Field House. Decorations consisted of crepe paper camouflaging and large cardboard sketches which symbolized various schools and organizations on campus. Attention focused on the coronation when Queen Charlotte Obst received the Homecoming crown from Chancellor Compton.

All in all, the 1948 Homecoming was really one to remember. Hats off to the committee headed by Jack Barsanti which worked so hard to make it all possible.

Seventeen Homecoming Hopefuls

Homecoming

If you chance to be down Bixby way, and run into a very charming young lady with a beautiful smile, you are probably gazing upon Washington University's Homecoming Queen, Miss Charlotte Obst. On the night of November 13, Miss Obst walked off with one of the most coveted queenships on campus. A sophomore in Fine Arts, Charlotte is claimed by Delta Gamma as one of their most winsome lasses.

Miss Trina Heffernan, another one of those Art School beauties, followed Miss Obst as the Special Maid. Well known as a queen on campus, Trina was a maid for the Beaux Arts Ball last spring. When not in the Gamma Phi room, Trina can usually be found down in Bixby, making her own clothes.

Miss Pat Noonan, willowy member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, is a junior in Liberal Arts, and can usually be seen on campus with a certain male. The Theta Xi's passed her petition, and perhaps a connection between the two goes farther than this.

Miss Ann Williams, sophomore member of Kappa Alpha Theta, is well known on campus as last year's dandelion Queen. Ann can boast that she has had more males doing manual labor for her than any other queen on campus.

Miss June Baumer, another one of those beautiful queens from the lower campus, claims Givens Hall and the Alpha Chi room as her homes. A sophomore, June is a member of the Architectural Society and Alpha Alpha Gamma.

Gold Diggers' Ball

It was Jack, and not Jane, who eagerly waited for the 'phone to ring, hoping that his favorite fraulein would favor him with an invitation to the Golddiggers' Ball. Since it was still leap year, Washington U. coeds jumped at the chance to show their favorite beaux a good time by escorting them to the annual backward affair which was held at the Field House on Saturday evening, November 20.

Taking over the duties of escorts, the girls also assumed such duties as paying for the tickets, buying cokes, furnishing cigarettes, holding coats for their dates, and otherwise conducting themselves as "perfect gentlemen."

His Royal Majesty, Charles Eberle, begins his reign at a dry dance.

Be a good boy and I'll crown you —

According to custom, girls designed original corsages to present to their dates at the dance. During the evening Mortar Board members pinned yellow ribbons on those young men whose corsages they felt were the most unusual. This year's corsages were not lacking in originality, and included such conglomerations as a mouse trap with a live mouse in it, a flower pot with little flowers growing on artificial stems, a real hornet's nest with simulated hornets swarming it, and a bunch of large lollipops held together with a sign reading, "My Sucker." The selected couples assembled before the throne for the final corsage judging by Dean Starbird, Mrs. Belknap, Mrs. Compton, and wives of other faculty members. Prizes were later awarded to the winners.

King for a Night

To a fanfare by Leo Daniels' orchestra, members of the previously selected King's Court were escorted to the dais by Mortar Board girls. These royal gentlemen were Beta John Schubert, First Jack; Sigma Nu Bob Borntraeger; Kappa Sig Ken Ittner; and K. A. Bill Tolouse. Finally, with fitting ceremony, Phi Delt Charles Eberle was escorted to the throne and crowned Kampus King by the retiring King, Jack Smylie.

The decorations consisted of a canopy of black and variegated yellow crepe paper, with huge cardboard gold pieces and dollar signs around the walls and large paper mortar boards at each end of the hall.

It was an evening of many laughs and an unusually good time was had by all when the girls assumed the role of golddigging escorts to the Mortar Board's annual Golddiggers' Ball.

Military ceremony and flourish were the order of the evening of December 3, 1948, when the Washington University battalion of the Reserve Officers Training Corps held its twenty-eighth annual Military Ball. For the second year this formal dance was held in the Gold Room of Hotel Jefferson.

Military Ball

The highlight of the evening was the commissioning of honorary officers by Vice-Chancellor Charles Belknap. The officers were chosen by members of the R.O.T.C. at a tea which was given for the seven girls selected in an all-campus election.

With impressive precision and snap the members of Pershing Rifles formed an honor guard for the ceremony. Accompanied by their Honorary Major, Veiled Prophet Queen Helen Dozier Conant, Pershing Rifle men formed an archway of crossed sabres down the center of the ballroom. Escorted by cadet officers, the honorary officers marched beneath this arch to the bandstand to receive their commissions. Miss Hazel Finley, freshman in the School of Fine Arts and member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, received her rank of Honorary Colonel from retiring Major Polly Andrew of Pi Beta Phi. Chosen as Honorary Major for the Battalion was Miss Marge Ritter of Pi Beta Phi. Honorary rank of captain was bestowed upon the following girls: Battery A, Joan LaRock of Gamma Phi Beta; Battery B, Mary Kollme of Gamma Phi Beta; Battery C, Ruthellyn Rubin; Battery D, Pat Krueger of Pi Beta Phi; and Battery E, Carol Robertson of Alpha Chi Omega. Each officer was also presented with a cape and overseas cap bearing the insigna representing her honorary rank.

The evening's festivities began with a grand march into which over eight hundred students entered. Dancing continued until 1 o'clock to the music of Johnny Polsen's orchestra.

THE HATCHET QUEEN

Miss Marty Glass

Junior Prom - - 1949

The 1949 Junior Prom, the biggest social occasion on the Washington University campus, rolled around on the night of April 22, and as hundreds of students danced to the music of Freddie Martin and his band, Miss Marty Glass prepared for her grand entrance as the 1949 Hatchet Queen. Marty got the crown, and WU got a real queen, for Marty is a real queen in every sense of the word. A senior in the School of Fine Arts, Marty's dress-making ability shows up in the dress that she is wearing across the page. We all love Marty, and being the Hatchet Queen couldn't have happened to a nicer girl.

Preceding Miss Glass down the aisle was Miss Joan Falvey, that energetic bundle of pep that has graced our campus for three years. A member of Kappa Alpha Theta, "Falvey" (as she is known by thousands of affectionate admirers) was her usual beautiful self the night of the Prom.

Miss Eileen Kornblet, a Maid of Honor, will sorrowfully depart from the campus come this June. A member of Gamma Rho, Eileen has served as Pledge-Mistress of that group to boot. We are awfully glad to have you in the Hatchet Court, and that picture below sure is a knockout!

Engineers' Queen 1948

On Saturday, March 20, 1948, the Engineers' Council closed its social season with a revival of their famed Masque Ball. St. Patrick, the mysterious patron saint of the Engineers, again appeared to crown Miss Doris Millner as the 1948 Engineer's Queen. Miss Millner is an Engineer herself, and is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Mrs. Jean McElwee Murray was the Special Maid of Honor, while Moir Brown, Janice Hale, and Barbara Grindell were the remaining maids.

Inter-Fraternity Council

Although Rush Week in September precipitated an annual flare of good-natured fraternity rivalry, by the time classes were officially underway representatives of the supposedly "enemy" organizations — the Inter-Fraternity Council — began their monthly meetings to discuss common fraternity problems over a dinner table.

Proving that friendly relations prevailed on the fraternity front, men from all fraternities enjoyed two I.F.C. formal dances and also banded together for presentation of the second annual Greek Week program in February. The annual I.F.C. Christmas party for underprivileged children held at the Women's Building was the biggest success of the year. This was made evident by the smiling faces as Santa distributed his many gifts and toys. Two more fraternities officially joined the council during the year — Sigma Phi Epsilon and Kappa Sigma. All the year's activities offer more proof that "all's well" with the Greek tribe . . . but then there's Rush week coming up again in September.

Panhellenic

To advance and maintain friendly relationships and cooperation among all sororities and all students is the aim of the Women's Panhellenic Association which meets informally on Mondays at noon. Composed of the presidents and one representative from each sorority plus the officers of Panhellenic, the organization sees that matters function smoothly on the sorority front at all times.

Pan Hel's busiest moments were around formal rush week when plans, regulations, and a schedule for rush parties are made. After rushees exchanged nametags for pledge pins, they attended a pledge banquet held at Medart's on October 26. The Intersorority Sing, organized by Pan Hel, was presented in Graham Chapel on November 3. Following the sing, parents and friends were guests at open houses in the sorority rooms. On March 4 sorority women brought their dates to the Gold Room of the Hotel Jefferson for the annual Panhellenic formal dance.

Independent Men's Association

Growing steadily in membership and in relation to campus activities, the Independent Men's Association has come a long way since its organization in the fall of 1945. The purpose of I.M.A. is to further the spirit of unity among independent men, to increase their opportunities for social life on campus, to develop leadership and loyalty, and to cooperate with all other organizations at Washington U.

During the past year I.M.A. has done much to enhance its campus status. Socially, it gave one all-school dance, two formals, and several small informal parties. Athletically, it participated in football, basketball, and baseball intramurals. The Organization also took part in Homecoming festivities, Thurtene Carnival, and campaigned vigorously in the all-school elections. I.M.A. strongly indorses participation by independent men in all phases of campus life.

Kappa Alpha

It's been a KAvalcade on campus during the past 366 days with memorable occurrences marking the way. Things began happening when the Student Center was transformed into a stately side-wheeler for the traditional Dixie Ball. Then the wheels began turning . . . Stokes and Cueball, namely, and the result? . . . Pinball like it's never been seen before . . . winning the Thurtene Carnival Prize cup. But the builders didn't stop with that. Aided and abetted by the shortnin' bread syllables of Thompson, they devised the Horse and Steamroller to cop both first and second Homecoming awards. . . . Meanwhile there were parties and dances to match every mood and season . . . from orchids at the Chase to be-bop in the basement of Edgewater. A good year, all in all. . . . But the young rebels sneer and say, "You-all ain't seen anything yet."

Pi Kappa Alpha

With "Whammy" Jaeger and his assistant Harry Hyer leading, the Pi Kaps dove off the deep end this fall when they pledged twenty-three new men. The pledges doubted whether the members of the pledge court ("Pappy" Hyer, Byron, and Kraemer) could swim, so the three brothers were obliged to demonstrate. At the pledge dance Al Schweiss could not seem to catch his "floating" cigarette lighter. Homecoming was started with a big splash by the breakfast dance. Brother Neidt was thankful he wasn't swimming when deposited in front of the Fox theater, encumbered by weights and chains; Brother Gilk also suffered while tied to a tree in the woods. Forgetting the unfortunate events the Pi K. A.'s lined up for the second half led by Ken Bullmer and Frank Gilk.

Pi Lambda Phi

Celebrating its 28th year on the Washington U. campus, Pi Lam had a banner year. Highlighting the social season was our annual Thanksgiving Dinner Dance held at the Sheraton Hotel at which time parents and grads mingled with the active chapter. Leading the Pi Lams on campus were Herb Orenstein, member of ODK and Thurtene, and Co-chairman of the Homecoming Dance; Irv Litvag, secretary of the Junior Class, member of Thurtene, and editorial editor of Student Life; and Herb Weitman, Co-chairman of the Freshman Orientation Committee, and member of Thurtene. Athletically the Pi Lams held a virtual monopoly on the softball diamond, finishing last season undefeated, and retiring another trophy to add to our vast collection. Down here on Pershing, the chapter is actively formulating plans for the future and hopes to maintain the traditional success that we have enjoyed for the past 28 years.

Kappa Sigma

Reactivation of Beta Sigma Chapter was effected on the seventy-ninth anniversary of the fraternity's founding, December 10th. President Ralph Soebbing received the chapter's charter from Thomas Cutting, a national officer. After rush week social activities began with a hayride with Beta Chi Chapter from Rolla as guests. October featured the pledge dance at the DeSoto Hotel. The outstanding party of the year was the Bowery Bust at which contests for the best costumes and the longest beards were held. The new chapter celebrated the receiving of the charter and welcomed the Yuletide with a dance at the Melbourne. In the Spring the Stardust Ball was the featured event. Kappa Sigs who distinguished themselves this year were Ken Ittner, winning the intramural cross country run in record time and Ted Ratliff, winning five out of six cross country meets to lead the school team to an undefeated season.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

S.A.E. parties that will be long-remembered by those attending them. The year was begun with a formal pledge dance, and continued with a Halloween costume party, informal parties at the house, open houses, and the Christmas Dance, and Spring formal. Other fraternity activities were under the capable direction of Presidents Jim Jenkins and Dick Mellow during the two semesters. Campus activities received the attention of many S.A.E.'s, with Bill Swick and Guy Wood playing varsity football, and Guy also showing leadership in W.S.S.F., Thurtene, and O.D.K. Frank Haley served as Senate Treasurer; Jule Miller as president of the Debate Council and Senate Parliamentarian; Paul Corning was Student Life Managing Editor and headed the Football Banquet Committee; Jim Jenkins chairmanned the I.F.C.'s Greek Week; Jim Harris was Treasurer of Lock and Chain and in Thyrsus and Quad Show.

Phi Delta Theta

With a large pledge class, a redecorated house, and a television set, Phi Delt began another successful year. Eberle, Kampus King; Strain, Hatchet Editor; Tebbetts, Thurtene President; Gerstung, Business Manager of Student Life; Smylie, Waldemer and Eberle in ODK; Tebbetts and Strain in Thurtene; and our winning Homecoming Float, kept Phi Delt well represented in campus activities. Athletics found the manager and twelve other Phi Delts with positions on the varsity football team. Brothers Halliday and Gerstung were voted the outstanding line and backfield men on the team. While Lee sparked the swimming team, "Burma Bill" held down a spot on the basketball squad. Six more Phi Delts aided the JayVee basketball team. Our intramural football team won the championship for the third straight year.

And the greatest of all, who can ever forget, SCRUBBY!

Sigma Chi

Sigma Chi Fraternity was founded at Miami University on June 28, 1855, becoming the third member of the Miami Triad. The Washington U. chapter received its charter on May 4, 1903, and at that time sixteen members of an undergraduate club, "The Egyptians," became the first Tau Tau Sigs. In 1928 the chapter was moved from Lee Hall to #5 Fraternity Row. The Sigs have taken an active part in all the campus activities and this year held the Intramural Athletic Cup. The names of the members can be found on the rolls of most of the student activities and honorary societies, very often in the positions of officers. Sigma Chi's purpose has been most aptly expressed by George Ade, "to make Washington University, the Sigma Chi Fraternity, and Tau Tau Chapter more honored and honestly respected by all men and women."

SIGMA CHI OFFICERS

Theta Xi

'48 was a big year for the Theta Xi's. We started off the semester with a schedule of tea dances, and then a pledge dance. The fast pace continued with the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance. The Christmas formal was highlighted by the antics of Jim Henry. After finals the social wheels started rolling again. Theta Xi's were outstanding in activities this year. McCue assumed the duties of managing editor on Student Life; Prokop and Jeans played on the football team; Rohlfing, varsity swimming star, helped coach the Theta Xi team to the championship; the Pearce twins starred on the basketball teams; Stamos took over the reins of Duncker Guild; Recker was vice-chairman of the Hilltop Party; and Jesse Eads worked on campus problems as Campus Y co-chairman.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Sigma Phi Epsilon returned to Washington University's campus this winter, after an absence of seven years. To start the new chapter on its way, on January 15 school officials, national fraternity officers, and local alumni gathered for the charter banquet. Highlighting the chapter's social events was the Lonely Hearts Ball, a formal dance given February 18.

Stray Greeks

The Society of Stray Greeks was founded on the Washington U. campus October 21, 1948. The purpose of the organization is to promote fraternity relationships, good fellowship, and higher scholastic attainments, and to provide an organization for members of fraternities who have no affiliation on Washington University's campus. The Society has been recognized by the Inter-Fraternity Council, and it is striving to become known to other campus organizations by participating in a variety of school activities.

Sigma Nu

A well rounded and successful year for Sigma Nu. Under the leadership of President Joe Moquin, such notables as Jim Jones, Co-chairman of the Student Senate, and Bob Borntraeger of the I.F.C. wheeled their way around the campus to give Sigma Nu their quota of keys and honors. Aside from politics, the various social events of the year proved highly entertaining as the brothers cavorted at the "not fashionable but fun" Crum Hop, the annual Christmas Dance, and the miscellaneous orgies at the miscellaneous places. Twenty-three men under the guiding hand of Bill Hedley composed the vicious pledge class . . . these men showed themselves equally adept at leading and loving. With Duetsch, Clodfelder, Stocker, Jones, and Vogts as the famous football lettermen of Sigma Nu, the year really turned out to be well rounded and successful.

Zeta Beta Tau

Alpha Xi Chapter opened its twenty-sixth year at Washington U. with the usual hubbub of rush week and the pledging of seventeen men. Among the outstanding events of the first semester were the pledge dance, Western party, Christmas party for twenty underprivileged boys, and the Parents' dinner. Second semester brought formal weekend, the annual Fathers' and Sons' Award banquet ,and the June formal, with smaller affairs and stags interspersed. The chapter was presented a silver trophy for participation in community affairs at the National convention celebrating the 50th Anniversary of Z.B.T. Big wheels included Don Kramer - Hillel president, Ed Salzman - Homecoming committee, Lou Kohn - "W" Club Secretary, Jack Minner - I.F.C. treasurer, "Peewee" Margulis - J.V. football-basketball manager, besides representatives on Quirk, Hatchet, Student Life, Thyrsus, Quad Show, and in the Pre-Med Honorary.

Delta Sigma Delta

Delta Sigma Delta, one of Washington's three dental fraternities, returned to its full status last fall by pledging twenty-three men. The active strength of the fraternity now consists of thirty-two prospective dentists. Although the fraternity stresses scholarship, Delta Sigs have enjoyed a complete social calendar, the year's highlight being the Pledge Dance at the Congress Hotel. Bi-weekly meetings led by Student Council President Jack Rose, feature lectures by professional men on some of the higher aspects of dentistry. Taking class honors were Delta Sigs, Jack Rose, Reuel Vannen, and Norman Veda. Hadley Hasemeier gained athletic honors on the varsity basketball team.

Delta Theta Phi

Delta Theta Phi, legal professional fraternity, was founded in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1913, and has a national membership of about 30,000. A chapter can only be founded in a law school which is approved by the American Bar Association. Prominent alumni of this national group include Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, Calvin Coolidge, Clinton Anderson, and Aloys P. Kaufmann. Functions of the Benton Senate Chapter at Washington University include the awarding of cups and keys to outstanding men in the top fifteen per cent of the Law School. An underprivileged child was sponsored for summer camp last year, and the group instigated and organized the drive for "Bundles for Germany." Meetings of Delta Theta Phi, held at various hotels in the city, have prominent lawyers, business men, and members of the F.B.I. as speakers. Socially, the organization offers its members dances, picnics, and barbecues.

Alsmeyer, Stevenson, Hughes, Cook, Mason, Lay, Marshall, Macrum, Cool, Clegg, Zirkel, Shepherd.

Alpha Chi Omega

This was a big year in Alpha Chi. Rush week saw twenty-three pledges wearing the scarlet and olive-green. Bridge in the room, social events, activities and studies kept us busy all year. There was a pledge dance at Student Center and a bang-up winter formal at the Statler. We started off the year copping the big silver cup for first prize with our Merry-go-round Homecoming float. Carol Thiele and Lois Cook dashed back and forth to Freshmen Commission meetings. Janey Martin, head gal for Chimes, and Arden Mueller sold directories all year long. Carol Thiele and Doris Austin added scholastic honors with their pins from Alpha Lambda Delta. Mortar Board member, Betty Knickmeyer, our chapter guiding star, kept Pan-Hel rushing in good shape. All in all it was a terrific year which Alpha Chis will long remember.

First Row: Ruble (Sec.), Nartz (Pres.), Betz (V.-Pres.), Farmer. Second Row: Hilfiker, Petty, Gauch, Garvelman, Quigley, Virgen, Giebel, Hanchett, Arnold, Rambo, Beard. Third Row: Wantz, Giffen, Minges, Doepple, Backs, Stevenson, Altvater, Spruss, Doerbaum, Karras.

"We're all good sisters, each one the other's friend" has been the theme song of every member of Alpha Xi Delta since its founding on this campus in 1929. Under the able leadership of Audrey Nartz, the girls of the double blue and gold initiated the year with their annual fall house party, soon followed by the "Sweetheart" pledge dance at Candlelight House. Jeanne Quigley carried on as Red Cross motor corps chairman, while Ellie Ruble feverishly jotted down all the Pan-Hel decisions in her secretary's notebook. Elaine Doerbaum upheld the scholastic standards of Alpha Xi as vice-president of Alpha Lambda Delta. The winter formal in the Ivory Room and finally the spring dinner dance climaxed a wonderful year for Alpha Xi.

Delta

In the inspiring setting of snow-capped mountains and pine trees at Banff Springs Hotel in Canada, Tri Delt held its 60th anual convention. Our vice-president, Paula Barthell, represented Delta Phi Chapter and brought back many new ideas to start off the new year with a bang. Will we ever forget? . . . The dinner dance with sweet music and wonderful food . . . Carol Hickey initiated into Alpha Lambda Delta . . . The Pansy Breakfast to which all pinned or engaged girls on campus are invited . . . The wonderful surprises of pinnings and engagements . . . Our president, Nan Jackson, chosen for Mortar Board . . . Terry Schrieber initiated into Tau Pi Epsilon Pi . . . The House Party with sunburn and mosquito bites . . . Wonderful memories all.

Fifth Row: Bleikamp, Hammer, Jaudis, Young, Henderson, Heyne, Wolf, Tiarks, Ulvang, Lindauer, Brinkmeyer, Diesel.

Delta Gamma

They're active, these D.G.'s. Like Dorothy Hanpeter, Pres. of W.R.A. . . . Shirley Oswald, Treasurer of Pan-Hellenic and Co-Class Editor of Hatchet with Marge McCown . . . Liz Hope dividing her time as Assistant Editor of Hatchet and Exchange Editor of Quirk . . . Carol Wolf as Corresponding Secretary of Student Senate . . . Doris Rueckert as Co-Chairman of the "Y" Campus Affairs Area, and Jean Claire Bentrup as Co-Editor of BEAR FACTS. Mortar Board boasts of Marie Prange, President, and members Dorothy Hanpeter, Marge McCown, Shirley Oswald, and Shirley Shaughnessy. Chimes includes Liz Hope as Vice-President and Claudie Tichenor. Freshman Commission claims Harriet Wunderlich, Jean Claire Bentrup as Secretary and Moir Brown who was also chosen for Alpha Lambda Delta.

First Row: Blanke, Lipcin, Sareva Rubin (Sec.), Kranzburg (Pres.), Bernstein (V.-Pres.). Mehler. Second Row: E. Loeb, Rechter, Boxer, Polishuk, Solar, Grodnick.

Gamma Rho

Rushing was climaxed by a dessert dinner held in the Gamma Rho room. After this successful beginning our social season got under way with supper parties given for and by the pledges. The highlight of the fall season was a formal dinner dance given Thanksgiving Eve at the Sheraton Hotel. Pledges were initiated and joined us in giving a bang-up George Washington's Birthday Party at Student Center. Elections — new officers — and then inauguration combined with our Fathers' and Mothers' Banquet. The year's partying was closed with a spring formal and midnight supper at Meadowbrook Country Club. On the more serious side, we took pride in Muriel Kranzberg, our president, who was awarded with a year's scholarship for her clever illustrations of a children's history book. Peggy Grosberg was elected secretary of the sophomore class. Sarita and Elaine Loeb were acclaimed for their skill on the tennis courts. And so good-bye to an all around successful year.

Gamma Phi Beta

Gamma Phis proudly step up and pass in review; for if we remember correctly there were: Phi chapter playing hostess to the 75th Gamma Phi Beta International Convention last summer . . . 24 pledges . . . Young "the Whip" in the gavel-seat . . . Rita Poole presiding over A.W.S. . . . B. J. Berger and Marabeth Owens sporting F.C. pins . . . Shirley Hendricks taking Senate minutes and vending Chimes . . . Pinky's sweet words to the pledges . . . Tess Kerber and Ginny Rau, "Big Time" hoofers . . . Quad Show principles Mary Lee Hannah and Pat Broeder (of Thyrsus fame) . . . Joan LaRock, Captain of the ROTC Ball, Trina Heffernan, Special Maid in Homecoming Court . . . The Christmas formal . . . the Romeo-Juliet Ball . . . we'll not forget the memories of the best year yet!

Independent Women's Association

Since the early thirties the Independent Women's Association, which is open to all unaffiliated women on campus, has been active in welfare projects, athletic competition, and social affairs. This year I.W.A. became a member of the National Student's Association and inaugurated a sale of campus Christmas cards. The organization is proud of the record of its TB Pin sellers who led those of all other groups. Along with our two formal dances, monthly supper parties, Christmas luncheon, and spring banquet, we enjoyed working on our Thurtene carnival booth, participating in the W.R.A. intramural sports program, and having informal get-togethers with I.M.A.

Fourth Row: Gray, Copp, Behrens, Stark, Stout, Payne, Nesbitt, Moehlenbrock, Miller, Thompson, Hellerud, Dille.

Kappa Alpha Theta

In 1906 the Alpha Iota chapter was founded at Washington University when fourteen girls were initiated as its charter members. Meetings were held in Brookings Hall and dues were fifty cents a month. In 1948 the changes were marked, and it was full speed ahead . . . as Mary Betty Meyersieck displayed capable leadership in the role of president . . . Millie and Jean Norwine, Theta sisters, won the Badminton Tournament . . . Ann Williams became maid to Homecoming Queen . . . as Betty Reid and Janet Ames served on Mortar Board . . . Jane Olmstead co-chairmaned Campus Y and Sue Siegel held the job of social chairman of the Student Center . . . as Zoe Maginity played Barbara Allen in DARK OF THE MOON . . . a great year of fun and activity with the Thetas.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

Twenty-eight years ago the Kappa key made its first appearance on the Washington University campus. At the beginning of this year Kappas honored their twenty-two new pledges with a dance and continued their social functions with supper meetings, a house party, and a formal dance at Christmas. At the Homecoming Dance, Kappa was represented by Patty Noonan, maid of honor, and Hazel Finley brought further honors to Kappa as Honorary Colonel of the R.O.T.C. Military Ball. Eight members in WUMS show that Kappa is really in the swim, and further proof may be seen in the swimming cup which they won last spring. Kappa versatility is shown by participation in Quad Show, intramural sports, Thyrsus, and Y activities. As for honoraries, Kappa is represented in Freshman Commission, Chimes, and Mortar Board. Kappas still take time out to play bridge and do a little studying, last spring winning the bridge and scholarship cups.

Pi Beta Phi

Established on campus in 1907, Pi Phi arrows have directed their aim to both scholastic and activity leadership on campus. On campus were Georgia Dunbar, Bebe Elleard, Betty Moore, Ginny Reddish, and Betty Tracy in Freshman Commission; Dee Kriegshauser, Pat Krueger, Barbara Smith, and Betty Stake in Chimes; and Polly Andrews, Jane Campbell and Ginny Rodriguez on Mortar Board. As Student Senate Co-Chairman was Marge Ritter, while on the athletic side Grete Rice was president of WUMS. Pat Krueger ably directed Pan-Hellenic. Finding their mark in activities off campus also, this year the Pi Phi's led a Girl Scout Troop at the St. Louis Training School. In the social limelight were Betty Stake, Sweetheart of Sigma Chi, and Marge Ritter, Honorary Major of the R.O.T.C.'s.

Phi Mu

Celebrating their 25th anniversary on the Washington University campus, Phi Mu has completed another very successful year. During this quarter of a century, the chapter has seen many honors and awards come to it. Friendly Phi Mu's could be found at all school affairs and in all campus activities, in which they took an active and lively interest. The pledge class, entering into the spirit of Phi Mu, aso participated in many activities. The chapter was led this year by Shirley Berlinger, president; Dottie Jo Eicks, vice-president; Kay Hudson, pledge trainer; Virginia Schumacher, secretary; and Claire Kunz, treasurer. This year's social activities provided fun for all with many delightful dances, parties, and cozy's.

Zeta Tau Alpha

Zeta Tau Alpha, on the W.U. campus since 1931, can look back over another happy year. One of our biggest thrills came when Jackie Gilmore was crowned Queen of the Beaux Arts Ball. Other red-letter events included pledge dances, Christmas party, and father-daughter banquet. We were especially proud of Jinx Falkenberg on the Y cabinet; Laurel Mae Schramm, Pat Goggin, and Laura Swain, Thyrsus members; and Mary Ann Jeude, W.R.A. basketball manager. Zetas will long remember those hilarious houseparties, complete with snow, at Pat Goggin's . . . Vicki Higgins, pleading, "Please buy a Quirk" . . . Anabelle Lewis and Carol Sagner banging away on piano duets . . . Sue Perkins and her Texas war whoops . . . Ella Mae Eickmann trying in vain to park her car in the crowded McMillan lot . . . and those unforgettable bridge games in the room.

QUADWRANGLES

Don't Stop Now!

We humbly dedicate this section to Scrubby, one of nature's noblemen, and a friend to man, a friendly beast who is always ready to lift a leg in salutation to a fellow student.

We further dedicate this section to the many wheels whom Tom Tebbetts has immortalized on the following pages. Wheels are distinct type of flora and fauna, peculiar not only to the campus but also to anyone who looks at them. Wheels are readily identifiable by a constant list to port, caused by an overload of honorary keys on their groaning key-chains. These trinkets are a never-ending source of inspiration to their bearers, and seem to be the main reason for the existence of activities. To this small band of people, who continue to make life difficult for the administration and more complex for the student body, we too lift our leg in salutation. May their life in the cruel outer world be ever as sweet as it has been on the Washington U. campus, and may their keys dangle as gracefully from their watchfobs as they do now from their key-chains. Let the world know that they have made weighty deliberation in Student Senate, and let it further be known that they are the elect of the campus. They have been chosen the most likely to keep Balfour Jewelry Company out of the red . . . forever and ever . . . ah wheels!

AFTER the rally, after the game, or after the show, when it's a question of where to go, it's Medart's all the way. In the Great Hall the gang congregates to talk over Rawling's latest touchdown, or the Beaux Arts Ball, and nibble at crisp, golden french fries, and juicy hamburgers. The warm, homey atmosphere, the knowledge that there'll always be somebody from Washington to wave at, and the melt-in-your-mouth masterpieces of the cooker's art gives Big Bill's the kind of cheeriness that makes you want to come . . . and come back.

"A GOOD DAY'S" work requires a good night's sleep. If you haven't been sleeping as well as you should — try this:

Tonight and every night just before retiring, drink a glass of fresh pasteurized milk. It soothes the nerves and induces sound, natural sleep. Remember, a glass of milk at bedtime!
